The grant is for approximately $1.2 million and is to be used as venture money, as explained Friday by Cathy Oliver, Maryland State Board of Education's assistant superintendent for career and technology. Oliver said the funds are to be given out over three years and are to be used by the local system to set up a school-to-careers program with local businesses and individuals. Vent said the local business community has been "wonderful" in its response to and cooperation with the already-established program. However, a large majority of high school students cannot participate in the program as there is not enough funding for it without this grant, Vent said. The goal of the program is to allow every interested student a career experience of some kind. The three counties have decided that if they get the grant, the monies will be divided equally between them.

The grant request of the three counties was completed in draft form and presented to the local board of education on Aug. 13, at which time concerns were raised by board members on several issues. Basically, board members Patrick Riley, Dale Carpenter, Rodney Durst, and President Charlotte Sebold expressed their worry over local control of the program, over the use of federal monies, and over the possibility of required matching funds. Board member Hannah Sincell stated that she was not concerned about these issues, saying that "everything we do has big government in it. This is nothing new. It is our tax dollar and this is just one way of getting it back."

The majority of the board did not hold that view, however, and did not endorse the grant proposal at the regular meeting. In the special session Friday, the discussion extended beyond three hours as board members explored the grant proposal's costs, possible consequences, and benefits. Members of the local business community were present at the meeting to support the grant pursuit, and Mrs. Oliver detailed the state's purposes and goals.

In response to the majority of the board's concern that the local education board was to be "left out of the loop" and would not have control over the local labor market team - a component that the grant proposal calls for - Oliver said the state has left it completely up to the local jurisdictions to decide how to appoint and manage their own teams. In response to Riley's question as to why the education board was not specifically mentioned, Oliver said the state had tried to be very non-prescriptive in the outlining of the program.

"We didn't want to make a laundry list for the local areas, stating that you must have this person and this person and this person," Oliver said. She explained that she currently serves as the head of the state labor market team and that it is currently "a very informal group." Neither the state nor local market teams will be working in a directive capacity, she said.

"These teams are required to work with the local board of education. They cannot direct the board of education, they cannot spend funds without the board's consent," Oliver said. "We strongly suggest having a member of the Garrett County Board of Education on the local team. We would certainly never expect the local team to attempt to override the board, but this program simply cannot be just the responsibility of the school system. The team structure is designed to supplement, not supplant. There is absolutely no intention in the state plan to remove any authority from the local boards. In fact, we are looking for cooperation."

The local educators have been developing such a program for several years, and in fact have been leaders in the state on program development and implementation. While the program is growing, the need for funds has also become an issue. An attempt to obtain grant monies last year was unsuccessful, even though the local program was evolved to a point at or beyond other counties. The second round of grant awards will occur this fall, with applications for this money due on Sept. 3. A new stipulation of the state for this round of funding was that Garrett had to join with the two other counties Western Maryland and present a combined grant proposal. This request was made this summer, allowing the local board as well as school officials from the other two counties, the Hagerstown Junior College, the community colleges of Allegany and Garrett, and leaders at Frostburg State University just two months to compile a joint application that would meet the needs of all involved parties.

The grant is for approximately $1.2 million and is to be used as venture money, as explained Friday by Cathy Oliver, Maryland State Board of Education's assistant superintendent for career and technology. Oliver said the funds are to be given out over three years and are to be used by the local system to set up a school-to-careers program with local businesses and individuals. Vent said the local business community has been "wonderful" in its response to and cooperation with the already-established program. However, a large majority of high school students cannot participate in the program as there is not enough funding for it without this grant, Vent said. The goal of the program is to allow every interested student a career experience of some kind. The three counties have decided that if they get the grant, the monies will be divided equally between them.

The grant request of the three counties was completed in draft form and presented to the local board of education on Aug. 13, at which time concerns were raised by board members on several issues. Basically, board members Patrick Riley, Dale Carpenter, Rodney Durst, and President Charlotte Sebold expressed their worry over local control of the program, over the use of federal monies, and over the possibility of required matching funds. Board member Hannah Sincell stated that she was not concerned about these issues, saying that "everything we do has big government in it. This is nothing new. It is our tax dollar and this is just one way of getting it back."

The majority of the board did not hold that view, however, and did not endorse the grant proposal at the regular meeting. In the special session Friday, the discussion extended beyond three hours as board members explored the grant proposal's costs, possible consequences, and benefits. Members of the local business community were present at the meeting to support the grant pursuit, and Mrs. Oliver detailed the state's purposes and goals.

In response to the majority of the board's concern that the local education board was to be "left out of the loop" and would not have control over the local labor market team - a component that the grant proposal calls for - Oliver said the state has left it completely up to the local jurisdictions to decide how to appoint and manage their own teams. In response to Riley's question as to why the education board was not specifically mentioned, Oliver said the state had tried to be very non-prescriptive in the outlining of the program.

"We didn't want to make a laundry list for the local areas, stating that you must have this person and this person and this person," Oliver said. She explained that she currently serves as the head of the state labor market team and that it is currently "a very informal group." Neither the state nor local market teams will be working in a directive capacity, she said.

"These teams are required to work with the local board of education. They cannot direct the board of education, they cannot spend funds without the board's consent," Oliver said. "We strongly suggest having a member of the Garrett County Board of Education on the local team. We would certainly never expect the local team to attempt to override the board, but this program simply cannot be just the responsibility of the school system. The team structure is designed to supplement, not supplant. There is absolutely no intention in the state plan to remove any authority from the local boards. In fact, we are looking for cooperation."

Oliver also addressed the

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

TED RISSELL WINS SCOT A FLEET RACE; OLDER SAILORS TAKE HEART

by Dan Muss

Winds were light to moderate, out of the northwest on Saturday and southeast on Sunday. The best wind was in the slot between Thousand Acres and Turkey Neck both days and that was where the racing was.

In the first race on Saturday neither Ted Rissell nor I had a crew, so we sailed together; he has better knees than I for hopping across the centerboard trunk so I got to skipper his new Flying Scot. It is a honey of a boat and we got a great start but on the first windward leg I saw all of the fleet take an unfavorable tack and I could not understand why. I found out. They had picked up better air than we had and soon were slugging it out with the other boats at the back of the fleet. I think I finished next to last.

On Sunday the wind died right at the Flying Scot A fleet start. We were all bobbing around when the wind came up at the port end of the line and Ted Rissell was there. He stayed in either the 1,2, or 3 position for most of the race and finished first. He beat such crackerjack sailors as Harry Carpenter, Jack Carpenter, and John Meredith, we older guys were very proud of Ted and his crew Kathy Rubel (his daughter).

In that race on Sunday we were sailing downwind with spinnakers up. Tom Wolffe, with his dad Frank as crew, were overtaking us rapidly. They attempted to pass us to windward. We luffed up quickly and Tom did not respond in time and his boom touched our starboard shroud constituting a foul. Wolffe did a 720-degree penalty turn as penance and continued the race. (In sailboat racing an overtaking boat is the burdened boat and must keep clear. If the overtaking boat passes to leeward, the overtaken boat must maintain its normal course to the next mark. But if the overtaking boat attempts to pass to windward, the overtaken boat may head up closer to the wind as fast as it wishes and the overtaking boat must still keep clear. This is called "luffing.")

In the first race on Saturday, Jessica Potts, who has been winning consistently in the Laser B fleet, came in second overall. She beat some good Laser A fleet sailors. See you in A fleet next year, Jessica.

PARALYMPIC GAMES RING CLOSE TO HOME - Garrett County had a link with last week's Paralympic Games in Atlanta, Ga., when Austin Hanson, son of Marie and Gary Barraclough of Topeka, Kan., and the nephew of Donna Werdebaugh, Oakland, competed for the U.S. Boccia team as the top-ranked ramp player, where he finished fifth in the world in singles competition and fourth in the world in pairs. Hanson, 22, joined more than 3,500 physically disabled athletes from 121 nations who competed in 19 events designed for paraplegics, amputees, the visually impaired, and individuals with cerebral palsy. Austin developed cerebral palsy as an infant, and is unable to control his muscles and his speech. He cannot operate a wheelchair with any limb, so he uses a joystick which he pushes with his face. With assistance from the Capper Foundation, which helped him develop physically, Austin learned about boccia (a game played by throwing, kicking, or releasing a ball down a chute in an attempt to land six red or six blue balls closer than one's opponent to the white target ball), and over the years has perfected his game skills by using a rod connected to a headstrap to direct the balls down a chute. Six weeks before his trip to Atlanta, he competed in the Pan Am Games in Argentina, a major stepping stone to the Paralympic Games, thanks to Team One and Rigidply Rafters (two local businesses that helped sponsor him in the competition). From those games he emerged the nation's number one-ranked ramp boccia player, which allowed him to compete against the world's best in Atlanta.

Area Speedway Review

Somerset County Speedway

Sixty-six cars competed at the Somerset County Speedway on Thursday, August 22. Racing was held as Thursday's grandstand attraction at the Somerset County Fair.

Lonnie McKenzie of Meyersdale received a trip to victory lane in the "C" Main as his birthday present. McKenzie was followed by Carl Arnold, Chuck Bailey, and Mike Emerick. Bill Nolf and Dennis Sell finished second and third. However, an after-race inspection proved both cars illegal and the remaining finishers were each moved up.

Duane Horning of Meyersdale was the winner of the "B" Main. Starting in the back of the pack didn't stop Horning from capturing the checkered. Behind Horning was Don Shaffer, Craig Breegle, Doug Barcley, Jon Tressler, Jack Dively, Greg Cornell Sr., Doug Kimmel, Eric Stayrook, Henry Bockes, Mike Jones, Dan Delaney, Roger Shaulis, Clair Duppstadt, and Brad Reckner.

Jamie Kemp, who has been visiting victory lane on a regular basis, captured his third "A" Main win in three weeks. This brings Kemp's total to five "A" Main wins this season. Dwane Shultz, Bob Davis, Greg Cornell Jr., Bobby Smith, Doug Shaffer, John Valentine, Bob Singo, Denny Rounds, Bart Tressler, Roman Yoder, Jon Friend, and Brad Dickey followed Kemp.

Ed Kemp of Confluence was the Pro Stock feature winner. Kemp started the race in third position and took the lead after Quint Milburn spun out and then headed for the pits. Behind Kemp was Pro Stock points leader Brad Brown. Wrapping up the field was Tom Humberson, Doc Donaldson, Don Nicholson, Duane Folk, Mike Barndt, Kevin Bender, Pete Sanner, and Craig Smith.

Street Stock heats went to Bobby Smith, Dwane Shultz, John Friend, Dan Stockwell, and Jamie Kemp. Stock heats were won by Tom Humberson and Quint Milburn.

The next race at the speedway will be on Sunday, September 1 at 7 p.m. This race will be the final point race for the 1996 season and will include an open invitation to Semi-late cars and drivers. The 1996 racing season will wrap up on Sunday, September 8, with the Championship Race plus Semi-lates.

Elkins Motor Speedway

The Season Championship scheduled at Elkins Motor Speedway was rained out Saturday. Double points and track champions will be decided at the Mountaineer 1000, a $1,000 to win special for semi-lates on September 28, and at the 31st Annual Mt. State Forest Festival Invitational on October 5 paying late models as much as $7,250 to win with lap sponsorship.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Season Championship Night on Friday at Interstate 79 Speedway started out hot and muggy with the heat races going off like clock work. Then as the feature races began, heavy rains came delaying the feature events until Sunday evening when points champions were decided.

The season finale is Saturday, August 31, when the STARS late models run the Mountain State Invitational/Mark Balzano Memorial for $7,500 to win. Also on the racing card will be the McDonald McModifieds, dwarf cars, pure stocks, and 4 cylinders. Gates open at 4 p.m. with time trials at 6:30.

Senior Bowling League To Start

The Senior Citizens Bowling League of Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland will begin its winter league schedule on Thursday, Sept. 4, according to Arleigh Hanser, league president.

Senior citizens who have already registered for the league are asked to report to Par-Matt Lanes at noon on the above date. Bowling will begin following a short organizational meeting. Persons with questions about the league may contact Hauser at 334-9234.

Ryscavage Gives "Outstanding Cooperation" Rating

General Services, and Timothy Boone, roofing consultant, also participated in this segment of the tour.

The commissioners had approved a request from the education board to fund the local share of the roof restoration projects in May 1996.

"The roof projects are the first projects for which the county has been successful in securing systemic funding from the state," Ryscavage said. He identified two significant issues regarding the roof projects.

"Costs associated with restoring these particular roofs, rather than totally replacing them, has resulted in a 100% savings for the state and local funding agencies. If the roofs had to be replaced rather than restored, the costs would have more than doubled."

The superintendent also noted that state systemic funds are providing 70% of the total costs.

The second segment of the tour took place at Southern High School, where the commissioners saw work in progress on three areas. These included the connecting corridor between the main building and the vo-tech area, the gymnasium, and a corridor and renovation of the lobby area leading to the gymnasium.

On this portion of the tour, Ryscavage was assisted by Harold Swauger, assistant in maintenance and operations. During the inspection of the partially completed connecting corridor to the vo-tech area, Swauger explained the importance of completing the project in the near future.

"The corridor foundation and partial walls are beginning to deteriorate at a rapid rate and unless this project is completed soon, we'll have to start over," he said. Ryscavage explained that the corridor was not completed during the school renovation in 1992 because of lack of funding. Ryscavage also identified the completion of the corridor as a top priority of the education board "primarily because of student safety and to protect the initial investment that went into the foundation," he said.

In addition to reviewing the connecting corridor, the commissioners inspected the gymnasium, the gymnasium lobby area, and discussed the board of education's plan to construct an auxiliary gymnasium at Northern High School.

Ryscavage remarked that he was "most appreciative for the interest that the board of commissioners has demonstrated and for the support they are providing to public education." He said that he would like to see a continuation of the "outstanding cooperation" between the board of education and the commissioners. Ryscavage also extended an invitation to members of the community to come to the board office during regular business hours and examine the proposed five-year Capital Improvement Plan.

Fuller.

With assistance from federal and state agencies, Garrett County has been designated an alpha test site for a comprehensive, affordable, and self-sustaining community-based telecommunications system featuring state-of-the-art technologies from Hewlett-Packard, VTEL, Ascend, and Galacticom, according to Fuller.

GCC's president, Dr. Steve Herman, noted that GCNET is "as important as to the county as other community infrastructures like highways and utilities," and Fuller reiterated Herman's words by saying it is "no different than a gas or telephone company."

GCNET uses telephone lines which include lines dedicated to GCC's interactive video lab with Allegany Community College and Hagerstown Junior College, and lines for its compressed video lab. There is also a network hub and several rooms filled with various computers and operating systems.

"Garrett County has the honor of being the first community in the nation to have an installation of this kind," Herman said, "and I believe many will come to see what we have accomplished here."

A DAY OFF FEELS REFRESHING, BUT A MORNING OFF SPENT WITH US AT THE OAK PARK CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN IS REFRESHING AND FULFILLING!

Everyone enjoys a day off. For most of us, Sunday is a day when we can "kick back" and relax before the hectic pace of the coming week unfolds. Often Sunday means rising late from a deep sleep, a warm cup of coffee, and a leisurely reading of the newspaper. Those activities may be followed by brunch and a nap on the couch in front of a televised sporting event. But even though such a day can indeed be refreshing, it generally isn't one that gives fulfillment.

Fulfillment comes from taking an hour on Sunday morning to spend in relaxing fellowship with people who care and support you. That's what we do best at Oak Park Church of the Brethren. Let us help you find fulfillment through the fellowship of others, a meaningful worship, and a message that prepares us for the week ahead. Come visit with us this Sunday and see what we mean.

board's concern over who would serve on the local market team, suggesting that the board appoint members.

"There is a lot of flexibility here. This program needs to fit local resources, local issues," she said. "And I suggest that you require the local team to have open meetings," she said, in response to Riley and Carpenter's concern that there was no stipulation that the team conduct public sessions.

"We want this money to be available to the state with as few strings as possible," Oliver said.

During the discussion, Sincell maintained her position that the numerous concerns of the other board members were unfounded. Several pointed comments were made by all four board members and one member of the audience in reference to Sincell's comment that she had not read the entire 67-page grant request draft.

"I'm sorry if that concerns you," Sincell said. "But I honestly feel that your attitude is that our whole education system is out to do our children in, and not to help them. I could've read that whole document, but I would bet that any one of you couldn't remember everything that's in there. And all these things that raise a red flag to you people - they just don't raise a red flag to me. I look at life in an entirely different way. And I know that Jerry Ryscavage and Jo Ann Vent would not deliberately start something that's going to damage our children.

"The deadline is Sept. 3. Things can be modified and changed in that document until that time. The difference is, I trust Jo Ann to do that," Sincell said.

"I think she has to hear our concerns in order to make those changes," Sebold said.

The only board member who appeared to not strongly support the program itself was Durst. The others maintained it was not the program they had concerns with, but the use of federal funds.

"It sounds good in theory - that we can all take a little thing and try it out," Durst said. "But who's to guarantee that when you get out of school if you want to be a teacher, that there's a job for you? We can't possibly cover every educational and every work opportunity in school. I mean we don't have to have a program and a thing for every little opportunity out there because, frankly, out in the world things change. I never thought I'd be a postal employee - never in my wildest dreams. I was going to be a cop, but then this opportunity came along and I took it instead. But you see, life changes, and if we're trying to build something here where people choose their career and are educated in their career and they're never going to change and everything's fine and dandy - well, it doesn't work that way . . . we can't possibly give everybody those opportunities."

"But we can certainly try," Sincell rejoined.

David Moe, head of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, urged the board to pursue the funds.

"I think all your concerns have been addressed here," Moe said.

"This isn't a group of paranoid board members," Carpenter said to the 30-some persons in attendance. "We don't need college degrees to make these decisions. Each and every one of us is a very intelligent, very concerned group of individuals who took the time to read this 67-page document, not just once but maybe twice."

After more discussion, Ryscavage suggested that the board accept the grant proposal with the conditions that some of the language be more specific as to the local board's involvement, as well as stating that through this program, students are given the opportunity but are not forced to partake in a career experience during their high school years. With the new language, the local board will be given the role of appointing the local market team members.

The board then voted unanimously (Sincell had left the meeting before the vote because of a prior engagement) to go ahead with the grant pursuit.

Randolph Lake Notes Labor Day Events Schedule

Labor Day weekend activities at Jennings Randolph Lake will include nature films presented in the Robert W. Craig Campground amphitheater beginning at 9 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 31, and again Sunday, Sept. 1. There is no admission charge.

The ranger staff will conduct free tours of the intake control tower from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday. Visitors for the tower tours are asked to meet at the West Virginia Overlook, which is also the home of the "Waffle Rock," a unique geological feature with a geometric pattern resembling a giant waffle. It was created by erosion and weathering over a period of more than 300 million years.

Persons desiring more information about the weekend activities may call 304-355-2346 or 301-359-3861, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

READY TO JAM at Bandfest '96, a fund-raising event slated for this Sunday, Sept. 1, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds are the bands Boathouse, pictured above, and South Branch Bluegrass, below. Boathouse, performing since 1990 in many locations in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania, is a three-piece acoustic group whose popularity is growing rapidly. The band, which plays a variety of music, plans to cut a recording of original work in the near future. The type of music played by the band pictured below is described by the name of the group, which has been together for 15 years with virtually no change in membership. From the Romney, W.Va., area, the band plays two-, three-, and four-part harmonies with banjo, mandolin, guitar, and stand-up and electric bass. They play contemporary bluegrass, mixed with their own renditions of old standards, as well as some original material. Members include Jimmy Kountz, Tim Southerly, Jody Southerly, and John Arnold III. The group has shared the stage with artists such as George Jones, Randy Travis, Seldom Scene, Lonesome River Band, and Carolina. Their first cassette/CD, "It's About Time," was released in July 1994 and a second album is expected to be released this winter. South Branch Bluegrass played to a sell-out crowd at Garrett Community College in October 1994. Another band slated to perform is Traffic Jam, a local classic rock group that organized in Westernport about two years ago. They play tunes from Lynyrd Skynyrd to AC/DC and Hootie and the Blowfish. The fairgrounds will open at 11 a.m. Sunday and music will get underway shortly thereafter. Food, including barbecued chicken, will be available. Admission for the entire day is $5, with all proceeds benefiting the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

Bear Creek Church Celebrating 50th Anniversary

The Bear Creek Church of the Brethren, located on Brethren Church Road in Accident, will be celebrating the 150th anniversary of its founding on Sunday, Sept. 8. The first organized congregation of the Brethren in Western Maryland established in 1846, and has been a constant presence in the Accident community since that time.

Special activities planned for Sunday will include regularly scheduled Sunday School at 9:30 a.m., a church service at 10:30 a.m., a covered dish lunch at noon, and a special service at 1:30 p.m.

Music will be provided by Frank and Helen West, the Accident Community Choir, the Accident Concert Band, and District Executive Minister Peter Leddy.

Special speakers will include Pastor William Shimer, who served the congregation from 1969 to 1994, and Pastor Don Shank, who served the church in 1951. Memorabilia and pictures will be on display and information on the history of the Bear Creek Church will be available.

The newly appointed interim pastor, Tom Wegman, and the Bear Creek congregation have invited everyone to attend any or all of the activities planned.

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., will sponsor training classes for volunteer caregivers, beginning Thursday, Sept. 5, in the Board Room of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The classes will be held each Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. through October 31.

Topics and instructors include: Listening Skills, by Pastor Greg Cummings; Working with the Volunteer Coordinator, by Ida Maust; Physical Therapy Skills; AIDS Awareness, by Chris Delaney, R.A.E.; Family Dynamics, by Patricia Yoder, MSCP; Universal Precautions, Infection Control, Documentation, Confidentiality, Personal Care, and Signs and Symptoms of the Dying Person, taught by Molly Lilly, BSN, director of clinical services; and Hospice in Review, presented by Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice.

The class will travel to Grantsville to tour the Newman Funeral Home and learn about funeral arrangements. A program on Children and Death will be presented, and Jane Sealing, director of bereavement, will lead a program on Hospice Bereavement Services. Shirley Fitzwater, of First United National Bank & Trust, will present a program on Legal and Financial Planning.

"Hospice is extending an invitation to all to become part of the Hospice team by being a volunteer caregiver," Mrs. Butscher said. "Participants will find working with the terminally ill and their families to be very rewarding. Doing good for others is doing good for oneself."

MSP To Patrol Roadways Closely Over Labor Day

Maryland State Police Superintendent Colonel David B. Mitchell announced Wednesday there will be more than an additional 60 troopers on Maryland's roadways this Labor Day weekend as part of the Department's continuing commitment to keep Maryland's highways safe.

Maryland State Police will step up enforcement efforts concentrating on drunk and drugged drivers, aggressive drivers, and speeders. Enforcement tactics will include several sobriety checkpoints planned across the state of Maryland throughout the Labor Day holiday. Operation C.A.R.E. (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) will also be in effect this holiday as several participating Maryland law enforcement agencies will step up enforcement and education on seatbelts and child safety seats.

"Our primary objective is to keep Maryland's highways safe," Colonel Mitchell said. "Additional troopers will be on Maryland's highways helping to ensure all motorists arrive safely at their destination."

The Department's active participation in the C.A.R.E. program is supplemented by the Special Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP) which provides federal grant money to local police departments and the Maryland State Police. The state police will focus their special traffic enforcement on aggressive drivers throughout the holiday weekend.

There were five fatalities in Maryland during the 1995 Labor Day weekend. The 1996 Labor Day holiday will begin at 6 p.m. on August 30 and end at midnight September 2.

MENSWEAR FASHIONS - SARTORIAL SOFTWEAR

The phrase "corporate casual" might once have been scorned as an oxymoron, but today, it's the basis for a slow, but steady revolution in menswear fashions. The sport suit has arrived, bridging the gap between the sport coat and the classic suit. These new suit interpretations appear in softer fabrics, including drapey wools, velvets and micro fibers, in solid, neat patterns including pinstripes and micro checks in black, gray, navy and beige-y taupe. Jacket and pants are meant to be worn together or to venture out on their own with other wardrobe pieces.

The newest Fridaywear renditions are more sartorial than the original khakis-and-knit-shirt interpretations. Today's well-dressed man Friday puts a sport coat over his shirt and tie... or mates a knit shirt to his classic suit... or invests in drapey suit separates. Textural contrasts form the basic for some exciting fashion mergers: worsted wool shirt, boucle vest, twill pants and corduroy jackets; velvet vest, satin shirt, worsted chenille jacket, and smooth worsted trousers.

This season's traditional suit is slim and trim. Jackets have narrower waists and defined shoulders; trousers, plain or with a flat front. The effect is urbane and relaxed; the overall construction is supple and lightweight. The fit and flexibility of many of these suits can be attributed to the bit of Lycra that lurks in the worsted. As men's clothing becomes more sportswear oriented, many menswear fashion experts predict that stretch is the wave of the future.

The banded shirt, in fabrications that include knits, worsted, cottons, and cotton blends, is giving the traditional shirt some stiff fashion competition. The latter looks freshest with a rounded spread collar and executed in satin stripes, dobbies, herringbones, mini checks, and heathers. For those who crave a more splendid impression, there are satin solids with pointed collars and tone-on-tone neck wear and shirt combinations.

When it comes to blue jeans, urban has gone suburban. The look is dark, stiff and loose fitting. The traditional 14½"-wide pant-leg has expanded to 16"-18". Big boots balance the wider look.

Westvaco Reports Third Quarter Sales, Earnings

Westvaco Corporation, a major manufacturer of paper, packaging and specialty chemicals, has reported fiscal 1996 third quarter and nine-month sales and earnings.

Sales for the third quarter ended July 31, 1996, were $758 million, an 11.3 percent decrease compared to the year earlier period. Sales for the first nine months of 1996 were $2.3 billion, down 5.6 percent compared to the first nine months of fiscal 1995.

Third quarter 1996 earnings were $44 million, or 43 cents per share, a 44 percent decrease from record 1995 third quarter earnings of $78 million, or 77 cents per share. Earnings for the first nine months of fiscal 1996 totaled $157 million, or $1.54 per share, representing an 18 percent decline from the $192 million, or $1.90 per share, earned during the first nine months of 1995. Earnings for the third quarter and first nine months of 1996 were reduced by six cents per share as the result of planned manufacturing improvements that temporarily interruped production at Westvaco's bleached board mill in Covington, Va., and unbleached paperboard mill in Tres Barras, Brazil.

John A Luke Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, noted that since last fall, the entire U.S. paper industry has faced "very challenging market conditions" because of a combination of factors. Demand for paper products weakened just as customers had accumulated unusually high product inventories and as new manufacturing capacity came on line.

"While demand has strengthened gradually through 1996, pressure on pricing, particularly for unbleached commodity products and certain coated printing paper grades, has continued through the third quarter," Luke said.

"When this downturn began, we stated that we did not expect our markets to dip into a lengthy slide such as we experienced in the early 1990s. That remains our view. We are now in the early stages of our fourth quarter, traditionally one of our stronger periods. Since the fourth quarter began, we have begun to see stronger order patterns in each of our business units, including those portions of the company that had maintained relatively stable performance earlier in the year."

Not a day's gone by we haven't cried.
We think about the times we spent together,
And if God would send you back, it could only be better.
We know we'll always have you in our hearts,
And of this family you'll always be a part.

Evening High School Offered By Local System

Evening High School, offered free of charge to county residents by the Garrett County Board of Education, is an alternative to the regular day school which provides students an opportunity to earn credit toward graduation. Evening High School should not be confused with the GED program which offers a diploma based on examination in the major subject areas.

Evening High School offers regular high school courses needed to meet graduation requirements. The local board of education -- approved curricula is followed. When students complete these courses, they receive credit the same as in day school. A regular Maryland High School diploma is awarded when all graduation requirements are completed. These students may participate in the graduation commencement ceremonies.

"Students attend Evening High School for many reasons," explained Maxine Miller, newly appointed director of secondary education, "Some students have left school early and now realize that they need a high school diploma to advance in jobs or to go on to college. Others who are still in high school attend day and evening classes because of schedule conflicts or because they need extra credit to graduate. Some students find it more convenient to retake in Evening High School a course they have previously failed rather than repeat it in day school, and there are some adults who attend as a motivation to keep their children in school until they graduate."

There is no age limit as long as the students are working toward their high school diplomas. Students must meet the graduation requirements that applied the year they first entered 9th grade. Courses are offered over a two or three year sequence for students needing 10th grade level classes or above.

Each subject area is offered one or two nights each week and classes usually start at 5:40 p.m., Miller said. Registration will be held at the high schools on September 9 and 10 from 7-9 p.m. Classes will be scheduled both at Southern High School and at Northern High School.

Students may attempt from one-half to five credits per year. Day students who need an extra credit to graduate may attend both day and evening school.

For information about Evening High School, a person may call his/her high school guidance office or the board of education at 334-8913 or 895-3163.

Antiques

Q. I have had this piece of silver for over 70 years. It is a box with a drawer containing a bottle in a holder. The drawer is lined with a pale green satin. The bottom is marked "James W. Tufts, Boston, Warranted, quadruple plate."

A. You have an unusual piece of American silver-plated ware. Sets for toilet stands were made from the 1870s to the 1890s. They held bottles and jars for cologne, toilet water and other necessities. Many different styles were made and offered for sale. The old ones are seldom found at antiques shows.

The stands were made to hold single bottles and often had a jewelry drawer. Stands were also made for several bottles, and some included a mirror, candelabra, flower vase and decorative figures. The glass bottles were made of many different colors.

Catalogs no longer listed the toilet stands by 1900. Today an elaborate stand like yours with figurines and bottles would sell for at least $500. James Tufts was a manufacturer in Boston and used the mark from 1875. Tufts died in 1902.

Q. My mother used to collect banana dishes. I have not been able to learn about them. I have a few of her dishes made of pressed clear glass. Can you tell me about them?

A. Bananas were first brought into the United States in 1804. They became a very popular fruit, and from 1865 to 1880 many banana dishes and stands were made of glass or pottery.

The banana stand looked like a cake stand, but the dish at the top of the stem was curved up on two sides. This made the ideal shaped dish to hold bananas. There were also special bowls long enough to hold an uncut banana. The special serving dishes for bananas were out of style by the turn of the century.

SPINAL CORD MIRACLE? Christopher Reeve predicted that a cure for spinal cord injuries would be found by the time we turned into the 21st century. And he just may be right.

Research on spinal cord injuries has been going on for years. Much of the work has been done in Veterans Administration hospitals where the largest number of paraplegics in the United States come for treatment. But, of course, it hasn't been confined to VA facilities. New York's Rockefeller University and New York University Hospitals have been conducting experiments to try to find ways to regenerate damaged spinal nerve tissue. Recently, the Karolinska Institute in Sweden was able to demonstrate success in re-establishing nerve links in rats with severed spinal cords. Not only were they able to get the severed nerve fibers to cross the gap between the severed halves of the cord, some function was also restored to the animals' limbs.

So far, the research has involved severed cords. However, much of the spinal cord injuries suffered by most Americans involves crushed, not cut cords. It's not known if this procedure will be helpful in these cases. The fact is, we're still a long way away from developing procedures for human beings. But this breakthrough could lead to other important findings that will eventually produce a successful spinal cord injury therapy.

UPDATE ON PARKINSON'S: A surgical procedure called a pallidotomy appears to be more effective in providing long-lasting relief from symptoms.

If you are interested in this for yourself or someone you know, you can get more information by contacting the Pallidotomy Program at Hermann Hospital (800-494-2662); the American Parkinson's Disease Association in Staten Island, N.Y. at (800-223-2732); and the National Parkinson Foundation in Miami, Fla., (800-327-4545).

Household Help
by John Amantea

Q. We recently bought a colonial home that is about 40 years old. It has five bedrooms and is full of windows. The bedroom windows are the double-hung type and the kitchen and a basement room have casement windows. Most of the windows are in decent shape except for a few frozen sashes and an inoperable casement window. The crank or handle on the casement also appears to be seized. Can you suggest some useful tips to remedy my problem?

A. I'm sure your colonial home is beautiful and spacious, but as with any old house, things will break or stop working. However, there certainly are remedies for your particular problem.

Let's start with those frozen window sashes that are stuck and will not open. Generally, a window that is rarely used and especially those that are painted shut, will give you this headache. Additionally, over the years, dirt and debris can clutter both tracks of your window and prevent it from opening. It won't hurt to check if any nails driven into the sash or anywhere else is the cause of your inoperable windows.

Begin by wedging a wide putty knife between the window frame and stop. With the use of a rubber mallet (only), carefully tap the putty knife in and repeat the process up and down the frame. If you succeed to partially open the window, jam a small piece of wood under the sash and try to raise it slowly. With metal or plastic tracks (or channels), apply a liberal amount of silicone spray down the tracks and let penetrate. Finally, after the window becomes operable again, you can paint the channels and later spread a thin coat of household paraffin. Be sure that all moveable parts are working fine or else you'll have to replace them.

The casement window crank you're having a problem with is a simple mechanism that has a hinge and latch. If the entire window crank is totally seized and rusted, you must replace it. On the other hand, if it's just stubborn and shows signs of working, you can probably get it to work. With that same can of silicone spray, put on the extension nozzle and hit all the moveable parts with a good amount. Once the window opens and closes, try it repeatedly and spray it again.

Home Tips

HELP! — I read your Home Tips in our paper. I think they're great — keep it up, please!

I need to know if there is something I can do when I get water rings on wood tables. They turn white. I've tried paste, but it didn't work. Also, how can I get perfume stains out of blouses? I would sure be grateful if you can help. Dorothy S., Lancaster, N.Y.

EDITOR'S RESPONSE: For water rings on wood, try rubbing a little baby oil over the rings. They should disappear. Once you get them out, make sure everyone in the house uses coasters instead of setting sweaty glasses on wood tables.

As for your perfume stains, since they're most likely caused by the oil in the perfume, I'm afraid the blouses are permanently stained. Putting perfume on clothes doesn't serve any real purpose anyway. The aroma in perfume is triggered by perspiration, thus the advice to dab perfume on pulse spots. From now on, just dab perfume lightly behind the ears and at the base of the throat and on the wrists.

ODOR EATER — To remove musty odors or to just refresh a piece of luggage that has been stored, crumple newspapers and place inside baggage for a couple of weeks or until mustiness is gone. Ann M., Glendora, Calif.

ANOTHER TAKE — For musty suitcases, the simplest solution is to keep fabric softener sheets in all suitcases. Jean K., N. Massapequa, N.Y.

SHORTCUT — One of our favorite desserts is carrot cake. Since I don't like to grate carrots, I use two jars of junior baby-food carrots. The cake takes less time to make, stays moist much longer and everyone loves it.

I make mine in mini-loaf pans (can get about 20 cakes), then wrap them in plastic wrap, then in foil and freeze. They're great for lunches, dessert, after supper or for gifts. Gma H., Caltwright, Okla.

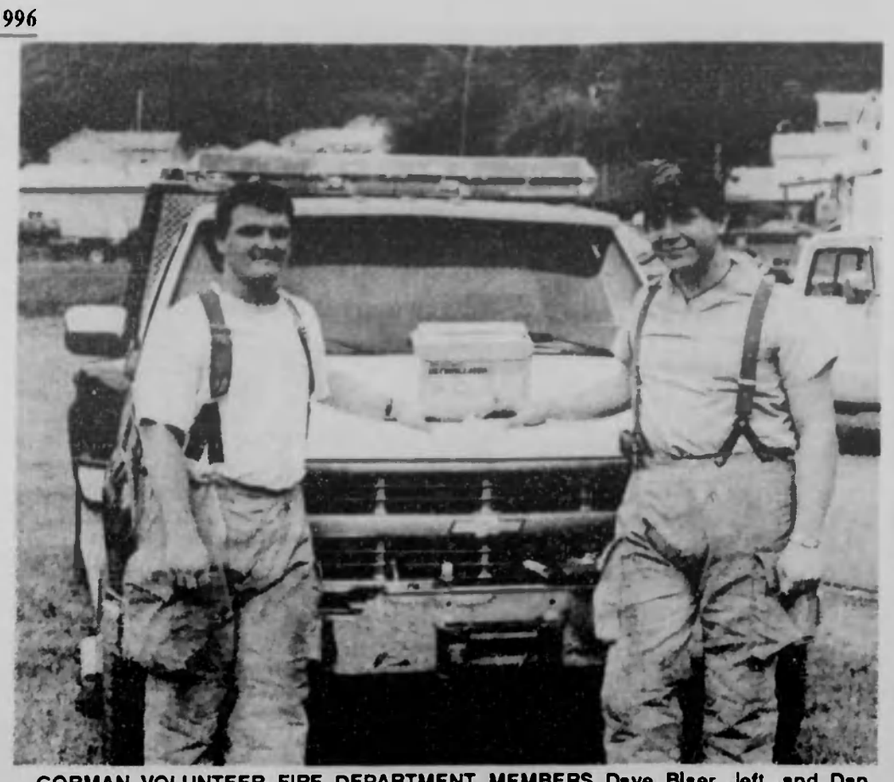
One Injured In Car Accident At Intersection

One person was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon following a two-vehicle accident at the intersection of Rt. 135 and Weber Road. Jan Lyall, Jasper, Wyom., was apparently treated and released, according to a report from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Renee Savage, Mtn. Lake Park, was operating a 1993 Ford Taurus and began to make a left turn off of Weber Road onto Rt. 135 at a green light. She was headed eastbound. Lyall, driving a 1991 Chevy Blazer, was westbound on 135 and allegedly failed to reduce her speed in response to the yellow light and collided with the Savage vehicle.

Lyall received a citation for a traffic light violation, according to the report. Also responding to the 3 p.m. wreck was the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.



GORMAN VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT MEMBERS Dave Biser, left, and Dan Moon display their new Automatic External Defibrillator (AED) which they carry on their rescue truck, "Squad 129." In the event of a cardiac arrest, the AED is a lifesaving device that can be used by any fire, rescue or law enforcement member trained in its use. The AED automatically diagnoses a patient's condition and provides cardiac shock if needed, in an effort to convert heart rate to a normal rhythm, which could mean the difference in a life or death incident. Garrett County now has nine departments with these state-of-the-art AEDs in their stations, including Deer Park, Gorman, Kitzmiller, Bittinger, Eastern Garrett, Deep Creek, Friendsville, and Bloomington VFDs, and Southern Garrett Rescue Squad. The few remaining departments in the county are either awaiting their units or are considering purchasing one in the near future. (Photo by J.P. Pysell)

FSU Theatre 1996-97 Season Is Announced

Frostburg State's University Theatre recently announced the shows for its upcoming 1996-97 season which includes both contemporary and classic presentations.

The season is launched with "Angels Fall" on October 11, 12, 17, 18, and 19 at 8 p.m. and October 13 at 2 p. m. in the Studio Theatre of the Performing Arts Center. This play by Pulitzer Prize winning writer Lanford Wilson focuses on two travelling couples brought together in a mission chapel in New Mexico's Navajo country who meet up with a young Navajo physician and an off-beat priest. Should the doctor accept a prestigious position in research; or should he remain serving his needy Indian community? Characters in the play are faced finding strength from within. "Angels Fall" is directed by David R. Press.

Tennessee Williams' "Summer Smoke," directed by Linda McCulloch, will be presented on November 22 and 23, December 5, 6 and 7 at 8 p.m. and November 24 at 2 p.m. in the Drama Theatre. Like most of Williams' plays, "Summer and Smoke" is set in the South. The story centers on the relationship between Alma, a rather puritanical young woman, and a free spirited young doctor named John and how their different attitudes drive them apart, despite their intense attraction for one another. The show is one of William's most highly regarded plays.

This season's musical is a revue based on the words and music of Cole Porter to be performed on March 12, 13, 14 and 15 at 8 p.m. and March 16 at 2 p.m. in the Drama Theatre. "Cole," devised by Benny Green and Alan Strachan, celebrates the gifted man whose sparkling, witty lyrics and irresistible melodies brought high style to Broadway from 1920's through the 1950's. Interweaving biography and song, the revue includes classic tunes as "Another Op'nin'," "Another Show," "I Love Paris," "Anything Goes," "I Get a Kick Out of You," "In the Still of the Night" and other classics. "Cole" is directed by Linda McCulloch.

The final show of the UT season will be William Shakespeare's romantic comedy "Twelfth Night" on April 25 and 26, May 1, 2 and 3 at 8 p.m. and April 27 at 2 p.m. in the Studio Theatre. Directed by Richard Kagey, the superbly planned plot focuses on the lives of several couples and a classic case of mistaken identity. "Twelfth Night" is the most musical of all of Shakespeare's plays and is also performed the most.

Season tickets for the 1996-97 season are available.

WHAT IS AN ITCH?

It may start of as just a little "tingly" sensation that a quick rub seems to take care of. But, it may end up as an almost uncontrollable urge to scrape off part of your skin. It could come about as the result of a bite -- fly, mosquito, gnat, etc.; a food that doesn't agree with your body chemistry -- chocolate, nuts; a poor choice of leaves -- poison oak or ivy. It may also result from some organic illness, simple or serious.

Just as there are numerous causes of the itch, so there are medicines that can help to relieve it. Which one? Your physician will be able to pinpoint the cause of your itching problem and recommend one of the many preparations we stock. Don't scratch needlessly.

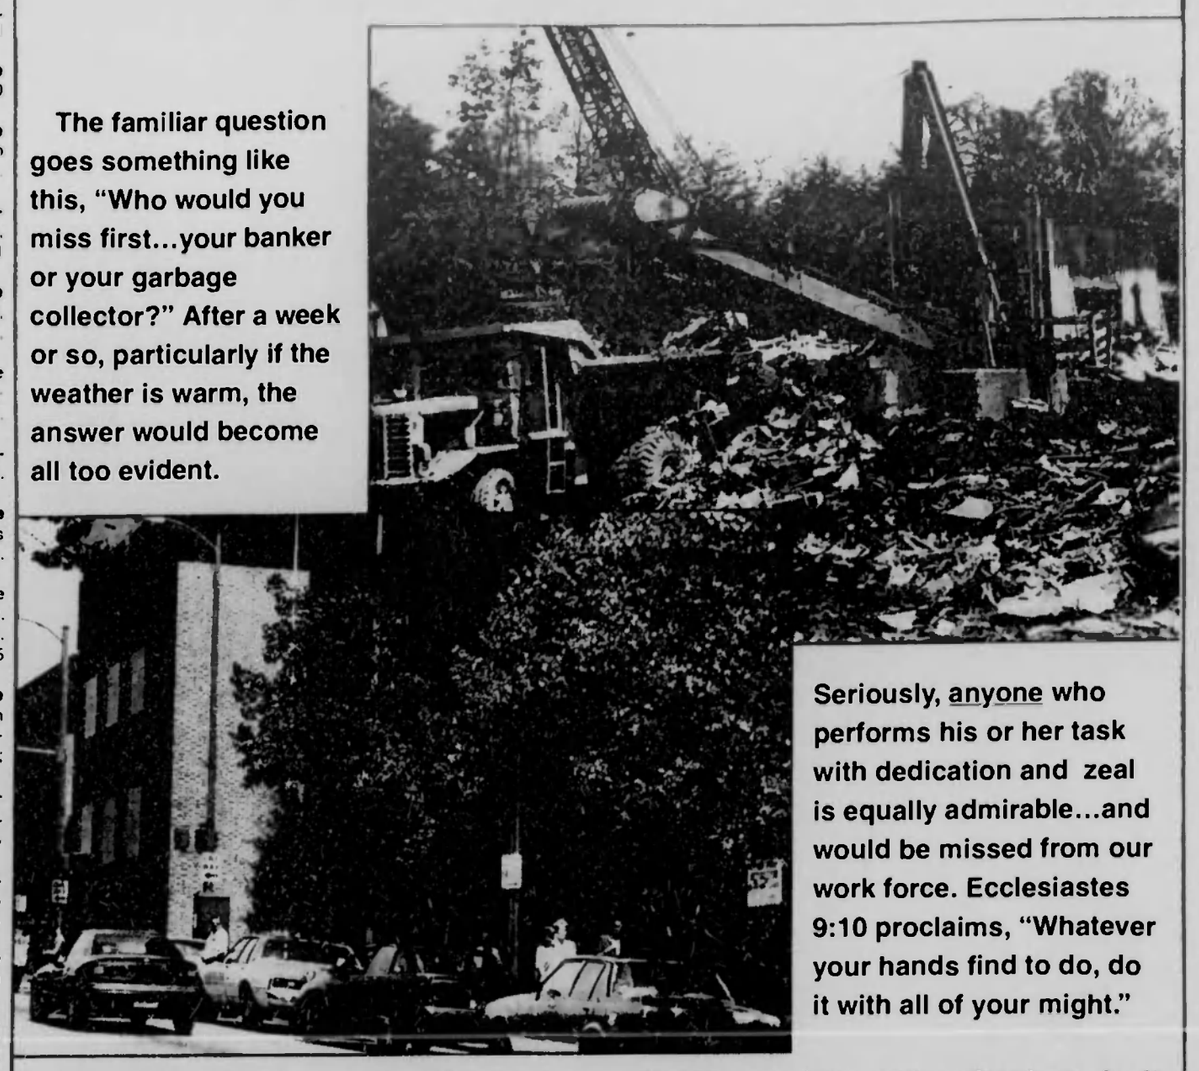
"Do It With All Of Your Might"



The familiar question goes something like this, "Who would you miss first...your banker or your garbage collector?" After a week or so, particularly if the weather is warm, the answer would become all too evident.

Seriously, anyone who performs his or her task with dedication and zeal is equally admirable...and would be missed from our work force. Ecclesiastes 9:10 proclaims, "Whatever your hands find to do, do it with all of your might."

As we remember those who labor, we honor all skills, services, and professions, for it is the very diversity of the work force which allows our society to function smoothly. As we enjoy a well-earned holiday, let us remember to give thanks to God, the Creator of all intelligence and strength; and when we return to our diverse tasks may we do them "with all of our might" for the glory of God.

Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 10:12-22

Apparently, the writers of the biblical books that chronicle the kingdoms of Israel and Judah held most of the kings of these two nations in no higher esteem than many of us view the politicians of today. One after another they are condemned: "And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord..." (2 Kings 21:2a). This was a reference to Judah's King Manasseh, who succeeded Hezekiah, but it was also said of most of those who came before and after him.

One outstanding exception is Hezekiah, who became King of Judah at the age of 25 and ruled for 29 years: "And he did what was right in the eyes of the Lord..." (2 Kings 18:3). And: "He trusted in the Lord the God of Israel; so that there was none like him among all the kings of Judah after him, nor among those who were before him" (18:5).

What were the fruits of Hezekiah's trust in the Lord? First, he reformed Judah's religion, destroying the pagan idols and places of worship. "And the Lord was with him; wherever he went forth, he prospered. He rebelled against the king of Assyria, and would not serve him. He smote the Philistines as far as Gaza and its territory, from watchtower to fortified city" (18:7,8).

A PRAYER ANSWERED

2 Kings provides us with two signal events from the life of Hezekiah. The first is the miraculous salvation of Jerusalem from the army of mighty Assyria. Having already subdued Judah's cousin, Israel, Shalamaneser, king of Assyria, began to invade Judah and capture its cities. Knowing that Assyria was too much militarily for Judah, Hezekiah tried to placate them by paying enormous tribute to him.

But Shalamaneser wasn't satisfied with most of Judah and its treasure; he also wanted Jerusalem. Shalamaneser calls upon Hezekiah to realize his hopeless position and surrender the city. His approach is mockingly arrogant: "Come now, make a wager... I will give you two thousand horses, if you are able on your part to set riders upon them" (18:23). So Hezekiah prays and consults Isaiah the prophet who tells him not to be afraid because God himself will cause Shalamaneser to return to Assyria without attacking Jerusalem. He also prophesies the violent death of the Assyrian king.

The second major event is Hezekiah's miraculous healing from a sickness that had already been pronounced as terminal. Despite this prophetic prognosis, Hezekiah prayed for healing and Isaiah came to him with the good news that God was granting him another 15 years of life!

NOT PERFECT

But, for all Hezekiah's virtue and reform, he was not a perfect man. He made some mistakes and the last view that we get of him is disappointing. Following his recovery, Babyionian envoys come to visit him. Flattered and eager to impress them, he shows them virtually every treasure which Judah still possessed.

What was wrong with this and why did he incur Isaiah's displeasure? Because it would seem that his deliverance by God had made him proud instead of humble. His pride rested upon material treasures, not faith in the Lord. So Isaiah tells him that Judah would be carried away into Babylon and his own sons would suffer humiliation. But all this would happen after the death of Hezekiah!

And that's where this otherwise admirable king makes a disappointing response: " 'The word of the Lord which you have spoken is good.' For he thought, 'Why not if there will be peace and security in my days?' " (20:19). Informed of this great disaster to Judah and his own family, he rejoices that at least it won't happen to him!

Even the best of us are anything but perfect.

Wiring the young for virtuous reality

William J. Bennett

There's hardly an author who doesn't have a movie or TV deal. From R.L. Stine to Larry McMurtry, more and more books hit the stores as if they were treatments for scripts, not literature to engage the imagination.

So what about "the virtue guy," as William J. Bennett ironically calls himself? The former academic, former secretary of education, former Bush administration "drug czar" and eternal political conservative is currently stumping for a cartoon series based on the best seller The Book of Virtues, which he conceived, collected and edited.

"I have been a critic of a lot of television," Bennett says. "Sometimes you curse the darkness; sometimes you light a candle. I hope this is the candle."

Bennett hopes Adventures From the Book of Virtues will improve viewers' "moral literacy." The first three hourlong programs air in prime time Monday through Wednesday, Sept. 2-4, on PBS (check local listings). Seven half-hour episodes will debut in January.

The Book organizes familiar stories and sound bites from literature by moral precept. Rather than letting, say, the Gettysburg Address stand on its own, Bennett directs the reader's appreciation by including it as an example of "Perseverance."

Each episode of Adventures includes four selections on a moral theme, from "Work" to "Compassion." These are presented in the context of a simple plot involving two youngsters, Annie and Zack, and their wise friends: Plato, a buffalo storyteller; Socrates, a wily bobcat; Aristotle, a bespectacled prairie dog; and Aurora, a female hawk with a nurturing nature.

As with most animation since the advent of The Simpsons, there is a star-studded voice cast. Wednesday's "Courage" episode features Tim Curry, Mark Hamill and Ed Begley Jr.

With great stories to tell and fine actors reading them, Adventures producer Bruce D. Johnson, a Hanna-Barbera veteran, has cut corners on animation. Some scenes have too few frames per second, causing a jumpy look. Overall, the drawings are flat and lack detail.

Attention has been paid, Johnson says, to cultural portrayals. Yet the Princess of Crete in "Theseus and the Minotaur" is, incredibly, a blonde.

But since aesthetic considerations rarely deter young viewers, Bennett can still look forward to achieving his primary goal of inculcating moral values in tomorrow's adults. The father of two preteens, he believes good people are a combination of nature and nurture.

"If they are not taught, whatever is in the souls of human beings at birth will not come to the fore," Bennett says.

"You don't watch these stories and become a better person, but it might affect your sensibility a little bit.

"(The point is) to put another idea in a child's head if it hasn't been put there already. If it has, it's to reinforce it."

Whether or not pragmatism is a virtue, Bennett has found a medium to achieve his end, and he's not afraid to embrace it.

"I'm a hook kind of guy. But (TV is) where the kids are. This is their medium, for a lot of them."

Actor and comic Chris Rock is one of the scheduled presenters at the 1996 MTV Video Music Awards, airing Wednesday, Sept. 4, on MTV.

Broadcast from Radio City Music Hall in New York, the ceremony honors the best in music video.

Other presenters include singer Mariah Carey, NBA superstar Dennis Rodman and actress Susan Sarandon.

Oasis and Alanis Morissette are among the artists slated to perform.

Fox hopes game show will become a Big Deal

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Frustrated by its failure to find a suitable Sunday night "transition show" after NFL football games, Fox tries a new approach beginning Sunday, Sept. 1.

It's Big Deal, a lavish game/variety show hosted by Mark DeCarlo (Studs).

Loosely inspired by Let's Make a Deal, the hourlong, weekly audience participation show will be taped before an arena-sized audience, with spectators vying for prizes by participating in wacky games and stunts.

"We think of ourselves as being in the entertainment business," explains executive producer Scott Stone, "so ... outrageously funny material and music and variety and audience participation all combine to make this show much bigger than just a game show."

The games themselves include "Total Your Car," in which an audience member is asked to total his own car with a sledgehammer to win a new auto, and "Pick Your Pet," in which an owner is asked to pick his own dog from among four look-alikes – all of whom have been shaved.

Players are asked if they want to keep their prizes or trade them for a better or worse mystery prize. The games escalate up to the Let's Make a Deal-style final round.

Big Deal is getting a six-episode test run, but the new show could hang on to its prime-time entry position for an unconventional reason: Fox is moving The X-Files to Sunday nights and wants a "collapsible" program to follow football to ensure the paranormal hit starts at the appointed hour even if the game runs long.

Mark DeCarlo hosts Big Deal, a new game show featuring musical and celebrity guests, and audience members vying for big prizes. The show premieres Sunday on Fox.

Fred Rogers' middle name is McFeely, hence the name of the Mister Rogers' Neighborhood "speedy delivery" man.

A bee can pollinate over 1,400 flowers a day but will only produce about half a teaspoon of honey in its lifetime.

Jason Priestley

Q: Is it true that Beverly Hills, 90210 will end after next season is over? –Kathy Cross, Mooresville, N.C.

A: Not necessarily, says star and producer Jason Priestley. "It seems that our audience has really stuck with the show and has been really loyal to us."

"We certainly have some milestones this year, which will be graduation. Some of us could probably go on to medical school or something," he adds, laughing.

Q: Peri Gilpin's father was Jim, not Jack, O'Brien. He was adored in the Philadelphia area – an awesome disc jockey and news anchor who had great warmth and energy. He was tragically killed while he was sky diving and his parachute did not open. –Three readers on the Internet.

A: Thanks to all three of you for calling this error to my attention.

Q: Is the guy who played Ricky Caruso on The Commish the same actor who plays/played Agent Kryeek on The X-Files? –Anonymous in Ohio.

A: That's Nicholas Lea in both roles.

Q: Can you please clarify the relationship, if any, between Garry and Penny Marshall? –June P., Port Charlotte, Fla.

A: They are siblings.

Q: I say that the woman who played Mrs. Roper on Three's Company is the same actress who was in the "It's not nice to fool Mother Nature" commercial. Also, what was the name of the daughter on Phyllis? –C.V. Taylor, Sebastian, Fla.

A: Dena Dietrich, who played Ethel, Helen Roper's (Audra Lindley) sister in the Three's Company spin-off The Ropers, played Mother Nature. Lisa Gerritsen played Phyllis Lindstrom's daughter, Bess.

Q: Will Sisters be returning in the fall? If not, who can I write to support reconsideration? –Wendy Peck, Spring Valley, Minn.

A: The cast agreed to close up shop after star Sela Ward (Teddy) announced she was leaving to spend more time with her family. Swoosie Kurtz (Alex) has signed on to co-star in the new Fox sitcom Party Girl.

Q: How are Susan Sarandon and Chris Sarandon related? –J.L., Portland, Ore.

A: They used to be married.

Q: There was a character on Saturday Night Live called Tyrone Green who would recite a poem called "Kill My Landlord." My friend insists he was played by Garrett Morris. I say it was Eddie Murphy. Who is right? –Don Parlee via Internet.

A: You are.

Engineering Programs At Frostburg State Come Closer To Reality

An undergraduate engineering program that combines the campuses of Frostburg State, University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC), and the University of Maryland College Park (UMCP) has come another step closer to implementation thanks to a significant grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC).

The grant, which will fund a mechanical engineering laboratory on the FSU campus, is part of the funding needed to enable area students to earn an engineering degree while staying in western Maryland.

The collaborative engineering program, which includes both mechanical and electrical engineering, will be delivered largely over distance. All general education and lower-level engineering courses will be taught on-site at FSU, while the upper-level engineering courses will be delivered by UMCP and UMBC over interactive video to the FSU campus. Upon completion of the electrical engineering program, students will receive a B.S. degree from UMCP, while students completing the mechanical engineering program will receive a B.S. degree from UMBC.

According to project director Joseph Hoffman, the program will be a national model for the delivery of undergraduate engineering programs over distance.

"As far as we know, this is the only interactive undergraduate program of its type in the United States," he said. Although distance learning graduate engineering programs exist, the Maryland undergraduate model stands alone. "The program builds upon our academic strengths," Hoffman added. FSU has the second largest undergraduate physics program in the University of Maryland System and has a strong math program.

In addition, the University offers a dual degree engineering program with UMCP. By attending FSU for three academic years and UMCP for two, an undergraduate can earn a baccalaureate degree in one of nine areas of engineering, including electrical and mechanical, and a bachelor's degree in physics from FSU.

"FSU's dual degree program is the oldest of its type in the state," Hoffman explained. "However, there are limitations to the benefits of this program. Students who are geographically tied by economics, family, or job to western Maryland, particularly nontraditional students, often cannot avail themselves to the program.

"As a result, a valuable source of engineers for western Maryland is lost.

Hoffman said that the need for engineers has been substantiated. FSU conducted a survey of western Maryland businesses and found that 95% supported the development of a cooperative engineering program at FSU with 75% specifically expressing an interest in mechanical engineering and 45% in electrical. Also, an advisory group made up of representatives from businesses such as Kelly-Springfield, Westvaco, ABL, and Aircon and National Jet, as well as political and education leaders, meet on a regular basis to provide program direction.

"One thing that we are finding more and more is that there is a strong relationship between education and economic development," said Hoffman. "Businesses are attracted to an area where technical programs are offered."

Interim Provost Frank Parks acknowledges this correlation. "The grant offers us the opportunity to present a series of programs that will have enormous impact on the region. It will make us a technical center from which smaller businesses can evolve and larger businesses can pull highly educated talent," he said.

Lest anyone think that the job market is only looking for technical training, Hoffman explains that an infusion of liberal arts adds marketability to graduates. "Employers are asking job candidates, 'Can you write?' Communication skills are becoming increasingly more important," he said.

The phase-in of the programs is expected to take four to five years with the first group of students enrolled in the fall of '97. When the two engineering programs are in full swing, Hoffman expects approximately 100 students to be enrolled.

"FSU, UMBC, and UMCP can provide jointly what they cannot furnish separately," he said. "With proper funding, we can offer throughout the state of Maryland quality, accredited programs. Neither can accomplish the task alone. FSU can provide facilities and nonspecialized coursework, but not the engineering courses. UMBC and UMCP can furnish the specialized courses in engineering but not the regional facilities."

Hoffman says plans include expanding the network across the state to the Eastern Shore depending on the success of this test case.

"The (engineering) accreditation commission is very interested in seeing how this would work," he said. "So far they are very impressed and very favorable."

Maryland Mag. Writing Contest Now Underway

Maryland Magazine is looking for Marylanders with writing talent and something special to say about life in Maryland -- and will pay cash prizes totaling more than $1,500 for winning entries in its first-ever writing contest.

The bimonthly magazine, which was launched 28 years ago by the state and has been in private hands for the past four, recently announced the magazine's writing contest, titled "Spirit of Maryland," for essays up to 750 words each about experiences or insights related to life in Maryland.

Anyone, whether an amateur or professional writer, who lives, works, or attends school (from grade six through college) in Maryland may enter. Essays can describe something very personal or discuss state culture, history, geography, the arts, or sports. Judges will look for originality of thought and expression and a unique perspective on the state.

Winners will receive cash prizes and will have their essays published in Maryland Magazine.

"We're very excited about this contest because it reflects our dual efforts to bring to our readers the best about living in Maryland and to encourage and publish the best writing being done in our state," said Michael C. Hodes, co-publisher with Charles J. Nabit.

Entries will be judged in four categories: middle school students (grades 6-8), high school students (grades 9-12), college students (up to the age of 22), and adults.

Prizes to be awarded include a grand prize of $500 in the adult category, $250 for college students, $150 for high school students, and $100 for middle school students. In each category, a runner-up cash prize will also be given.

Deadline for submission is Sept. 30, 1995.

Essays should be up to 750 words in length, typed and double-spaced, and mailed to Maryland Magazine, "Spirit of Maryland" Contest, 250 South President St., Level One South, Baltimore, MD 21202.

Stacy Awarded Scholarships To Attend WMC

Krysta Dawn Stacy, a 1996 graduate of Southern High School, has been awarded two scholarships to attend Western Maryland College this fall.

The private, liberal arts college in Westminster has awarded Ms. Stacy a four-year, $20,000 academic scholarship, which she will use toward her studies in dramatic arts.

Senator John J. Hafer also awarded the SHS graduate a $1,000 Senatorial Scholarship, renewable each year of her college career.

Each year, Western Maryland College awards more than $300,000 in academic scholarships, ranging from $2,000 to $12,000 to academically talented students.

Hafer, in a letter to Stacy this month, wrote, "It is a pleasure to know that there are such outstanding students in Allegany and Garrett counties."

Stacy was active in both high school and community events. She appeared in several Garrett Lakes Arts Festival and high school theatrical productions, and served as Southern High School's representative on the Garrett County AIDS Council.

During her high school career, she was a member of the National Honor Society, Student Council, and the tennis and school improvement teams. Ms. Stacy received honorable mention as a Maryland Distinguished Scholar for Talent in the arts.

She is the daughter of Marshall and Cindy Stacy, Swanton.

Kick-off Event For Bartender Contest Slated

A kick-off event has been scheduled for the 1996 Jack Daniel's U.G.L.Y. Bartender contest, a charity fundraiser for multiple sclerosis (MS). Celebrating its 17th year in Maryland, owners, managers, and bartenders who are curious about how the contest works are invited to attend the National Multiple Sclerosis Society's "Western Maryland Kick-Off Party" at Thirsty's Bar & Grill, 11418 Uhl Highway, Cumberland, on Wednesday, September 25, from 7 to 10 p.m. Admission is free, however advanced telephone reservations are suggested by calling Carolyn Reed at the Maryland Chapter, N.M.S.S. on the toll-free line: 1-800-FIGHT-MS or Sissy at Thirsty's, 301-777-1617.

The event offers a free buffet, special drink prices, plus opportunities to find out how the campaign can support MS and also benefit their business. The MS Society staff will give bartenders their inside promotional secrets and will share new interactive fundraising ideas. Registration is free. All participating bars receive an U.G.L.Y. survival kit with promotional ideas. The Western Maryland media sponsors supporting the U.G.L.Y. campaign are: radio station WROG in Cumberland, The Republican, and The Cumberland Times. Last year, over 350 establishments across the state joined forces to raise over $155,000 for multiple sclerosis.

The winning bars in Western Maryland for 1995 were Oakland Elks Lodge #2481 and Red Run Lodge. Others who participated last year in the Oakland and Cumberland areas were: Bullpen Lounge, Democrat Club, End Zone, Gehuf's - Henny's, Honi-Honi Bar, JG's Pub, Looking Glass, Maryland Tavern, Silver Tree Inn, Thirsty's Bar & Grill, Uno's, Deep Creek Lake, and Western Maryland Republicans.

This charitable campaign is sponsored by: Jack Daniel's, Brown-Forman, Churchill Distributors. Air Ontario, The Maryland Beverage Journal, The Republican, The Cumberland Times and outlying area radio stations: WFMD-AM and WFRE-FM in Frederick, and WTDK, The Duck on the Eastern Shore, WROG-AM in Cumberland and WOCT, The Colt in Baltimore.

An Ounce Of Prevention For The Labor Day Holiday

by Joelle Plauger, GCHD

Summer officially ends with celebrations over this coming Labor Day holiday weekend. As parties and barbecues get underway, the Garrett County Health Department's Prevention program would like to remind everyone to stay safe and be responsible.

Messages that alcohol and driving do not mix have been around for awhile. Most hosts now know to serve non-acholic drinks, call for cabs, and suggest that guests stay the night. In addition, most groups celebrating know that designating a sober driver is the responsible thing to do.

While the public has learned a lot in recent years about not drinking and driving on roadways, many forget that boats are vehicles also. If alcohol is being consumed on boating trips, designated drivers are required. Penalties that exist for driving under the influence in a car also apply to operators of boats.

Other forms of travel may also be hazardous to people who have been drinking. Operators of bicycles can be charged with driving under the influence. Pedestrians who choose to walk home can also cause problems if while under the influence they step out into the path of a vehicle.

Alcohol can also be a big problem at the beach or in pools. Drunk swimmers usually do not struggle much when they drown like the traditional drowning victim, which makes it very difficult for lifeguards and onlookers to realize that a drowning is occurring. To prevent these situations, alcohol should not be served to people who are swimming.

Keep in mind that all minors at celebrations should only be served non-alcoholic drinks. People under the age of 21 are considered minors in the state of Maryland.

Alcohol-free celebrations are becoming more popular as community planning groups (CPGs) organize such activities for Garrett County youth. Funded through a mini-grant program at the health department, CPGs plan alternative activities in small communities to help combat the concern that "youth have nothing to do."

For more information on the health department's prevention program or upcoming CPG activities for youth, call 334-8122, ext. 330.

Divine Receives Achievement Award At La Salle Univ.

Joseph J. Devine, Oakland, was among the recent recipients of the La Salle University Student Activities Achievement Award, presented to students who have made significant and spontaneous contributions to the university's program of extracurricular activities.

"The students who receive these awards are students who make the system work," said Kathy Schrader, director of the Student Life Office. "They're often the 'behind-the-scenes' volunteers who don't get recognized for their efforts, but without whom the out-of-class program wouldn't flourish."

La Salle students volunteer for dozens of campus, and off-campus organizations each year, according to Schrader.

Products That May Help Relieve Insomnia

Insomnia or nighttime sleep problems can be caused by a variety of things including heavy caffeine and alcohol use, smoking, sleeping too much during the daytime hours, stress, and pain.

Nondrug treatments for insomnia include (1) learning to relax mentally and physically; (2) avoiding large meals, caffeinated beverages, alcohol, and cigarettes, especially in the evening hours; (3) keeping a regular time for going to bed; and (4) exercising regularly, but not too late in the day. If these approaches do not work, the following products may be helpful.

Antihistamines: Nonprescription antihistamines such as diphenhydramine are sometimes helpful in persons who have trouble falling asleep. A dose of 50 mg. nightly for no more than a week may be beneficial.

Melatonin: Doses of synthetic melatonin (as little as 1 mg. in the evening) may decrease the time needed to fall asleep. Sleep problems associated with jet lag have responded favorably to melatonin.

Always consult your pharmacist and physician before taking any medicine for sleep problems.

Job Placement Center At GCC Slates Workshop

Julie Yoder, coordinator of the Job Placement Center at Garrett Community College, will be the guest speaker at a workshop titled "Tapping the Hidden Job Market," in which she will describe some of the many job sources, other than the traditional help wanted column, that are available in Garrett County. The program will be held Monday, September 9, at 1 p.m. in Room 307 of the Continuing Education Building at Garrett Community College. It is free and open to the public.

Commonly recognized employment information sources such as the job placement office and less formal resources such as networking among groups and individuals will be explored. Each job search tool will be considered in light of the reality of local employment needs and opportunities.

In her position as coordinator of the Job Placement Center, Mrs. Yoder works closely with area employers and has presented many workshops and seminars about the job search. "She is a native of Garrett County and so brings her sensitivity and local knowledge in conjunction with her professional training to this workshop," stated a GCC spokesman.

The workshop is sponsored by the New Dimensions Program, the New Horizons Program, and The Caring Connection Program of Garrett Community College under the direction of Barbara Frey. For additional information or to register, interested persons may contact Mrs. Frey at 387-3071 or Virginia Jeffrey, Intake/Counselor Specialist for the New Dimensions and The Caring Connection Programs at 387-3103.

The New Horizons program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the New Horizons Program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is approximately 89.6% of the total program budget, with GCC contributing an additional $5,200 which is 10.4% of the total budget. The Caring Connection is 100% funded by the Maryland State Department of Education in the amount of $20,000. The New Dimensions Program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources.

Commission To Participate In Telecommunication

The Garrett County Commission for Women will join with the President's Interagency Council on Women with a local interactive telecommunication broadcast at Garrett Community College on Saturday, September 28.

The broadcast, titled "The UN Women's Conference One year Later," will report on progress, share what is working well, and proceed with the development of a national action agenda to improve the lives of American women and families. The broadcast will be downlinked across the country to all of the community conference sites. The broadcast will be one-way video and two-way audio. Organizers will use video roll-in, live interactive elements such as audience discussion, internet, fax and, to a limited degree, toll-free phone.

Followup on U.S. commitments to implement the Platform for Action are included in the following seven major areas: establishing a President's Interagency Council on Women to implement the Platform; implementing a Working Women Count Honor Roll, a grassroots campaign to improve conditions for women in the workplace; increasing women's economic security; launching a six year initiative to fight violence against women; improving women's health by taking action on a range of health problems of concern to women throughout the life cycle; taking a number of actions to remove educational barriers facing girls and women; and plans to increase women's political participation.

The Garrett County Commission for women is organizing the event to achieve a representation of the public with invitations for groups to select a spokesperson to attend the event. The conference site can accommodate 70 attendees. For more information, persons may write to GCCW, P.O. Box 623, Oakland, MD.

Episcopal Parish Rally Day Slated

St. John's Episcopal Parish, Frostburg, is planning its annual Rally Day for Sunday, September 8, beginning at 9 a.m. The church is located at 52 Broadway, Frostburg. All are invited for fellowship and brunch following the service, and to hear about the church's programs and ministries, such as a Wednesday evening Bible study, participation in housing projects, assistance with the local food pantry, and the relationship with a sister parish in Japan.

Special Program For Youth Slated At St. Matthew's

A Sunday school registration and dessert will be held at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church on Thursday, September 5. The gathering will begin at 6:30 p.m. and include a Godly Play lesson with dessert to follow. The evening will conclude at 8 p.m.

Godly Play is the name of a Christian education curriculum for ages 3-11. According to a church spokesman, the goal of the program is to teach children the art of using religious language - parable, sacred story, silence, and liturgical action - to help interpret what happens in their daily lives. The program was developed by Episcopal priest, author, and teacher Jerome Berryman.

For more information, persons may contact Kathie Smith at 301-334-3249 or Lee Saba at 301-334-9150.

Celebrity Bike Parade Set; To Benefit Salem

They aren't going to have to pedal a long distance, but they will be going the distance for children who need their help.

A Celebrity Bike Parade is scheduled for downtown Cumberland on Saturday, September 7, to benefit the Maryland Salem Children's Trust in Garrett County. The parade, which is less than a mile, is a fund-raiser sponsored by Wal-Mart, AES Warrior Run, and CSX, and is the kick-off event for a state-wide public awareness campaign, OutSpokin', that calls attention to programs that are working in Maryland to help children in need.

Maryland Speaker of the House Casper R. Taylor Jr. is honorary chairperson. Churches, corporations, and organizations have the opportunity to sponsor a celebrity rider in the parade. Prizes for best decorated bike, most money raised, and most sponsors will be awarded.

The Maryland Salem Children's Trust, Inc., is a non-profit corporation with a primary goal to provide a home and therapeutic environment for children in need. Located on a 380-acre farm on Lower New Germany Road near Grantsville, Salem is home to up to 32 children, primarily between the ages of 6 and 13. Salem is licensed by the Maryland Social Services Administration for children up to the age of 18. Special consideration is made to keep siblings intact and under one roof. Currently at Salem, there are four houses each having room for eight children and their houseparents.

According to Louise Richards, executive director, child abuse and neglect is "rampant" in America. "One out of every three girls and one out of every four boys in the nation will be sexually abused before reaching the age of 18," she said. "Many of these abused children enter foster care; in fact, there are nearly half a million children in foster care throughout the United States. Often these children are bounced around from one home to another and have no roots or sense of belonging. Each move is seen by a child as a rejection and strong feelings of worthlessness and abandonment develop causing other emotional problems.

"At Salem Children's Trust, we strive to create a therapeutic environment for children in need based upon Christian principles and which includes a strong family orientation. We believe we're helping to build our future together...one child at a time," concluded Richards.

For more information on the Maryland Salem Children's Trust, Inc., or the Celebrity Bike Ride, persons may call (301) 689-8176.

Maryland Seniors Score Among Nation's Best On SAT Exam

Maryland's high school seniors this year gained two points on the SAT, outscoring other states in the mid-Atlantic region and ranking second to New Hampshire among the 13 states with at least 60 percent of their seniors taking the SAT. Sixty-four percent of the state's seniors took the test last spring.

In releasing the SAT scores, State School Superintendent Nancy S. Grasmick attributed Maryland's high rank among states with large percentages of test takers to increasingly rigorous course loads taken by Maryland students. Statistics released by the College Board, which administers the SAT, show that 49 percent of Maryland students and 41 percent of students nationally took a full load of academic courses in each of their four high school years.

"Maryland students are taking more academic courses in their high school years, and that is paying off in terms of higher SAT scores and better preparation for college," Dr. Grasmick said "We expect this trend toward a more rigorous instructional program for more students to continue over the next few years as we put in place the new high school assessment."

Scores in both the verbal and mathematics portions of the SAT rise as students study more English, mathematics, natural science, history and other social sciences, foreign languages, and arts and music. For example, four years of art and music gave students a 58-point edge in the verbal test and a 53-point edge on the mathematics test over students who took one-half year or less of art and music.

Compared with the national average, higher percentages of Maryland students took four years of mathematics, natural science, and social science and history. In the past three years, the percentages of Maryland students taxing four years of academic courses has increased from 57 percent to 69 percent in mathematics and from 46 percent to 50 percent in science.

Maryland students are also talking more honors courses than they did three years ago and more than their national counterparts. This year 36 percent of the state's students took honors courses in science, up from 30 percent in 1993 and well above the 29 percent of students nationally. More than nine in 10 Maryland students (92 percent) report experience with computers, up from 86 percent in 1993 and slightly more than students nationally.

Maryland's percentage of top scoring exceeds the national percentage. Twelve percent of all Maryland students scored above 650 on the verbal test, compared with 11 percent of males and 10 percent of females nationally.

Maryland's African American students scored significantly below other students. Minority students in Maryland have a mixed record compared with their national counterparts. The state's African American students outscore African American students nationally on the verbal test, 436 to 434. In mathematics, however, African Americans nationally outscore Maryland's African Americans, 422 to 418. Maryland's Hispanic students, while small in number, post significantly higher scores than their U. S. counterparts.

Maryland males outscored females on the verbal test 509 to 505 and on the mathematics test 523 to 488. Maryland students of both genders achieved higher verbal scores, than their U.S. counterparts but lower mathematics scores.

SAT scores reported in 1996 reflect a new scoring system that adjusts the scores toward the national average of 500 on each portion of the test. The change, intended to communicate more accurately the relative achievement in the two portions of the test, results in higher numbers for many students but does not change the rank order of students and does not give any group of students advantages over other students.

The most popular college major for students taking the SAT is health and allied services, attracting 17 percent of Maryland students and 19 percent of students nationally. Thirteen percent of students in the state and in the nation say they will study business and commerce, a slight decline compared with recent years.

Nine percent of last year's high school seniors took the ACT test in place of the SAT or in addition to the SAT. Maryland's average composite score of 20.9 on the ACT matched the national score and was up slightly from last year's score of 20.6. Slightly more Maryland students than U. S. students scored in the top 25 percent of all test takers. The composite score for African American students in Maryland was 17.6, up from 17.3 last year.

Students who took the ACT test were asked to fill out a questionnaire on their high school experience. More than half of all students (53 percent in Maryland and the U.S.) said they were satisfied with classroom instruction. Maryland students were more likely than other students to indicate satisfaction with the number and variety of courses in their high schools and with provisions for academically talented students. At the same time, Maryland students were somewhat less satisfied with their schools' library media centers and laboratory facilities.

Oakland's "Number One" Wins Major Award In National Expo

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department once again put the town of Oakland on the map by winning awards with the department's 1930 American La France fire engine.

The engine, referred to as "Number One," won first place as the nation's best appearing antique fire engine in its category at the Firehouse Magazine, International Fire & Rescue Expo, held at the Baltimore Convention Center at Baltimore's Inner Harbor on July 28. The Expo, which is considered the premier fire and rescue symposium in the country, attracts fire and rescue personnel from around the world.

Following an early Sunday morning parade through the streets along Baltimore's Inner Harbor, Number One was placed on display inside the Baltimore Convention Center with other classic and new fire apparatus from around the nation. The display, called a "muster" by fire and rescue buffs, was the first-ever fire rig muster event in the nation to be held totally indoors. Joe Helbig, Oakland firefighter and curator of the company's antique engine, stated that Oakland VFD members met firefighters and antique collectors from across the nation on the trip. Helbig said fire department members spend many hours keeping the classic antique in "showroom" condition and the engine always draws a crowd at each appearance.

To make the trip to Baltimore possible, Paul Dove Enterprises, Inc., of Oakland provided a road tractor and fuel, and Art Beckman Lumber of Loch Lynn provided a flat bed trailer. The rig was driven by Butch James, a part-time driver for Dove Enterprises and a member of the Oakland VFD.

Fire Department President Fred Callis remarked that without the assistance of several local contractors providing trucking, it would not be possible to display Number One at shows such as the Baltimore Expo and regional antique musters. Callis also noted his appreciation to all of the people who have made donations towards the engine's restoration and appearances in the past years. This year Number One has also won first place awards at the tri-state's Chesapeake Chapter of the Society for the Preservation & Appreciation of Antique Motor Fire Apparatus in America (SPAAMFAA). The awards were given in Frederick last May. Number One and the Oakland volunteers also won awards at the Maryland Volunteer Fireman's Association convention in Ocean City this past June.

Phil Rook, chief of the OVFD, said that the Baltimore Fire department, the Baltimore Police department, and Firehouse Expo officials "went out of their way, giving us first-class treatment during our visit to Baltimore." Members were also invited by Expo officials to help with parade activities in the future, and several Expo officials are expected to attend Oakland Volunteer Fire Department's Firefighters Parade held in conjunction with the Autumn Glory Festival on October 10. The fire department will also have several new collectible items at the Oktoberfest celebration following the parade.

The Oakland VFD members invite the public to visit the fire hall. They are interested in talking to anyone who might have photos, newspaper clippings, information, or just personal memories about the history of Number One. Persons may contact Joe Helbig at 334-9522.

Tri-Towns Squad Signing Members, Selling Tickets

Tri-Towns Ambulance and Rescue Squad, Westernport, is conducting its annual membership subscription drive. Subscription cards wre mailed in June to residents in the squad's coverage area which includes Barton, Westernport, Piedmont (W.Va.), Luke, Bloomington, and Backbone Mountain.

A second mailing is being readied and will be sent to those who failed to respond after the first attempt. Those who did not receive a first mailing, those who are new in the area, and those who have misplaced their card are asked to contact the squad.

A membership with Tri-Towns Ambulance Service insures that participants who are transported to a hospital will not be billed for charges that insurance does not cover. Those who have no insurance, but have a membership, will not be billed for the squad's service, according to a squad spokesperson.

For more information, or to obtain a membership card, persons may call Eleanor Laffey at 359-9554; Carolyn Campbell at 359-0112; or the squad office at 359-3067, and leave a name and phone number.

The Tri-Towns Ambulance and Rescue Squad recently received a donation of the reserve grand champion hog from the Mineral County Fair. The hog was purchased by First United National Bank and Trust, Oakland.

A limited number of tickets are being printed to raffle the hog, and may be purchased for $1 each at First United's Piedmont branch office or from squad members. Two tickets will be drawn, with each winning ticketholder receiving half a hog. The bacon and hams will be sugar cured and smoked by Emerick's Meats in Hyndman, Pa.

For more information, or to learn how to get a free raffle ticket, persons may call any of the numbers previously listed, or Katherine Davis, 359-3953; Pete Broadwater, 359-0445; or Lonnie Michael, 359-9675.

Faith Evangelical Free Church Celebrating 100th

A CENTURY OLD Is the Faith Evangelical Free Church, founded in 1896 as the Loch Lynn United Brethren Church, as the Rev. D.R. Wagner conducted the first service for the new congregation in the Loch Lynn Odd Fellows Hall. The church building, pictured above in October 1962, was built in late 1899. A special weekend has been planned to celebrate the church's 100 years of ministry.

THE CONGREGATION of what was then the Loch Lynn Evangelical United Brethren Church took a few momente in October 1962 to pose for the above photo. Below is a much earlier photo (circa 1906) of an adult Sunday school class known as the E.E. Kesner class. In the photo, front row, from left, are: Jennie Lipscomb, Bertie Reams, Mrs. Harvey Cuppett, Annie Rathbun, Veda Crane, Elizabeth Catherine (Spiker) Callis, Emma Lich, and Mrs. Fouch. Standing, same order, are: Mrs. Junkins, Rachel White, Jennie Kesner, Enoch Kesner, Fl ence Rathbun, Mrs. Parks, Sadie King, Lydia Ford, and Mrs. Am Miller. The church, which has had three name changes since its found ing in 1896, has been served by 23 pastors, with Pastor Robert Bonse currently filling that post. See story for special centennial events sl ted for the weekend of Sept. 14-15.

"To God be the Glory!" is the theme of the centennial celebration that will be held September 14 and 15 at Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park. The church was founded 100 years ago and originally named the Loch Lynn Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Old-fashioned games will get underway at 3 p.m. on the church grounds in Mtn. Lake Park on Sept. 14 and be followed by a covered dish picnic at 4 p.m. The festivities will move inside at 6 p.m. for a hymn/gospel sing, with special guests and other activities.

Sunday, Sept. 15, will feature a 9:30 a.m. breakfast in the fellowship hall, followed by a special centennial worship service at 10:45.

All friends and neighbors are invited to join the members of the congregation for these events. Persons are encouraged to bring lawn chairs and/or blankets for Saturday's activities, and to dress in old-fashioned clothing if desired.

The following history of the church was compiled by church members Kevin Callis and Donna Callis:

In 1789, William Otterbein and six others, using the basic doctrine of the early Methodist Church, organized the United Brethren Church in Christ. The denomination was formed to serve the large number of Protestant, German-speaking immigrants in Maryland and Pennsylvania, and in the early years, all services were held in German.

In 1896 Rev. D.R. Wagner conducted the first service of the Loch Lynn United Brethren Church in the Odd Fellows Hall in Loch Lynn Heights. Rev. F.M. Glenn was assigned to the charge in 1898 and was responsible for the election of a Board of Trustees. C.M. Rathbun donated a plot of land and, under the supervision of Amos Bittinger, the church was built in October and November 1899.

As the church family grew in numbers, various physical changes were made to the church building. More important was the spiritual growth of the congregation and establishment of the Sunday School classes, the Ladies Aid Society, and the Missionary Society. The Ladies Aid Hall was built in 1930 and was used by the women in fundraising activities. Over the years, the building was used for classes, youth meetings, and social gatherings. In 1946 the United Brethren Church in Christ merged with the Evangelical Church and the church name was changed to the Loch Lynn Evangelical United Brethren Church.

In 1949 major renovations were made to the church building. A complete reversal of the sanctuary was done in order to accommodate the addition of new Sunday School classrooms, an infant nursery, foyer, and bell tower. Stained glass windows were donated by families and organizations and replaced the original frosted glass. In the early 1960's a basement was placed under the building to add more classrooms.

In 1967, the Evangelical United Brethren and Methodist churches merged. The Loch Lynn EUB Church, not wishing to be absorbed into this very large organization, decided by majority vote to withdraw and become an independent congregation.

Over the years, the church studied the doctrine and policies of various denominations and in 1985 the congregation voted to affiliate itself with the Evangelical Free Church. This denomination was begun in the United States by Scandinavian immigrants who were disenchanted with state control of the church in their native country. The church fathers set up a church government, based on democratic principles with all major decisions made by vote of the congregation.

Church growth emphasized the need for more facilities and in 1989 the property of the former Mountain Lake Park Hotel was purchased. Ground was broken on April 29, 1990, and a large number of volunteer laborers as well as professional tradesmen worked under the direction of Troy Gnegy to build the new church. The memorial stained glass windows were restored and installed in the sanctuary of the brick structure.

The first service was held in the new building on March 17, 1991. Because the church was no longer located in Loch Lynn Heights, the congregation voted to change the name of the church to Faith Evangelical Free Church. The original church building in Loch Lynn is now used as a youth center. The Ladies Aid Hall is currently occupied by the Mt. Top Crisis Pregnancy Center.

Twenty-three ministers have served the people of the church over the last 100 years. Pastor Robert Bonser has served from February 1992 to the present. Mid week services include Pioneer Clubs for children aged 2 years to sixth grade, Youth Group, prayer meetings, Bible study, small groups, and special interest classes for adults. Sunday worship services are at 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. with Sunday School at 9:30.

"The purpose of Faith Evangelical Free Church is to glorify God through exaltation, edification, evangelism, and encouragement," stated a church spokesman.

Is your new house going to be able to keep the "Outside Out" and the "Inside In"?
If building a Home, Workshop, etc. is in your future plans, why not "Plan for the future"?

Did you ever wonder why the structural integrity of your new house may seem fairly sound but deep down you have this thing haunting you of having paid $100,000 for this lovely dwelling but you feel all this cold air coming in wherever you have electrical outlets and window edgings? And what's even worse, is the air penetration through the wal itself.

Did you ever wonder why your goal is to insulate well and use house wrap to get a good seal, then turn around with the concept of "This house needs to breathe in order to prevent condensation problems?"

Wouldn't you like to come closer than ever before to isolating the interior of your next Home, Workshop, etc. to the outside elements: sound, cold, heat and moisture?

At Panelcraft, the answer is Expanded Polystyrene (EPS). EPS is safe and can contain a lifetime of energy efficiency. Refrigeration engineers adapted the EPS method years ago when they started using it to line refrigerator and freezer walls.

At Panelcraft we offer the EPS alone for remodeling and conventional construction, but we've also gone a step further in combining EPS with various types of plywood, taking it through a laminating process, thus creating Structural Insulated Panels (SIP) of various specifications, which are then used for floors, roofs, ceilings and walls, virtually every aspect of your project.

Why not become one of the satisfied customers who "Just wouldn't build any other way!"

Grantsville Man's Motion For Revision Denied In Dist. Court

A request for a sentence reduction for a Grantsville man ordered to serve eight years in jail for forgery was denied in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings by Judge Ralph M. Burnett.

Timothy P. O'Rork, 33, found guilty in March of three counts of forging private documents, was sentenced in May to serve 30 years in the Maryland Department of Corrections, with 22 years of that sentence suspended by the judge.

According to district court records, O'Rork stole several checks from Thomas M. Cola, Pittsburgh, and deposited them in various amounts ranging from $75 to $1,500, to his account at a Grantsville bank. A total of $4,625 was deposited to the defendant's account between January and February.

The victim reportedly began receiving overdraft notices for checks he had not written. It was soon learned that O'Rork was responsible for forging the checks and when he attempted to deposit $1,500 to his account on Feb. 15, his bank kept the check and notified the state police, resuhing in his apprehension.

In other district court news, a pre-sentence investigation was ordered for an Oakland man who pleaded guilty in visiting Judge Timothy Finan's court of a fourth degree sexual offense.

David G. Albert, 45, found guilty of that offense, will be sentenced following the completion of the investigation. Additional charges, including two counts of battery, and two counts of child abuse by a custodian were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

The charges against the defendant stemmed from incidents that occurred between July 15, and August 15, 1995, when he reportedly sexually assaulted two juvenile females while he and his wife were babysitting.

A pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for Jason E. Martin, 22, Oakland, who pleaded guilty in Judge Burnett's court to one count of battery. One additional count of battery and one count of malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charges against Martin stemmed from a Dec. 15, 1995, altercation on the Gravelly Run Road with Larry W. Wakefield Jr. and Jedadiah M. Serth. Martin reportedly punched Wakefield three times in the face, and then slammed him against a car. At one point, Martin picked up a piece of firewood and struck Wakefield on the back. The defendant also attempted to strike Serth with his vehicle, according to the charging statement, filed by the Maryland State Police.

A co-defendant in the case, Michael D. Freyman, 23, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of battery. The conditions of the judge's decision state he must complete 20 hours of community service. Freyman reportedly sided with Martin in the altercation with Wakefield and Serth.

In a related case, Wakefield, 21, Friendsville, was not prosecuted on two counts of battery and one count of malicious destruction of property, stemming from the same altercation.

Also involved in the case was Serth, 21, McHenry, who was not prosecuted on one count of battery and one count of malicious destruction of property. The charges against him were filed by Martin.

Shannon J. Arblaster, 20, Friendsville, was not prosecuted on two counts of harassment and one count each of reckless driving, negligent driving, and driving a vehicle in excess of reasonable and prudent speed on the highway. The charges were filed on April 22, by Connie Hoover and Steven Savage, following an ongoing dispute.

In a related case, Rex W. Hoover, 29, also of Friendsville, was not prosecuted on four counts of harassment, stemming from the same ongoing dispute. The charges against Hoover were also filed by Connie Hoover and Steven Savage.

Shannon D. Ringer, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to one count of CDS possession. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, was fined $55, and placed on one year of supervised probation for the offense. Conditions of his probation state he must also complete 40 hours of community service by Nov. 1.

Ringer's arrest by Garrett County sheriff's deputies was on Dec. 29, 1995, after they received information from a confidential informant that the defendant was in a vehicle traveling into the county from Westernport that was carrying suspected marijuana. The vehicle was initially stopped for speeding, according to court records, and a subsequent search revealed a quantity of CDS that was located near Ringer's feet, and another small amount in his pants leg.

Vanessa A. Metzner, 30, Cumberland, was convicted on a trespassing charge. She was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail (suspended), ordered to make $25 restitution to Joseph Hopkins, and placed on one year of supervised probation. Additional charges of fourth degree burglary and malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charging statement, filed by Hopkins, was filed on Jan. 28, after Metzner reportedly broke a rear entrance window at his home and entered the residence. She apparently stayed for a while, wrote a note saying she had been there, and left. Hopkins stated that she had been told to stay off his property.

During a sentencing hearing for John E. Pittman, 34, Oakland, the judge handed him a six-month suspended sentence on an earlier conviction for battery. Pittman was also fined $150, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service. He was found guilty of the offense in January and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered at that time. The charge against the defendant stemmed from an April 2, 1995, assault on Christi J. Markwood, when he reportedly struck her in the head with a telephone, and then attempted to choke her.

In a related case, Pittman received a 30-day suspended sentence for an earlier guilty verdict for battery. This charge was filed after he reportedly sph on a sheriff's deputy who had attempted to serve a charging document from a previous arrest.

Melvin D. Davis Jr., 29, Mtn. Lake Park, was convicted in recent court proceedings of non-support of a minor child. The judge sentenced him to one year in jail (suspended) and placed him on three years of supervised probation. Davis was also ordered to make an initial $300 payment toward the support of his child, and $40 each month in addition to his regular support payments.

Ronnie F. Artice, 20, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to one count of trespassing. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $100 (also suspended), and placed on one year of supervised probation. Conditions of his probation state he must also complete 40 hours of community service and attend addictions counseling at the local health department.

Artice was arrested by Maryland State Police on March 16, after he apparently entered the John W. Sutter residence and would not leave. He was reportedly intoxicated at the time, and eventually fell asleep at the kitchen table.

Todd A. McKinney, Levisey, W.Va., pleaded guilty to one count of petty theft. He was handed a 60-day suspended sentence, fined 4200, and placed on three years of unsupervised probation. An additional charge of malicious destruction of property was not prosecuted.

The charges against McKinney stemmed from a June 10 incident when he reportedly used a tire iron to pry open a vending machine located at the car wash behind Sheetz in Oakland, and remove the change. He was later found to be in possession of $142.75 in quarters, $17.20 in dimes, and $2.75 in nickels.

Not guilty verdicts were handed to Terri A. Hutzell, 29, and Joseph L. Hutzell, 37, both of Friendsville, for one count each of felony theft and conspiracy. The charges were filed against by Frank E. Cober & Sons, Inc., who had apparently worked on a 1989 Kenworth tractor belonging to the Hutzells in June 1995, and claimed the pair owed them $2,771.22 plus storage for repairs made on the vehicle.

One count of CDS possession, filed against Lawrence D. Wilburn, 34, Grantsville, was placed on the stet docket. His Jan. 1 arrest for the offense occurred when sheriff's deputies found suspected marijuana in his apartment.

Also placed on the stet docket in recent district court proceedings was a

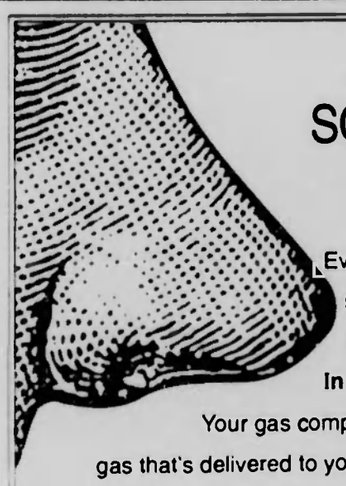
SOME COMMON SENSE WAYS TO DETECT A GAS LEAK.

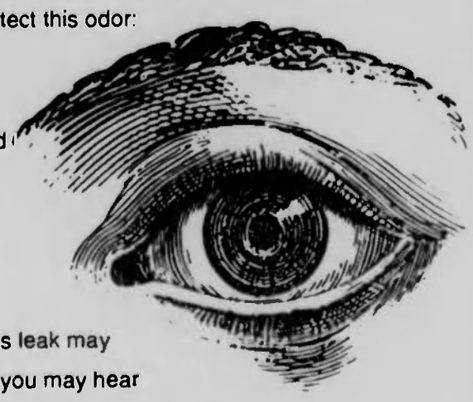


Even with a system as safe and secure as your natural gas service, a leak could occur. That's why you and your family should learn some basic safety rules.

In cities, towns, or suburban areas.

Your gas company adds a special scent to the otherwise odorless natural gas that's delivered to your home. If you detect this odor:

- Don't use matches or operate electrical switches, equipment or appliances.
- Leave your home, business or building and call the gas company from another site.
- Don't return until a gas company representative arrives.

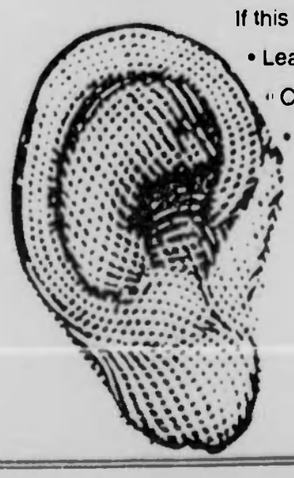


In parks or rural areas.

Outside some cities and towns, a natural gas leak may not be detectable by scent. In these areas, you may hear a blowing or hissing sound or see dirt blowing into the air, water bubbling or being blown into the air at a puddle, pond, creek or river; brown patches in vegetation on or near a gas line; or fire coming from the ground or burning above it.

If this happens:

- Leave the area and warn others to stay away.
- Call the gas company and the police and fire departments.
- Don't try to extinguish a gas fire or operate any pipeline valves.



Chances are you'll never experience a natural gas leak. But, if you do, follow your senses.

Fire Marshal Issues Labor Day Safety Tips

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Garbiele urges Marylanders to use caution and care during the Labor Day holiday weekend to avoid injury from fire.

Last summer, approximately 40 Marylanders were transported to hospitals for treatment of burns. Many of these injuries were the result of contact with or the improper use of outdoor cooking equipment or barbecues. The state fire marshal recommends to citizens who are planning outdoor events that include cooking to take a few minutes and review the instructions that came with their equipment and follow this guidelines:

*Do not transport LPG cylinders in the trunk of a car. Filled cylinders should always be transported on the floor of the vehicle with the windows open.

*Never leave a cylinder iu a parked vehicle. The heat inside the vehicle could cause the cylinder to vent, releasing flammable gas into the vehicle.

*Make sure all connections are tight. Check fittings with a soapy solution. Air bubbles indicate leaks.

*Never let children use gas fired barbecues.

*Never store cylinders inside any part of a structure, including porches or balconies. Store cylinders outdoors in a shaded area out of direct sunlight.

*Never use charcoal barbecues in an enclosed space. Carbon monoxide is produced and can be fatal even in small quantities.

*Once a fire has been started, never add starter fluid. Fire can follow the stream to the can causing an explosion.

*Use great caution in disposing of the ashes. Live coals start a fire if not disposed of properly. Wet the ashes with water before emptying the barbecue.

"By following these guidelines, outdoor cooking in Maryland will become a safer, more enjoyable holiday weekend tradition," Gabriele said.

For further information on fire safety, persons may contact the Office of the State Fire Marshal at 1-800-525-3124.

charge of harassment filed against Joe Friend, 49, Oakland. The charge, filed on Feb. 1, by Debbie Hinebaugh, Oakland, following a property dispute.

Four Cambridge, Ohio, residents were in court on drug and underage drinking charges. Sherry L. Jester, 18, pleaded guilty to CDS possession, and was granted probation before judgment. She was fined $150, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. She was also ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. An additional charge of possession of CDS paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Co-defendants Christopher J. Robinson, 19, Amanda Walton Craig, 18, and Eric R. Wheatley, 18, were not prosecuted on the drug charges. All three were, however, found guilty of underage drinking, and fined $50 each. Jester was not prosecuted on the underage drinking offense.

The charges stemmed from a May 10 incident at Swallow Falls State Park, when a park ranger checked the group's campsite and smelled alcohol. He also reportedly noticed marijuana on a picnic table at the site.

Charges of telephone misuse (repeated calls) and telephone misuse (obscene calls) filed against Rose A. Watts, 27, Aurora, W.Va., were placed on the stet docket, which means any of those charges can be recalled in the next year if the court deems it necessary. The charges were filed on July 1 by Glenna Wiles, Terra Alta, W.Va., after

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U. S. Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Charles R. Hilleman, son of James R. and Jennie S. Hileman, Route 1, Terra Alta, W.Va., has returned to his homeport in Norfolk, Va., after completing a six-month deployment aboard the dock landing ship USS Portland, which was part of the four-ship USS Guam Amphibious Readiness Group.

Hileman is one of approximately 700 sailors and marines aboard the ship who completed the 30,000-mile voyage. Hileman's ship supports amphibious operations using landing craft air cushions to transport marines onto hostile shores. The landing craft move tanks, vehicles, cargo, and troops from ship to shore, and are essential to combat operations.

Arriving in the Adriatic Sea, Hileman's ship monitored the peace implementation process in the former Yugoslavia. But when civil unrest rocked Liberta, his ship was diverted there to evacuate U.S. citizens and other designated civilians.

Although 138 days of the 180-day deployment were spent at sea, Hileman was able to visit the Canary Islands, Italy, and Spain.

The 1995 graduate of Central Preston Senior High School, Kingwood, joined the Navy in January 1986.

The club donated $50 to the Aurora Pioneer 4-H Club to help finance a trip for their Wildlife Judging Team to attend the national competition in Texas. They received a "thank-you" note from the Union Ambulance Service for a recent donation. The committee that is working on the remodeling of the community building bathrooms reported that the Rebekah Lodge has agreed to share in the cost. The club will be at the Ames store on September 21 to sell tickets for the Buckwheat Festival give-away car. The club's meeting dates will be posted on the community calendar.

Appointed to serve on the nominating committee are Virginia Martin, Fern Jamison, and Dorothy Spaid. Fall Conference dates are October 8-10 at Jackson's Mill. Wilda Stemple was winner of the pig-in-the-poke. Small Business Survival Courses Offered At GCC

The Small Business Administration encourages anyone thinking about starting a small business to improve the chance for success by learning the basics before getting the business underway, citing the facts that starting a small business can often be overwhelming, and that the majority of small businesses fail during the first five years. Several short classes have been designed to provide potential business owners with this opportunity for learning survival skills.

"Small Business Connections" will meet at Garrett Community College on Sept. 12 from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m. The class provides an opportunity for all those who have ever considered starting their own business or currently operate a small business and are considering growth or change. The evening will begin with brief presentations by area professionals on topics relevant to starting and growing a small business. Immediately following the presentations, there will be an informal period offering participants the opportunity to mingle and speak with the presenters one-on-one to have specific questions and concerns addressed.

"Introduction to Small Business" will meet for only one session on Sept. 12, from 6:30 until 9:45 p.m. Key topics for this class will include start-up considerations, marketing, financing, management, and various types of small business ownership. The class instructor will be Jeffrey Bell.

"How To Run A Home-Based Business" will focus on start-up considerations, marketing, financing, management, staffing requirements, vendors, legal advice, and insurance matters. Class members will receive an information kit with pertinent information for home-based business setup. This class will meet Sept. 19 and 26 from 6:30 until 9:15 p.m. Bell will also teach this class.

"Developing a Business Plan and Finances for the Small Business" will focus on developing a business plan, types of financing available, financial statement analysis, business taxes, cash flow analysis, and budgeting. This class will meet on four consecutive Tuesdays from Sept. 24 through Oct. 15 from 6:30 until 9:45 p.m. The class instructor will be Bell.

"Records Management for Small Business" will meet on Oct. 22 and again on Oct. 29 from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. each day. The instructor for this course will be Dawn Beitzel. The class will focus on how to set up the basic recordkeeping requirements for a business,. Topics will include inventory and personnel records, receipts and disbursements, and tax forms.

Other classes for the small business that will be offered at GCC this fall include "Computerizing Small Business Accounting and Recordkeeping," "Sales and Marketing Techniques," "Accounting I," and "Tax Fundamentals for Small Business."

All GCC classes for the small businesses are planned to offer practical learning experiences which can immediately be "put to work" in business. They are co-sponsored by the Continuing Education Division of GCC and the Western Maryland Small Business Development Center.

All classes will be held at the McHenry campus of GCC. Space is limited, and those interested in attending should register immediately. To register or obtain additional information, persons may call Dawn Beitzel at the GCC Small Business Development Center at 387-3080.

Senior Health, Fitness Festivals Planned By AAA

In support of the National Healthy Aging Campaign, Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging (AAA) will host two Senior Health and Fitness Fesitvals in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department. Also participating in the festivals, set for Sept. 24 at the National Guard Armory in Oakland, and Sept. 26 at the Grantsville fire hall, will be Garrett County AmeriCorps members.

Registration and a continental breakfast will begin at 9:30 a.m. each day, followed by "Angel Food" cake-walks, indoor horseshoes, bowling, balloon tennis, chairplay, and line dancing. These activities are designed to promote the "Healthy Aging Campaign" theme that "it is never too late to get started on the road to a better quality of life," according to AAA spokesperson, Barbara Hornyak.

In addition to participating in the various fitness activities, seniors will have the opportunity to receive blood pressure screening, nutrition education, facts about health insurance, information pertaining to other programs and services, and information on breast, cervical, and prostate cancer. Seniors will also have the opportunity to discuss health concerns with a registered nurse at the "Ask a Nurse" table and speak with law officers at the SALT (Seniors and Law Enforcement Together) information area, Hornyak added.

"An added bonus for seniors will be the opportunity to apply for the Maryland Energy Assistance progrant at a table manned by CAC's Community and Emergency Services staff," she said.

A picnic-style lunch will be served at noon. Contributions toward the cost of the meal will be accepted. Reservations for the lunch are necessary and may be made at any of the Area Agency on Aging's nutrition sites or by calling 334-9431, ext. 140, by Sept. 16. Following lunch, participants will be treated to a sing-along and Bingo.

Limited, free transportation is available. For more information, persons may contact the agency at the phone number listed above.

Police said charges are pending against Moorehead for failure to yield right-of-way. She is currently listed in "serious" condition in Memorial Hospital's Intensive Care Unit, according to a hospital spokeswoman. Sims also remains hospitalized and is listed in "stable" condition. Students Participate In Visual Arts, Natural Sciences Program

Students of the 1996 Seeking Harmonies program at the Hickory Environmental Education Center recently completed a week of visual arts and natural sciences workshops and seminars. This was the third season for the residency program which this year included an expanded natural sciences program, and a rural-urban bridge initiative through which District of Columbia high school students from The Corcoran School of Art's Mentorship Program were included in Seeking Harmonies '96."

Resident artists for the program included Jackie Brown, ceramic artist and associate professor of art at Frostburg State University, Don Cook, painter, sculptor, and program coordinator for "Seeking Harmonies '96," Julee Dickerson-Thompson, design and mixed-media artist, and Corcoran mentorship program representative, and Timothy Machado, an architect who has studied and worked in both Alexandria, Va., and Weimar, Germany with Virginia Tech's architecture program.

Natural and human sciences personnel included: Ina Hicks, genealogical librarian at the Friend Family Museum, who conducted a seminar on the traditional and contemporary roles of Appalachian women. During her evening seminar, Hicks discussed

GARRETT COUNTY AND WASHINGTON, D.C. area high school students recently participated in a week of visual arts and natural sciences workshops and seminars with the "Seeking Harmonies '96" program at the Hickory Environmental Education Center. Examples of the students' works (above) included a performance work titled "The Elements," by Candalse Wellbaum, shown seated, with (from left to right) Charlie Nolan, Rachel Robinette, and Timothy Machado; and (at right) a site sculpture housing a handmade dreamcatcher and wind chimes by Michele McCartney. and displayed numerous examples of regional arts and handiworks. Gus Johnson, astronomer, provided a celestial studies seminar which included dramatic telescopic views of Jupiter and a recently discovered comet, Dr. Ray Morgan and his assistant, Donna Gates, of the University of Maryland's Appalachian Environmental Laboratory, conducted a one-day water resources workshop in which students participated in stream analysis and follow-up laboratory studies concentrating on stream structure and aquatic life. During the workshop students gained first-hand knowledge of efforts to stabilize the Potomac watershed relative to both local and Chesapeake Bay impact. Following Morgan and Gates's program, Timothy Machado conducted a seminar on the impact of building within the Potomac watershed and tidewater regions. During this period, students had on an opportunity to share their experiences of the Potomac from both rural and urban perspectives. Also as a part of the natural and human

Wadsworth, acupuncturist with the Morgantown Multi-Ward Clinic, offered a morning Tai Chi exercises and an opportunity for students to simulate acupuncture diagnosis using body charts and cards with symbolic characters to represent bodily regions and potential treatment points.

Many "Seeking Harmonies '96" students collaborated in the creation of a decorative "flow" within a dry creek bed at the Hickory Center using both raw and fired clay pieces. During this clay workshop period, students also had an opportunity to produce, decorate, and fire individual clay pieces. Other student projects included a suite of nearly life-size figures created by Robert Collins using downed branches and vine; a subtle spiral of small stones designed by Maria Mejia to accent the shadowy base of a hyacinth bush; a delicate tipi structure by Michele McCartney which carried a handmade dream catcher and wind chime, and provided a focal point at the edge of a small meadow; a collaborative work by Charlie Nolan and Sujata Roberts which used adjoining triangles composed of upright poles and a sloping stone wall to dramatically mark the natural cut of a steep incline; a camouflaged viewer made of natural and woven materials by Rachel Robinette through which a distant stone, embellished by Ms. Robinette's own pictographic design, could be sighted; constructed by Abalanda Sullivan at the end of a natural ramp and gathering place; and theatre work, The Four Elements, written, directed, and performed by Candaise Wellbaum and presented in the Hickory Center's outdoor theatre space during the "Seeking Harmonies '96" open house at the residency week's conclusion. Collaborating with Ms. Wellbaum in her performance were Maria Mejia, Charlie Nolan, Sujata Roberts, Rachel Robinette, and Timothy Machado.

In addition to the students, artists, and resource personnel, the Hickory Center's support staff included Jeff Cook, Shawn [illegible], Jennifer Theriot, Jennifer Barb, Mary DeWitt and the HEEC kitchen staff, Joseph Winters, Sharon Hoover, and Daymond Schmuck.

"Seeking Harmonies '96" was made possible, in part, by community donations and grants from the following organizations: American Trust Bank, Beitzel Corporation, Buffalo Coal, The Civic Club of Oakland, Englander's Pharmacy, First United Bank, Gregg's Pharmacy, Mettiki Coal, Westvaco, The Chesapeake Bay Trust, The Garrett County Arts Council, The Maryland State Arts Council, and The Maryland State Education Department.

A three-year retrospective exhibition of Seeking Harmonies visual arts programming curated by program coordinator Don Cook and resident architect Timothy Machado, will be on view at The Garrett Community College's Bausch & Lomb Gallery in May 1997.

Preparations are underway for a "Seeking Harmonies '97" program. Interested parties may contact: Seeking Harmonies Program, Don Cook, Program Coordinator, c/o Hickory Environmental Education Center, 604 Pride Parkway, Accident, MD 21520.

Destruction Of Property Reported To Oakland Police

The Oakland City Police are continuing their investigation into a reported malicious destruction of property that possibly occurred during the early morning hours on Tuesday.

According to a report filed by Officer Jr. Ryder, Ethel K. Lohr reported that as she prepared to go to work Tuesday morning, she noticed extensive damage to the interior of her 1989 Pontiac LeMans that was parked on Poplar Street in Oakland. Upon further inspection, she noticed the paint on every panel of the vehicle had been scratched.

The damage to the interior included several broken plastic parts, along with holes and scratches on the seats. It is suspected that the culprits used a round, pointed object like an ice pick or an awl to cause the damage to both the inside and outside of the vehicle, according to the police report. Lohr also told the officer that the car was running poorly, and she suspected something may have been put in the gas tank.

There are currently no suspects in the case.

Garrett County Farm Queen Makes Good Showing In State Contest

Garrett County Farm Queen Laah Jane Broadwater was the second runner-up in the State Farm Queen Contest held Sunday, August 25, at the Timonium Fairgrounds.

Attending the contest was Garrett County Farm Bureau Information Director Rebecca DeBerry, who said Laah did very well in the contest and was a good representative of Garrett County. DeBerry said Miss Broadwater showed poise when she introduced herself and told those watching about her county and her farm responsibilities. She also gave a convincing answer to her "fish bowl" question, "How does farm exhibits at fairs help people learn about agriculture?"

Gina Rende of Denton, Caroline County, is the new 1996 Maryland Farm Queen. Miss Rende, 16, was one of 22 young women to compete last weekend for the honor of representing Maryland agriculture. In addition to making appearances and presenting prizes throughout the Maryland State Fair, she will be speaking at agricultural banquets and other functions throughout the coming year.

The North Caroline High School senior received a scholarship worth up to $5,000 during the public portion of the contest Sunday evening. Miss Rende's scholarship was donated by the Maryland State Fair ($500 per year, up to four years); the Maryland Agricultural Fair Board ($1,000 for the first year); and Mercantile Bank ($2,000 for the first year). She also receives up to $1,000 to cover travel expenses connected with her reign from the Maryland Agricultural Fair Board.

Young women in the contest, which is sponsored by the Maryland State Fair and the Maryland Farm Bureau, are judged on their agricultural knowledge, community and school involvement, poise, personality and general appearance. In addition to giving a brief speech and answering a question related to farming issues or career opportunities, each young lady was interviewed by the contestant judges.

Judges for this year's contest were Erica Fearn, Northeastern field representative for the American Farm Bureau Federation, Dr. Mary Beth Bennett, an Extension agent in West Virginia, and Glenn Pirtle of Nationwide Insurance.

Miss Rende's court, also chosen Sunday night, are: Laura Ann Worthington, first runner-up from Smithsburg, Washington County; Miss Broadwater, second runner-up from Swanton, Garrett County; Kristy Lynn Pumphrey, third runner-up from Colora, Cecil County. Each of these young ladies will also be making appearances at the fair this week and will fill in when necessary for Miss Rende during the year.

Crowning the 1996 State Farm Queen and giving her farewell address was Garrett County's own Lori Evans, the 1995 Maryland State Farm Queen. She thanked everyone for making her year as State Farm Queen such a success, and said she hoped this year's Farm Queen would experience all the memories she has to cherish. Lori told the crowd that after her years at Garrett Community College and Frostburg State University, she hopes to one day own a farm and practice all the knowledge she has gained as State Farm Queen.

Sunday night marked the 56th Maryland Farm Queen contest. Back in 1941, just three years after Maryland Farm Bureau's Associated Women's group was started, the first young lady was chosen to represent agriculture in the state of Maryland. The competition was one of several programs the fledgling group began to help promote leadership qualities and achievement in young women.

Mabel John Nusbaum of Carroll County was Maryland's first "Farm Princess," chosen from the six young women who participated in that contest.--

From the beginning, the young woman's knowledge of agriculture was the main criteria judges were to use in choosing the Farm Princess, known today as the Farm Queen. In fact, in October 1941, soon after the first competition was held, a member of the Associated Women's group insisted that the word beauty be removed from the contest and that judging be based on whether the young woman was a true "farm girl."

Sunday, 22 young women from across the state competed for this title. Each one, over two days, was interviewed and critiqued on her poise, ability to speak and her community involvement. As always, her knowledge of agriculture is the most important factor.

Maryland Corn And Soybean Production Up

Corn and soybean production are both up from 1995. Corn production, based on conditions on August 1, is expected to total 55.8 million bushels, up 33 from last year's 42.0 million bushel production. An average yield of 120 bushels per acre is expected from 465,000 acres. If the expected yield of 120 bushels is realized, it will be 15 bushels above last year's 105 bushel average.

Also contributing to the increased production is an increase of 65,000 acres to be harvested from last year's 400,000 acres. Soybean production is forecast at 15.8 million bushels, up 35 pereent from last year's 11.7 million bushel production. Soybean yield is expected to average 33 bushels per acre, 10 bushels above the 23 bushel per acre yield in 1995. Soybeans are expected to be harvested from 480,000 acres, 30,000 acres less than the 510,000 acres harvested last year.

Tobacco production at 12.8 million pounds is up 12 percent from last year's production of 11.5 million pounds. Yield is expected to average a record 1,600 pounds per acre, up from the 1,350 pounds per acre of last year. Tobacco is expected to be harvested from 8,000 acres, down 500 acres from 1995.

Maryland barley production, based on August 1 conditions, is expected to total 3.2 million bushels, 37 percent below last year's 5.0 million bushel production. Yield, if realized, is forecast at 65 bushels, 16 bushels below last year's record 81 bushel average. Harvested acreage, at 49,000 acres, is 13,000 acres less than the 62,000 acres harvested in 1995.

Apple production for 1996 is expected to total 30.0 million pounds, 14 percent less than last year's 35 million pounds.

Alfalfa hay production for 1996 is forecast at 300,000 tons, up 27 percent from last year's 237,000 ton production. Alfalfa is expected to be harvested from 60,000 acres, up 5,000 acres from last year's 55,000 harvested acres. Other hay production for this year is expected to total 480,000 tons, up 52 percent from last year's 315,000 ton production. Yield, for other hay, is estimated to be 3.0 tons per acre, 0.9 ton above last year's 2.10 tons per acre. Other hay is expected to be harvested from 160,000 acres, up seven percent from last year's 150,000 acres.

United States corn production is forecast at 8.69 billion bushels up 18 percent from last year, but down 14 percent from the record high production of 1994. Based on August 1 conditions, corn yields are expected to average 118.7 bushels per acre, up 5.2 bushels from a year ago. Acreage to be harvested, at 73.3 million acres is up 13 percent from 1995. The first U.S. soybean production forecast for 1996 is 2.3 billion bushels, up seven percent from 1995, but nine percent below the record high production in 1994. Soybean yield is forecast at 36.2 bushels per acre, 1.3 bushels above last year. Soybeans are expected to be harvested from 63.4 million acres, a three percent increase over the previous year.

FSA Relates Wheat Crop Insurance Facts

Fall seeded wheat is an insurable crop in Garrett County. The sales closing date to purchase wheat insurance is September 30, 1996.

Producers can buy insurance through a reinsurance agency or the Farm Service Agency. The Farm Service Agency only sells the catastrophic coverage (CAT) which covers 50% of the actual production history yield at 60% of the expected market price of the crop.

The cancellation date for insurance is also September 30, 1996, and the final planting date for wheat is October 25, 1996.

The acreage reporting date is November 15. All producers are urged to keep current records on the yields for all crops because it is important for crop insurance and other Federal program purposes.

Aurora Sisters Exhibit Their Holstein Heifers At State Events

Kimberly and Kaylen Fike, the daughters of B.J. and Deborah Fike of Aurora, W.Va., exhibited their Holstein heifers at the West Virginia Dairy Cattle Show held at Jackson's Mill in Weston, W.Va., August 10 through 13.

Kimberly's summer yearling was named the All-WV Summer Yearling as she placed first in both the open and youth classes. Her unfreshened two-year old placed second in the open class and first in the youth class. Kaylen's senior yearling placed fifth in the open class and third in the youth class. Her senior heifer calf placed fifth in the open class and second in the youth class. Kaylen also received a blue ribbon for Jr. Showmanship. Preston County received the first place 4-H Herdsman Award.

They also exhibited their animals at the West Virginia State Fair in Lewisburg, August 14 through 17. Kimberly's unfreshened two-year old placed first and her summer yearling placed second in the open class and first in the youth class. Kaylen's senior yearling placed fourth in the open and second in the youth class and was also named the Reserve Jr. Champion in the youth. Her senior heifer calf placed sixth in the open and second in the youth. Kaylen placed second in the Jr. Showmanship class. Kimberly and Kaylen also won the Best-Dressed Cow Pageant with "Mary-Moo Retton." Preston County 4-H won first place Educational Exhibit and first place Herdsman Award.

Kimberly and Kaylen sold two of their heifers at the 29th Dairy Heifer Replacement and Genetic Sale held August 24 at the Marshall County Fairgrounds in Moundsville, W.Va. Kimberly's unfreshened two-year old and Kaylen's senior yearling tied for bringing the highest price of the sale. Pictures of each will be featured on next year's sale catalog.

Kimberly was also recently crowned West Virginia Dairy Princess (see story on front page of this week's Republican).

More Families Accepted Into State's Century Farm Program

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that seven new farm families have been accepted into the Maryland Century Farm program during the first six months of 1996, joining the 53 families in the program statewide.

"Our Century Farm program is continuing to generate a lot of interest. As a farmer, I am extremely gratified to learn about the families in Maryland who continue to pass the family farm tradition down to the next generation. I think honoring these Century Farm families is not only a tribute to past contributions, but also an investment in the future of Maryland agriculture," said Riley.

Governor Parris N. Glendening will present a special certificate and a sign to be placed on the farm to all the new honorees at a ceremony later this year. The Maryland Century Farm program was established in 1994 to honor families whose farms have been in the same family for more than 100 consecutive years, contain at least 10 of the original acres and gross more than $2,500 annually from the sale of farm products.

The new honorees include farm families from Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Talbot and Wicomico counties.

"Applications are accepted year-round as families become eligible. I urge all those who think they may qualify as a Century Farm to apply," Riley said.

Applications may be obtained from the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, 410-841-5882, or from local Cooperative Extension Service offices.

West Virginia Farm Safety Day Camp For Youth

Jackson's Mill State 4-H Conference Center in Weston, West Virginia, will be the site of a Progressive Farmer Farm Safety Day Camp, sponsored by Safety and Health Extension of the West Virginia University Extension Service and West Virginia Farm Bureau.

The camp, which teaches children to be aware of safety hazards on the farm, will be held Saturday, September 21, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. at the Jackson's Mill State 4-H Conference Center. The $10.00 admission fee covers the cost of lunch, snacks, speakers, a T-shirt and a packet of safety materials. So that each child can receive personal attention, attendance will be limited to 100 campers. Registration forms are available from West Virginia University Extension Service County Offices and from West Virginia Farm Bureau officers. (For camp information, contact: Terry Wilkinson, PhD, Extension specialist, Agricultural and Rural Safety at 304-293-3096. For registration information, contact: Sylvia Miller, Conference Office Program Manager at 304-293-4013).

"I believe it is important that youth and parents understand that most farm accidents can be prevented," says Dr. Wilkinson, Extension Agricultural and Rural Safety specialist and camp coordinator. "Safe work practices, such as not carrying extra riders on tractors, and the elimination of farm hazards, such as installing rollover protective structures and seat belts on tractors, are activities that can be effective in preventing injuries on the farm. Many injuries to youth occur because of their involvement in tasks that are not age appropriate or they do not have the proper training and supervision necessary to safely do a task. It is estimated that 150,000 to 200,000 children between the ages of 0 and 21 are injured on U.S. farms each year." The date of the West Virginia Farm Safety Day Camp is the last day of National Farm Safety and Health Week which is recognized September 15-21, 1996.

Hands-on demonstrations will cover such topics as farm tractor safety, ATV safety, lawnmower safety, fire safety, first aid, and animal safety.

"We knew that farm families were concerned about safety, but even we were surprised by the overwhelming response to our camp," said Progressive Farmer Editor Jack Odle. "After holding 20 camps last summer, we now have 84 scheduled in 1996. And our sponsors are just as enthusiastic as our readers. Companies like Shell Lubricants; Farm Plan, a service of FPC Financial; Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.; Gold Kist, Inc.; O.F. Mossberg & Sons; and Smith & Wesson have made it possible for us to reach a lot of kids. Our goal is to prevent dangerous accidents altogether."

This summer, Progressive Farmer will hold safety camps in 23 states, including West Virginia, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, and Maryland.

Progressive Farmer is published by Southern Progress Corp., which also publishes Southern Living, Southern Accents and Cooking Light magazines, as well as Oxmoor House books. The Birmingham, Alabama, company is the largest regional publisher of magazines and books in the country.

Communities that desire to host their own farm safety day camp next year may send a letter of interest to: Farm Safety Day Camps, Progressive Farmer Magazine, 2100 Lakeshore Drive, Birmingham, AL 35223. Voice: (205) 877-6000.

Sept. Agricultural Survey To Begin

In early September the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service (MASS) will be conducting a survey to collect data concerning small grain crops, such as winter wheat, barley, oats and rye for the 1996 crop year.

In addition, they will be asking for grains in storage (old crop whole grain corn, old crop soybeans, and old crop sunflowers on the farm).

A sample of 450 Maryland farm operators will be interviewed for this survey. Representatives from MASS will be contacting these operators either by phone or in person between August 30 and September 10 for information about their operation.

Micro-Integration Notes Acquisition Of Ohio Company

Micro-Integration Corp., Frostburg, announced this week that it has completed its acquisition of Computer Site, Inc., a Strongsville, Ohio-based computer system integrator. Terms of the acquisition were not announced.

"Computer Site represents the first in what we hope will be a steady series of similar acquisition announcements as we implement our strategy to expand our businesses," said John Parsons, MI's president and CEO. "While we have been managing our core business to operate profitably, it hasn't offered enough growth potential as the market for connectivity products has slowed down and become fiercely competitive. As previously announced, we believe we can obtain significant growth by leveraging our current skills and technical services capabilities to enterprises that need help fully exploiting computers, telecommunications, and network systems," he said.

"We believe we can provide excellent service to those customers," Parsons added. "To do that, we need to expand our reach beyond our Frostburg headquarters, and we plan to accomplish that by acquiring high-quality companies like Computer Site."

Parsons also said that Computer Site's more than 10-year track record and large customer base made it an attractive acquisition.

"We will help the existing and new customers of Computer Site design and integrate their computer systems, access the Internet, establish and use Intranets, connect to IBM AS/400 mainframes, and customize their application software," said Parsons, who cited MI's experience in telemarketing, help desk services, and connectivity-product innovation as assets that will play an important role in expanding Computer Site's business.

Micro-Integration Corp. offers system integration and consultation services to organizations that want to use information technology as a strategic business tool. The company specializes in providing products and services that help customers take advantage of distributed computing and downsizing applications from IBM host-based systems to client-server and PC-based systems.

SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENT - Christy Keller, daughter of George and Annette Keller, Accident, was the 1996 recipient of the John Thomas Sealing Memorial Scholarship, presented annually by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sealing to a freshman college student who is studying in the field of medicine or education. It is considered a rescue pumper since it carries rescue as well as fire-fighting equipment. THE OLDEST KNOWN STRUCTURE IN GARRETT County, Accident's Drane House, will be featured in Accident Cultural and Historical Society's first "Christmas in Flowery Vale Tour," slated for Saturday, Dec. 14. The fund-raiser will benefit local veterans and their families, according to a Society spokesperson. The Drane House, which was constructed in the late 1700's, is an important historical site in the county and was recently restored by the town of Accident. It will be decorated as it may have been during a Christmas of the late 18th century. Other buildings on the tour route will include the two Lutheran parishes of the town -- Zion Lutheran and St. Paul's -- as well as the homes of the Slawson and Nairn families. See story. Another house tour also slated for December is the annual American Red Cross Home for the Holidays House Tours, slated for Dec. 6, 4-9 p.m., and Dec. 7, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., with all proceeds from the event benefitting the local ARC chapter. See related story. Both events offer residents the opportunity to visit several elegant homes festively decorated for the holidays while at the same time helping vital local charities stay afloat.

MEMA Will Not Fund Crellin Flood Measures

Michael Mudge, a resident of Crellin who has spearheaded a proposed "elevation project" for several homes repeatedly damaged by flooding, met with the Garrett County Commissioners this week to inform them of the latest set-back for the town.

According to Mudge, the town had filed an application in June asking for relief funds from the Maryland Emergency Management Agency (MEMA). The money was to be used to elevate 26 homes to one foot above the 100-year flood plain. The original dollar request was $758,000.

While the town first asked that 26 houses be attended to, MEMA cut that request back to 13 houses with the possibility of FEMA (the Federal Emergency Management Agency) funding the elevation measures on the remaining 13.

Mudge told the commissioners Tuesday that after several months, MEMA had sent a funding request to FEMA for 11 projects (out of 36 original requests) in Maryland. MEMA ranked the Crellin project at number six. While that ranking was encouraging to the town, FEMA then announced that it would only be funding the first four projects (one of which is a floodwall in Friendsville, which was ranked second).

Because the funding request has fallen through for Crellin, Mudge asked the elected officials to contact all other elected officials who represent the town and urge them to help locate alternative funding for the project. The commissioners agreed to do so, and hoped to have a letter drafted by Wednesday.

Persons interested in assisting in this effort may also contact the county and state elected officials (Commissioner Roger Glotfelty,

TEENAGERS TO RELAY AIDS MESSAGE - A group of Charleston, W.Va., teenagers will be in Garrett County to perform a production of Gone Tomorrow as part of the Garrett County Health Department's Open Heart program. The program is set for Saturday, Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College's theater. Sponsored by the Garrett County AIDS Council with the support of the community, the program will be admission-free and open to the public. Gone Tomorrow is a 30-minute play about the life and relationships of a typical teenager, according to Joelle Plauger, council member, who saw a performance of the play during the recent Washington, D.C., display of the NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt. "The teens on stage let you into the lives of the characters and you learn how AIDS impacts each of them and how it could impact any of our own county's teens," Plauger said. The play was written by and is directed by Dan and Penny Kehde, Charleston. (The Kehdes will present a workshop on how to put together a production of their play for local youth leaders and teenagers on Saturday, Dec. 7, 1:30-3:30 p.m. at the GCC theater.) The show will be part of an evening of education through poetry, dance, song, and theater. Local teenagers from both county high schools will perform as Pandora's Box, which is the local teen health theater. The youngsters will be joined by local artists and visiting guests. Also offered that evening will be a display of panels from the AIDS quilt, arranged in the Bausch & Lomb art gallery. A new panel will be quilted during the show to represent the Garrett County area, Plauger reported. For more information about the local event, persons may contact Eileen Schlosnagle at 746-8917 or Plauger or Donna McClintock at the health department: 334-8122 or 895-3111.

The Republican newspaper office will be closed Thursday, Nov. 28, in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Advertising deadline for the Nov. 27 edition is 5 p.m., Monday, Nov. 25. News deadline is noon, Tuesday, Nov. 26.

Braskey Named As DNR Project Officer For Adventure Sports

Commissioner Hopes To Serve Through FY '96

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin has announced that John G. Braskey, commissioner for Garrett County, has been named the DNR project officer for Western Maryland adventure sports. Braskey's work will begin immediately, although a definite location for his headquarters has not yet been decided upon. His role as commissioner is in question, although he has expressed the hope that he can serve in that office until the end of the fiscal year (June 30, 1997).

"The DNR and Attorney General's Office are currently looking into the feasibility of my staying on in the commissioners' office for a while," Braskey said this morning in an interview at The Republican office. "They expect to have their opinion on the matter by the first of the year. Personally, I would like to stay on until the end of the fiscal year since we are in the middle of the budget process. I really don't think it would be very fair to put a new person in right away and expect him or her to handle all these issues."

Regardless of whether he stays on for one month or seven, Braskey will be leaving his elected post before the end of his term. The process for filling the vacant seat will begin with recommendations by the Democrat Central Committee. The committee will inform Governor Parris Glendening of its choices, and then the governor will appoint a person to finish out the term.

The person to fill the position must be a registered Democrat and live within District II, which

Goals For Local Business Growth Are Set At "Economic Summit"

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and the Garrett County Department of Economic Development co-hosted an "Economic Summit" on November 15 and 16 at the Wisp Resort to begin the process of developing a strategic plan for the economic development of the county. The overarching purpose of the summit was to get all the various groups involved in the promotion and development of Garrett County together to identify the area's strengths and needs, and to agree on an action plan for moving forward.

The goal of the group is to improve the overall quality of life for Garrett County residents through improved employment opportunities, according to a spokesperson.

The event was attended by representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Department of Economic Development, Deep Creek Lake Business Association, Greater Oakland Business Association, Maryland Department of Planning, Garrett County Department of Planning and Zoning, Town of Oakland, Greater Grantsville Business Association, Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, and Delegate George Edwards.

The group agreed to work toward nine major goals: improving cooperation and collaboration between various organizations and interest groups, creating a "business friendly" environment; evaluating the importance and growth potential within the hospitality and recreation industry within the area; developing a comprehensive, integrated marketing strategy and supporting implementation plan; action to sustain and expand existing businesses; to identify infrastructure needs, set priori-

House Gutted By Fire; Cause Still Unknown

A one-story wood frame house located along Mayhew Inn Road at Deep Creek Lake was gutted by fire Tuesday morning, and state fire investigators are continuing their efforts to determine its cause.

Volunteer fire fighters from Deep Creek and Oakland VFDs were summoned at 7:07 a.m. after a passerby saw smoke coming from the structure and stopped at a nearby residence to call for assistance. Upon their arrival, fire fighters saw heavy smoke billowing from the eaves of the unoccupied house, owned by Dennis Savage.

The fire was brought under control within about 15 minutes, but not before gutting most of the inside and destroying the contents of the house. According to Steve Wendling, fire investigator for the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, the blaze began in the basement. Wendling estimated damage to the house to be $50,000 and loss of contents an additional $7,500.

Also summoned to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad and the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at the Kitzmiller VFD. There were no injuries reported.

Assisting Wendling in the investigation of the incident is William Terry of the Garrett County State's Attorney's Office.

Minor Traffic Accident Results In Near Tragedy For Crellin Man

What started out as a minor traffic accident last Friday afternoon on Rt. 135, near the intersection with the Bausch & Lomb Road, ended in near tragedy when one of the people involved suffered a life-threatening heart attack.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police at Barrack W, McHenry, 78-year-old Clarence D. Crosco was being interviewed by Tfc. J.T. Bentlejewski following a rear-end collision, when he reportedly went into full cardiac arrest.

Volunteers from the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department who had been called to the scene were able to administer cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) at the scene, according to the report, and Crosco was rushed to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He remains hospitalized there where he is listed in "guarded" condition.

The accident occurred when Crosco's 1988 Pontiac Bonneville struck the rear of a 1986 Plymouth sedan operated by Linda E. Himelrick, 48, Terra Alta, W.Va., who was attempting to make a left turn onto the Bausch & Lomb Road. Neither Himelrick nor her passengers, Carolyn A. Cuppett, 50, Kimberly L. Stump, 46, and Lori Himelrick, 19, all of Terra Alta, were injured in the 2:35 p.m. accident.

ICY ROADS CAUSE OF ACCIDENT

Icy roads were reportedly the cause of a single-vehicle accident that occurred last Friday morning, that injured an Oakland man as he traveled near intersection of the Old Crellin and Dilley roads.

Donald E. Ahern, 22, was injured when the 1988

Murphy To Return To GCSO After 60-Day Suspension

A local deputy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office faced a council of his peers in a two-day hearing this week as the result of a lengthy investigation and charging process within the sheriff's office. According to a release from Sheriff Randy Sines, Jeffrey Murphy was found guilty of two of the seven charges brought against him over two months ago.

Specifically, the board, which consisted of GCSO officers Lieutenant Larry Gnegy and Deputy First Class Pat Kelly, and Allegany Sheriff's Office Sergeant Ron Brown, determined that Murphy is guilty of conduct unbecoming a law enforcement officer and unjustified criticism of the sheriff's office.

In regard to sanctions, the board recommended that Murphy be suspended without pay for 60 days, that he be removed from his position on the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, and that he be stripped of his investigative powers as a police detective for two years. The board further recommended that he be placed on probation for one year, effective immediately.

Sines said he was satisfied with the outcome of the hearing and expects to follow the recommendations.

State Transportation Sec. Discusses Projects With Co. Commissioners

Maryland Transportation Secretary David L. Winstead met Friday with the Garrett County Commissioners and other representatives as part of the department's annual statewide series of meetings to discuss transportation projects with local elected officials. Winstead, together with State Highway Administrator Parker Williams and other department representatives, presented the state's draft transportation plan for the next six years.

"The Department of Transportation's program is key to ensuring a safe and efficient transportation system that ultimately increases our state's economic competitiveness," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "These meetings are essential because they allow us to hear what is most important to the residents and businesses of these communities, which enables us to design a transportation network to take us into the 21st century."

Officials discussed Garrett County projects in the transportation program including more than $5.2 million in safety and resurfacing projects to portions of I-68 (National Freeway), MD 135 (Maryland Highway), US 219 (Garrett

Hetz Sentenced To 18 Months For Manslaughter

A young Grantsville man convicted of manslaughter is to spend 18 months in the Garrett County Jail, by order of Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer. Patrick L. Hetz, 20, was convicted by a jury of his peers in August as he stood trial for the vehicular deaths of two local teenagers. According to the court report, the defendant will appeal the sentence.

Hetz faced two counts of manslaughter as a result of the Sept. 27, 1994, wreck on I-68. Thayer handed down a sentence of five years in jail for each count, with the sentences to run concurrently, and then suspended three and a half years of the term. In addition to the DONATES AFGHAN TO SGCRS - Despite advanced age and impaired vision, 92-year-old Mary Shaluta of Oakland continues to contribute significantly to her community, as she recently presented a handmade afghan to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad for use as a fund-raising project. Ms. Shaluta, a native of Lithuania who arrived in this country when she was 9 years old, says she can't see the stitches that she knits, "So I just count them to know where I am." She has made similar donations to Hospice of Garrett County, the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, and to a number of personal friends. "I've been making afghans all my life," she added. Mary is pictured above with David Moon, president of Southern Rescue. Ms. Shaluta will celebrate her 93rd birthday on December 3.

TREE SALES WILL BENEFIT HOSPICE - Green Acres Garden Center and Forman's Tree Farm, both in Oakland, have once again teamed up to support Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., through the sale of Christmas trees. This is the second year that Dave Taylor from Green Acres and John Forman of Forman's Tree Farm have supported Hospice through the sale of Christmas trees. The trees are fresh cut evergreens, six- to 10-feet tall, which are available in Fraser Fir, Blue Spruce, and White Pine. "I am aware of the services Hospice provides for the terminally ill and their families," Forman said. "They go far beyond the medical services with emotional support and loving, compassionate care." "Hospice encourages residents to shop at home and support local businesses that support Hospice," Taylor added. "We at Green Acres are looking forward to helping Hospice by sharing our Christmas tree proceeds with their program." Pictured above with Taylor, left, and Forman is Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County.

Correction Noted In OPD Report

In a report from the Oakland City Police, located on Page D-7 of this week's newspaper, one of the arrest warrants contains an error.

It was incorrectly reported that Timothy Beeman of Oakland was arrested on a charge of assault. The report should read Timothy William Beeman, 33, Hagerstown, was arrested on the charge.

The Republican regrets the error, as well as inconvenience it may cause Timothy Beeman of Oakland.

Local Santa Needs Gifts For Teens

Lou Stoulfer, Terra Alta, W.Va., better known by hundreds of local youngsters as Santa Claus, noted this week that he appreciates the many donations of new and used toys, clothing, and other gifts that people have made to him. He added that his greatest need continues to be appropriate gifts for teenaged youth.

Among suggestions are perfume, tapes and compact dises, books, make-up, sweaters, undergarments, and stationery. All items may be dropped off at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland (Center Street entrance) during the day, or Stoulfer can be reached directly by telephone at 301-789-6743.

Stoulfer added that he has traveled 1,000 miles since June just to collect gifts. Last year he delivered gifts to over 300 area homes.

Blaze Damages Mobile Home Near Friendsville

A mobile home on Glade Road near Friendsville was damaged by fire Saturday evening. The 6:41 p.m. blaze caused an estimated $500 damage to the home owned by Mark Allan Herring.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Bruce Shafer determined that the fire was accidental and began when improperly discarded smoking materials ignited combustibles in a hallway. Jamie Lynn Custer, 16, was home alone and smelled smoke while talking on the telephone. After pouring water onto the fire, Custer was able to escape the 14' x 70' dwelling without injury. Her mother, Pamela Lynn Fisher, and Mr. Herring were visiting with a hospitalized relative at the time.

Twenty firefighters from Markleysburg, Pa. and Friendsville volunteer fire departments responded to ensure the fire was extinguished. Also responding was the Northern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries.

The occupants were not displaced by the fire.

WHILE RUSSIAN SPACE OFFICIALS are down and dejected with this week's demise of their Mars space probe that plunged into the Pacific Ocean, the American engineers pictured above remain all smiles, as their Mars Global Surveyor is intact and on course for the mysterious Red Planet. Standing as close to the three-stage Delta launch vehicle as McDonnell-Douglas Corporation officials will allow are, from left, engineers Cliff Meier, Bill Thompson, Garrett County native Jeff Sincell, Paul Hoff, and Dennis Potts posing with the rocket and its launch tower just a few days before its November 7 lift-off at Cape Canaveral. Representing Lockheed Martin, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, and two private companies (owned by Thompson and Sincell), these five have worked for the past two years on the project, specifically to assure that the MGS spacecraft (which is the "nose" of the rocket in the left background) will meet its mission requirements. These specifications include surviving the launch and deep space environments to enter Mars orbit and provide a comprehensive package of data on the surface features of Mars, its atmospheric and weather conditions, and magnetic and gravitational fields over the next three years. Sincell, who is a son of Robert and Hannah Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park, is a graduate of Southern High School and West Virginia University. He resides in New Jersey with his wife, Linda.

GCC Trustees Hear Report Of ICTCM Conference

The Garrett Community College Board of Trustees met Tuesday evening and heard a report by Dr. Nancy J. Priselac, coordinator of mathematics, regarding a recent conference she and a team of math educators attended in Reno, Nev.

The ninth annual International Conference on Technology in Collegiate Mathematics (ICTCM) was held Nov. 10 and Priselac's team presented a program designed to train others to use Casio's 9850 GE color graphing calculator, the newest and most advanced of Casio's graphing calculator line. Priselac's team designed special sheets that help people learn to do a skill on the calculator using a one-sheet handout.

Other team members were Southern High School's math instructor Wade Grove, instructor Tim Foster and student Linda May-Gerard, both from GCC, and Dr. Stephen Priselac, who developed a multi-media presentation to go along with their program.

Priselac told the trustees that during their portion of the program, a man from Germany showed interest in their presentation and invited the team to travel to his country in September to make the presentation at an international conference there.

"I thought it was a wonderful opportunity for the students and the math department here at Garrett to take our team abroad," she said. Casio will provide some of the funding for the trip, according to Priselac, and additional funding will be sought from the college.

The Garrett County team met with 2,500 other attendees at the conference who represented 40 nations.

PARTNERS IN EDUCATION

College President Dr. Stephen Herman announced Tuesday that the college hopes to enter into an agreement with the Maryland National Guard (MDNG) that will be designed to meet mutual goals between the two organizations.

Known as "Partners In Education," the proposal was offered to coincide with a recent decision throughout the state to allow a 25 percent tuition waiver for Guard members who want to attend college. Col. Milton Davis with the MDNG has suggested an agreement be-tween the Guard and GCC that will help educate its members. It is hoped, among other things, that the college will agree to waive student fees for Guard members and their sponses who attend classes in GCC-sponsored academic/technical programs held on MDNG sites (like the Oakland Armory).

The agreement would also allow Guard members to be treated as "in-state" residents regardless of their place of residence, paying only 50 percent of the in-county tuition (when attending classes on a Guard site) regardless of the class size and the number of semester hours that the student is taking.

The Guard, on the other hand, will provide the Oakland Armory facilities for classroom instruction, based on mutual cooperation, according to the proposed agreement.

Dr. Herman will provide more information about the proposition that will also include Chesapeake Community College after he attends a meeting at CCC on Dec. 5. The trustees approved the college's participation in the project and gave the president authorization to proceed with negotiations with the MDNG.

OTHER BUSINESS

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs at GCC, told the board that preparation for an honors program at GCC is currently underway. She stated that the program is about 80 percent complete and it is hoped the curriculum will be in place by the first of the year. The honors program at the community college will transfer to honors programs at four-year schools, she said.

The Learning Enhancement Council at the college has finalized a language arts curriculum, according to the dean, and the trustees can look forward to learning more about it by the next meeting, set for Jan. 21, 1997.

Dr. Priselac informed the board of trustees that a math club, the first of its kind at GCC, has been formed. The focus of the other students to use the club, she said, is to train graphing calculators.

CAREGIVER SUPPORT WEEK - In support and recognition of the many people in the community who are committed to caring for a relative or loved one, the Garrett County Commissioners have proclaimed November 20-27 as Caregiver Support Week. Besides noting the hard work done by those providing care, the proclamation also points out that the daily coping with frustration and isolation are hurdles not easily met. The need of caregivers to nurture themselves spiritually, mentally and physically was also underscored and referred to as a right and "not an act of selfishness." Present for the signing of the proclamation were, pictured left to right, Wayne Wilt, Commissioner; Leona Beckman, Area Agency on Aging; Donna McClintock, Health Department; Pat Vetter, caregiver; Roger Glotfelty, Commissioner; Joanne Harsh, Mt. Oakland Rotary Plans Annual Giving Trees

Oakland Rotarian Dr. David Bolinger has announced the start of the 16th annual Oakland Rotary Club Christmas Project, a county-wide community effort, annually organized and sponsored by the Oakland Rotary Club.

According to Bolinger, the goal of this year's project is to provide Christmas gifts and clothing, as well as food for holiday dinners, to Garrett County children and families in need.

As in previous years, Christmas giving trees will be located at various businesses throughout Garrett County. Need cards, listing the Christmas needs of children whose families have been determined to qualify for tltis project through the efforts of the Garrett County Health Department and the Garrett County Department of Social Services, will decorate each tree.

Shoppers visiting these businesses may remove one or more cards from a Christmas giving tree and purchase that gift for a child. All gifts purchased should have the card attached and be returned to the business from which the card was obtained by December 18.

"We hope that generous citizens will share the happiness of the Christmas season with others through this county-wide project by visiting one of our many giving trees," said Bolinger.

With the assistance of civic clubs and organizations throughout the county, project organizers will purchase and deliver more than 30,000 pounds of food, including turkeys for holiday dinners. Rotarians and other volunteers will assemble the food and gifts at the local National Guard Armory. Christmas gifts and 800 boxes of food will be delivered to children and families on December 21.

Bolinger acknowledged the assistance of those who have helped to make the Rotary Christmas Project a success. "In the true spirit of Christmas, area residents and organizations continue to give unselfishly, uplifting the spirits of those less fortunate during this joyous season of the year," said Bolinger.

Persons wishing to contribute to the Rotary Christmas Project may do so by visiting a giving tree or sending a monetary contribution to: Oakland Rotary Christmas Project, P.O. Box 741, Oakland, MD 21550.

Oldtown Man Arrested After High-Speed Chase

An Oldtown man was arrested and jailed early Saturday morning on charges of DWI (driving while intoxicated), fleeing and eluding, reckless driving, negligent driving, and turning off his vehicle lights to avoid identification, according to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry.

William Edward Ravenscroft, 28, was charged with the offenses after a high-speed chase with Sgt. R. Farrell that reportedly reached speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour. The report indicated that Ravenscroft was observed operating a 1985 GMC van at a speed of 80 miles per hour (in a 65 mph zone) on Interstate 68. He apparently left the interstate at the Lower New Germany Road exit, turned his vehicle's lights off and sped away.

A chase that reached speeds of 110 miles per hour led back onto the interstate and ended near the exit to the Finzel Road. A strong odor of alcohol was detected on Ravenscroft's breath, and he was subsequently arrested on the above charges.

He was transported to the Garrett County Jail,where he was initially held on $2,500 bond. He was later released after posting bail.

CDS CHARGES

A McHenry man was arrested Tuesday evening and charged by the Maryland State Police with possession of LSD, possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), manufacturing marijuana, and possession of CDS paraphernalia, after troopers and officers from the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force executed a search and seizure warrant at his home.

According to a report filed by Cpl. Mark Rodeheaver, Joseph William Cornet, 20, was transported to the Garrett County Jail following the 6:24 p.m. arrest. He was later released on $5,000 unsecured bond.

DWI ARRESTS

An Oakland man was arrested on DWI (driving while intoxicated) charges following a traffic stop early last Thursday morning on Rt. 219.

Charges against Jeffrey Wayne Ackerman, 39, were filed after Tfc. G.A. Seaman observed his vehicle crossing the center line as he traveled along Rt. 219, near Gortner, at 1:58 a.m. The trooper initiated a traffic stop, and Ackerman reportedly failed a field sobriety test. He was then transported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office where a breath test was administered.

Following a short stay in jail, Ackerman was later released from custody.

Two additional DWI arrests were logged recently at the local state police barrack.

Russell William Rodeheaver, 50, Oakland, was arrested and charged with DWI on Nov. 17 by Tfc. Randy Tarburton.

Walter Summers, 49, no address given, was charged with DWI on Oct. 31, by Tfc. Hagen.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

A Frostburg (Garrett County address) woman was arrested late last Friday evening after state troopers responded to a domestic dispute at her home near the Allegany County line.

Lori M. Schermerhorn, 29, was charged with second degree assault after a reported argument led to an altercation with the victim, Fred E. Schermerhorn Jr. The police report indicated the pair had been drinking prior to the altercation, and Ms. Schermerhorn apparently struck the victim in the face four to six times, leaving him with a black eye and a bloody nose.

Schermerhorn was transported to the Garrett County Jail following the 9:45 p.m. arrest. She was later released from custody.

Due Credit...

At times we use this column to criticize our elected officials, including Governor Parris Glendening, but we also utilize the space to give credit when and where we believe it is due. The governor announced this week a proposal that he will present to the 1997 General Assembly calling for, among other things, a 10 percent reduction in state taxes.

While we suspect that this is a primarily political move by a governor whose performance as head of a state is rated among the lowest in the country, and while we believe that, if passed, the proposal will have a rather nominal effect on the average taxpayer's obligation, we are pleased that he has taken such an initiative. After it is phased in over three years, one of the results will be, at least according to the governor's calculations, an additional $485 million that will remain in the taxpayers' pockets. It should also stimulate the production of new jobs, an area in which Maryland currently ranks a dismal 46th in the nation.

It is the second major part of his proposal, however, that has us nearly ecstatic, which calls for a 36-cent per pack increase in the state tax on cigarettes. Not only will this help compensate for the reduction in taxes, but more importantly, it will most likely serve as a deterrent to this deadly habit. An example given by the governor's office was a 25-cent hike in the cigarette tax in California in 1989. Since that time, the number of smokers in that state has decreased an impressive 17 percent. The governor noted another study which revealed that, for every 10 percent increase in the price of cigarettes, there is a 12-14 percent decrease in youth consumption of cigarettes.

The governor said that, over the next six weeks, he will announce other initiatives that will "make college tuition affordable, make our communities safer, ensure the good health of our children, and protect the environment." He said each of these will be fully funded in his proposed state budget.

We thank him for the above mentioned efforts, and we wish him good luck in his pursuit of what appear to be worthy objectives, regardless of any ulterior motives that may exist.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It's too bad that three fine athletic programs have decided to withdraw from local football competition. They have, in effect, told their fans that they don't measure up to the coaching skills or athletic abilities of either Fort Hill or Southern Garrett high schools.

I have been involved with high school athletic programs in Allegany and Garrett counties since 1952. I have witnessed countless games and am proud to have been part of many of these events. I see all of the state championship banners and trophies displayed on the walls and in the showcases of all of these schools and am convinced that they were earned because those teams were the best in their respective competitions. However, this year, I don't believe that will be the case. Any championship this year will be tainted, as were those of the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow, and the 1984 Games in Los Angeles, when the U.S. and Soviet teams boycotted the other country's Games.

I don't understand how a team which refuses to play either Southern Garrett or Fort Hill can be ranked higher than either of them. I believe that these schools are admitting to everyone that they are incapable of defeating either school in fair competition. Isn't is hypocritical, then, that we rank them above both Southern Garrett and Fort Hill? Let's accept their admission of mediocrity and rank them no higher than third!

In conclusion, I believe that this situation is a classic example of their coaches' egos being bigger than their programs.

Sincerely,
David C. Beard

To the Editor:

This is a letter of thanks and praise to the volunteers of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross and the others who volunteered themselves and their talents for the evening of November 9 when they presented the show, "Unforgettable Memories of Veteran's Day."

The evening was fun, moving, relaxed, friendly, funny, entertaining, all in all, just delightful. Delicious refreshments, interesting memorabilia, impressive, spontaneous dancing by patrons, beautiful artistic decorations, all added to a memorable evening unselfishly given by the volunteers.

If you missed it this year, don't let that happen next year even if it does snow again that night!

With warmest thanks to all participants,
Virginia A. Beitzel

To the Editor:

During the week of the Great American Smokeout, there has been much discussion in the media on the rise in teen smoking. Yes, many adults are quitting the habit they started as kids, but right now many more underage users of tobacco are becoming hooked than ever before.

Regarding tobacco use, we have seen many successes in the last couple of years, the two greatest being (mostly) smoke-free Maryland workplaces, including many restaurants, and our tobacco-free Garrett County school grounds. But our work isn't over yet.

We still have some stores selling tobacco products to minors. We still have many minors buying, sharing, and using tobacco. If this trend isn't curbed soon, think what the consequences will be to our already beleaguered health care system. Not only will treating the ill health of tobacco users cost us millions, so will the care of their innocent victims -- spouses, children, unborn children, etc.

We need to continue to work together -- as peers, parents, mentors and role models -- to turn around this dangerous trend of underage tobacco use. Attend the next meeting of the local Tobacco-Free Coalition this coming Monday, Nov. 25, at noon at the Garrett County Health Department, third floor. You don't have to formally "join" the coalition -- just attend for an hour or even half an hour to find out what we're trying to do. Perhaps you too can help.

If you have a friend or family member, especially a young one, who uses tobacco, this group is for you.

Donna Aspinall
Oakland

To the Editor:

I am very displeased with the reporting your newspaper does on the Northern end of the county. You act as though the Southern end is so much more important because that's where your newspaper office is located.

My dad is a 1964 graduate of Northern High School and he still gets aggravated at your lousy coverage of Northern.

I read your gossipy paper every week and notice in your sports section that if Southern wins something, it gets big bold print. But if Northern wins, it's no big deal. I'm a 1996 graduate of Northern High School, and it didn't take me Kindergarten through 12th grade to realize you guys need to get your act together and report fairly. I've noticed for years that we at the Northern end are not equal in your eyes.

We are all one county in one state. We are not two different countries, although it seems like it sometimes from your reporting.

This letter isn't about whether Northern or Southern is better. It is about whether your reporting could be better!

Just a thought.

Sincerely,
Brenda Glotfelty
Friendsville

Editor's note: For the record, we contacted Ms. Glotfelty, refuted her claim, and begged her to give us some examples of the inequitable coverage that she described, but she was unable to do so. We invited her to come to our office and look at past copies of our newspaper. She declined. We offered to provide numerous examples of how our coverage, particularly on our sports pages, is indeed equitable. She mentioned the size of the headlines, which is identical in size for both high schools. In fact, we offered to show her several examples of how the coverage for Northern High School sporting events is sometimes greater than for Southern's (and vice versa). She was not interested.

To deem us a "gossipy paper," Miss Glotfelty, is an opinion to which you are entitled and one that we wouldn't even begin to challenge or argue about; but your allegation of inequitable coverage, we believe, is just plain false.

To the Editor:

The thing that is the hardest for the mentally ill person to face is the way others look upon his or her illness. The person already has low self-esteem, and along with many other symptoms, there are people who don't understand. Mental illness is a chemical imbalance in the brain, but society often perceives the mentally ill person as being stupid, weak, or not having any character. Mental illness is an illness! It is a disease of the brain where certain chemicals are lacking.

There are many reasons for the lack of these chemicals. It could be caused by a genetic factor, and triggered by a physical or emotional experience. Stress could be the catalyst that alters the chemicals that control a person's ability to function properly. It is known that stress plays a part in other illnesses and diseases. Stress is known to increase the chances of heart problems. Stress has the ability to destroy the cells that fight off cancer in the human body. Everyone is faced with stress, and that could be the reason one in 20 Americans suffers with a form of mental illness.

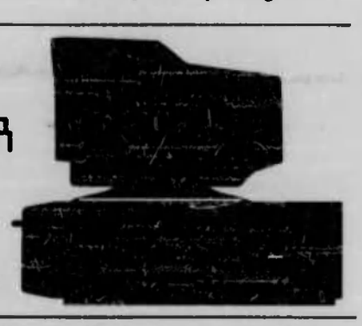
The Computer Corner

By Tom Hudson



Turning the Century

I have been silent for a few weeks now, since I have been traveling even more than usual. My computer consulting business takes me all over the country and even to Europe, from time to time. A lot of my work recently has focused on one specific problem.

It's coming, you know. Every day it gets closer. Those who have been trying to ignore it are being forced more and more to acknowledge that it will happen, no matter what they do. What is it that keeps me and so many other data processing professionals so busy these days? The year 2000, of course.

What's the big deal, you may wonder. Let's start with a little history. Back in the 1950s, when business computing began to take hold, computers were much more limited than they are today. Your watch or calculator has more processing power and memory than some of the early business machines. Because of these limitations, programmers tried every trick they could think of in order to minimize the space that data occupied. This improved the speed of processing, since the data that were read and written were the bare minimum. It also saved money for storing the many new facts that were being captured about accounts and other things.

The end result was that programmers decided to store the year as only two digits. This year is "96." That was a good solution in the 50s and 60s, and the repercussions were 40 years away. Now, however, the chickens are coming home to roost.

What's wrong with storing this year as "96?" Just this: pretty soon the year will be "99" and then it will be "00." Even without a degree in mathematics, you can probably figure out that "00" minus "99" results in a negative number. So what? Well, all kinds of computer programs perform calculations on dates. Your mortgage payment might not be calculated correctly. Your savings account would not earn interest correctly. Your life insurance company might think that you are 150 years old! A lot of businesses are seriously concerned about their ability to conduct business when 01/01/00 arrives, and quite rightly so.

In the computer industry, this is now being known as the "Year 2000 Problem." Many computer professionals are devoting all of their attention to this issue for the next four years. Many new companies are being started, just to help businesses deal with this crisis. It has already arrived for some. Drivers' licenses, passports, credit cards and other multi-year forms of documentation have already started expiring in the new century. This is only the tip of the iceberg.

As I see it, the average citizen is looking forward to the turn of the century with some anticipation. Many are confused about when it actually occurs. The 21st century begins on January first of the year 2001, but there will be a big celebration in the year 2000 anyway.

For us folks in the computer industry, however, the significant dates are January 1, 2000, and also February 29, 2000, (the year 2000 will be a leap year, but 1900 wasn't -- more arcane rules to deal with). We will do our best to ensure that your bank accounts and insurance policies and phone bills and everything else still work perfectly when that "magic" date passes.

THINKING ABOUT RETIRING IN 1997? CONTACT SOCIAL SECURITY NOW!

By Thomas W. Armbruster
Social Security Manager
in Cumberland, Maryland

If you're approaching age 62 and you're thinking about retiring next year, you should contact Social Security now to discuss your plans. In some cases, your choice of retirement month could mean additional benefits for you and your family. Because the computation varies based on your earnings for the year and the month in which you file, it's a good idea to check with a Social Security representative before making your decision.

Social Security rules permit people to work and receive retirement benefits at the same time, so it could be to your advantage to have your benefits begin in January even if you don't plan to retire until later in the year. This would allow you to apply earnings in excess of the annual limit to those months and still receive some payment for the year. Your benefit amount will be adjusted at age 65 for months you did not receive a full payment. For your application to be effective in January 1997, you should file for benefits any time before January 31, 1997.

In 1996, beneficiaries under 65 can earn up to $8,280 with no reduction in Social Security benefits; and beneficiaries aged 65-69 can earn up to $12,500 with no reduction in Social Security benefits. The amount a person can earn and still receive benefits increases each year with increases in average wages. Of course, if you are 70 or older, your benefits will not be reduced no matter how much you earn.

For additional information or to make an appointment to discuss your retirement plans, call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213 any business day between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Our lines are busiest early in the week and early in the month, so if your business can wait, it's best to call at other times.

THE POST-FREEZE GARDEN

What could be left in my garden after last week's freeze? To my surprise, my plot of greens continues to flourish. I did know that the Red Russian kale would not only survive but improve after such a freeze. The first year I grew it I shovelled snow off it, and carried it into the kitchen frozen. Once cooked that kale made the sweetest pot of greens we had ever eaten.

If the only kind of kale you know is the curly stuff served on your plate in a restaurant as a garnish (and as popular as spiced apple rings) then you need to investigate Red Russian kale. It is a flat-leafed kale, purplish green in color with streaks of red. It is visually appealing in the garden, and when young makes a spicy addition to a salad.

Two experiences have radically altered my understanding of the thing denominated as "salad." One is being married to my wife, and the other is growing fresh greens in the garden.

Deborah, my wife, makes the best salad I have ever eaten. She has some special gift when it comes to blending the ingredients and dressing a salad. For one thing, she rarely uses iceberg lettuce. Until I married Deborah iceberg lettuce defined my idea of salad. She has persuaded my taste buds that romaine lettuce is always preferable to iceberg. That does not explain her magic touch, but it is one non-secret aspect to her gift.

It was to this romaine-based salad that we first started adding extra items like kale. As our gardening of greens expanded, so did our concept of salad. Last spring we succeeded in producing a crop of red (Pirat) and green (Buttercrunch) Boston bibb lettuce. They made beautiful and delicious salads. In the old iceberg days by adding dressing we added flavor. Working with a variety of greens the dressing is only meant to accentuate the flavors already present in the greens themselves. It is truly a discovery to learn how varied and delicious the greens are themselves.

Spinach we grow in the garden in all seasons except in the dead of both summer and winter. I was surprised how well the spinach came through last week's freeze. It was looking a bit the worse for wear, but I hadn't thought it would survive at all. The variety we grow is called Space. It has a flat, triangular leaf, and a very straight-forward spinach flavor. It is good as a cooked green too, but the example of Popeye notwithstanding I prefer my spinach in salad.

For the first time this fall I grew an oriental green called Komatsuna Summerfest. Well, it turns out to be a winterfest too. It looks a very rugged green that will take some real winter before giving up. We have used a little of this to accent salads, but it is a strong-tasting vegetable, and more than a little in a salad might be too much.

I want to experiment with Komatsuna some more. It has a celery-like stalk which I want to try in chicken or turkey stuffing in place of celery. We also have not made use of this vegetable for stir-fry which is one of the ways suggested to cook it. When I stuffed a ham a few weeks ago (stuffing the openings of a ham with a variety of greens), I included Komatsuna in the mix. It seems to be a versatile green, but more appropriate for flavoring than for use alone.

The star of the post-freeze garden, however, has been the Coral escarole. We have been using this slightly headed green as the basis for our salads during the past month or two. It has a nice bite to it which some might find a little bitter before frost but which is unquestionably delicious after frost. The escarole is standing up pretty and proud after a week of freezing weather.

For those who do not have a winter garden, perhaps the grocer's greens selections will offer some of these delectable alternatives to iceberg.

Book of Hours...

Excerpted from
The Book of Hours at Deep Creek
of Katerina Schutzerin v. Wald

At first snow, an airy veil traced each eyelet of hemlock, cloaked every blade of yew, each ungulate-tongued frond; and spread upon the rhododendron, laurel, forest floor and bark a lightness that ran filigreed on branches through the horizon

Away from the lake it was thicker, brighter, whiter. While on roads that paralleled the shore, its tracery melted towards the water's edge; where silently rose up and spread onto the land, to the farthest side of the road, a vaporous lip that enveloped all passage in an ardent embrace lingering beneath the stars.

There, on Lake Shore Drive, the seasons' cloths overlapped one another; the veil of winter met the selvedge of summer, spun off the waves and billowed towards the land and future months. They amassed in a border, a luxurious cocoon, in whose inner dwelling was passage past transitory signs:
each pointed to the past or future. Only the present, in eternal becoming, hung nascent in the borderland; its existence fleeting, as difficult to read as the breadth of life, an etherous spirit hovering over the road.

Ministerial Assn. Sets Thanksgiving Service For Nov. 27

The annual Community Thanksgiving Service, sponsored by the Mountain Top Ministerial Association, will be held at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren on Wednesday, Nov. 27, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"The service is a continuation of a community event that began in the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park area back in the 1920s," said a spokesperson for the ministerial association. "It provides a time when Christians of various denominations can gather together to give thanks for the bountiful goodness of God." Prior to World War II, the service was generally held on Thanksgiving morning. Since that time, it has been held on the preceding Wednesday evening.

Guest speaker for this year's service will be the Rev. John A. Grant. He will use the topic, "Renewing Our Sense of Thanksgiving," for his sermon message.

Offering money collected during the service will go to the association's transient fund.

First "Christmas In Flowery Vale" Tour Will Feature Drane House

The James Drane House will be among those locations featured by the Accident Cultural and Historical Society at its first Christmas in Flowery Vale Tour. Proceeds from this event, which is slated for December 14, 4-7 p.m., will benefit local veterans and their families.

The Drane House got its name from one of the first persons of European descent to move into this area of Western Maryland, according to a Society spokesperson. William Lamar bought a piece of land, including the town of Accident, in about 1775. Lamar wished to grow tobacco on this property, which he named Flowery Vale. He most likely built the first section of the house, although he never lived there himself. Instead, he asked his sister's husband, James Drane, to come run the tobacco farm for him.

James Drane moved his family -- his wife and eight children -- to Flower Vale in about 1800. He also apparently brought six slaves with him to help grow tobacco. With the number of people moving in, the house had to be made larger. However, in spite of various improvements and the construction of several outbuildings, the tobacco farm was not a success.

After the Dranes died, the house had a series of residents, totalling over 11 families through the years of 1856 until 1952. The building is now the property of the town of Accident and has been restored.

For the tour, the house will be decorated as it would have been for Christmas with the Drane family. Members of the decoration committee include Albert and Mary Waleek, Peggy Close, Cheryl Geohringer, Ruth Ann Hahn, Bill and Becky Aiken, Rene Massengale, and Lisa Bonar.

The self-directed tour will begin at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, where participants will be given a map of the area. In addition to the Drane House, the other locations are St. Paul's, the Zion Lutheran Church, the Nairn Home, and the Slawson home.

After touring the locations, participants are invited to attend Accident's holiday Festival of Music at 7:30 at the Flowery Vale Senior Center. Admission to the festival is free, and persons do not have to have toured the homes and churches to go to this event. All who bring their tour tickets will be eligible to win a special door prize.

Tickets for the tour are $5 for all except children under 6, for whom they are $2. They are available at Matthew's Store and the following pharmacies: Deep Creek, Beachy's, Friendsville, and Proudfoot's. They will also be available at St. Paul's Lutheran Church on the day of the tour.

B&L Center Will Change Schedule

The transition center at Bausch & Lomb, which recently opened to assist employees facing lay-offs due to the plant closing, will change its hours of operation. Beginning Nov. 25, the center will be open from 6:45 to 9 a.m. for the morning shift; 11:00 a.m. to 1 p.m. during the Bausch & Lomb lunch schedule; and 2 to 4 p.m. for the afternoon shift, according to M. Sue Shockey, chairperson for the transition team.

These changes, Shockey explained, resulted from employee requests and the flow of people seeking assistance through the center. The center provides workshops on resume writing and job-seeking, and counselors are available to answer questions about unemployment insurance, fuel and housing assistance and mental health counseling.

"This will give us better coverage because the staff will use their time more efficiently," Shockey said.

She also emphasized that former employees who have already been laidoff can come to B&L to access these services.

Sheriff's Office Arrests Logged

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office has logged several arrests in the past two weeks, with charges including DWI (driving while intoxicated), theft, battery, and child abuse.

Albert N. DeWitt, 29, Oakland, has been charged with child abuse, third and fourth degree sexual offense, and second degree assault. He is accused of engaging in sexual intercourse with a 14-year-old girl, according to the report. He was apparently the caretaker of the child at the time of the incident.

According to the investigating officer, the defendant gave a full confession of the event.

Kenneth B. Smith Jr., 39, Swanton, was charged with DWI on Nov. 16 after he was stopped on Rt. 219 north of Mayhew Inn Road. He allegedly pulled out in front of Dep. M. Bittinger's patrol car, which led to the traffic stop.

Shawn Strawser, Oakland, was charged with DWI on Nov. 3. During a routine search, he was also found to be in possession of marijuana and rolling papers, according to the police report. He was then charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

Roger A. Kitzmiller, 52, Mt. Storm, W.Va., was charged with DWI on Nov. 2. He was stopped at about 11 p.m. on Route 50 when an officer observed him driving erratically, according to the report.

Richard W. Wildesen Jr., 19, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged with harassment, assault, indecent exposure, and stalking. All alleged violations were against Christy Hauser, and apparently happened in October.

Jerry L. Tasker, 26, Dorcas, W.Va., was charged with two counts of assault and reckless endangerment after he allegedly attempted to force Tammy Gatto, Smyrna, Del., off the roadway on Nov. 2.

Brett Glotfelty, 24, Oakland, was arrested earlier this month on charges of assault and reckless endangerment. He is alleged to have pushed, hit, and kicked Gloria Sharps on Oct. 31.

Michael P. Sliger, 23, Oakland, has been charged with assault, disturbing the peace, and tampering with a motor vehicle. The victim in the case is Rebecca DeWitt, according to the police report.

Rick Minnick, 35, Deer Park, was arrested this week on one charge of stalking.

Several bench warrants for persons who failed to appear in court were issued over the past two weeks. Persons charged with this violation are as follows: Sandra K. Tressler, 25, Oakland; Timothy A. Kitzmiller, 18, Grantsville; Phillip A. Pepe Jr., 23, Oakland; Thomas J. Meyers, 24, Oakland, Robert A. McCall, 28, Chestwick, Pa.; and Timothy S. Wilkinson, 31, Greensboro (Md.).

Persons accused of failure to obey a subpoena are Adam J. Lucas, 24, Mtn. Lake Park; and Doug Bowser, 33, Friendsville.

Robert E. Eichorn, 32, Grantsville, has been cited for failure to comply with a conditional release, and Jay S. Dixon, 26, Swanton, has been charged with violation of probation.

GCC Offering New Employment Skills Training

A new short-term training program will be offered, starting Jan. 13, 1997, at Garrett Community College. The program is designed to quickly prepare program completers with the skills needed to assume positions in various work settings. It is being planned to meet the needs of local employers as well as those of trainees.

The program addresses the needs of those with limited job experience as well as those of laid off or displaced workers who need training in order to transition into a new field, according to Sandy Major, program coordinator. It is designed to provide trainees with short-term, inexpensive training which will result in immediate employment opportunities in the Garrett County area.

During the initial developmental stages of the program the staffs of the local employment office and Western Maryland Consortium assessed the types of jobs most available in the area. Local employers were then surveyed in order to determine their needs related to hiring employees. Surveys assessed the qualifications and characteristics employers are most seeking in new employees. An advisory board consisting of local employers has been formed in order to keep the program focused on employment-related training.

The training program will be 600 hours in length and will include an on-the-job work experience component, Major said. Classes will meet Monday through Friday from approximately 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and some evenings for 17 weeks. Those who qualify can use Pell funding to assist with the tuition and books for the program. It is also anticipated that there will be dislocated worker funds available to assist with tuition and book costs.

The specialty areas that will be a part of the original program have been selected because they offer the most immediate employment opportunities. The nursing assistant specialty will prepare students for nursing assistant and geriatric aide positions in local health care settings. The computerized office applications specialty will prepare students for work in computer applications-related areas. The child care specialty will prepare students for work in licensed child care settings. The small business management/customer service specialty will prepare students for work in local business and hospitality settings. It will also be valuable for those wanting to start their own small businesses, according to Major. The office skills specialty will prepare students for work in a variety of office settings.

The training will begin with approximately 280 hours of core skills training in math, language, computer applications, problem solving, fitness, and interpersonal and job keeping skills. Simultaneously, students will be training in one of the specialty areas. After completion of the specialty training, students will be placed in work sites for practical on-the-job training.

Upon the successful completion of the work site experience, students will be awarded short-term training certificates and will be assisted by their job coach in obtaining employment.

In addition to seeking students to participate in this training, GCC is seeking work site supervisors. Work site supervisors are needed in health care settings, retail, service and hospitality businesses, child care businesses, and in office settings.

This program is being developed and implemented by the small business programs area of the Continuing Education Division of GCC. In addition to Major, who serves as the program coordinator, Julie Yoder will be the program coach.

Those interested in learning more about the program may call Yoder at 387-3089.

Governor Announces Income Tax Cut To Enhance State's Economy

In a move reportedly designed to create new jobs and make Maryland's business climate more competitive, Governor Parris N. Glendening this week announced a plan to cut the state's personal income tax rate by 10 percent.

The proposed tax cut, a key component of the Governor's economic development agenda, would be phased in over three years beginning in January 1998. It would be the third largest of its kind by any state in the 1990's, and would mark the first time that Maryland's income tax rate has been reduced below five percent since it was established at that level 29 years ago.

At a news conference at the World Trade Center, Glendening also announced his intention to double Maryland's 36-cents-a-pack tax on cigarettes to discourage young people and adults from smoking. National studies have demonstrated a direct link between an increase in the price of cigarettes and a decrease in cigarette smoking.

Glendening said he proposed the income tax reduction only after he became certain that it could be paid for, not only in the short term, but in later years as well, and that there will be sufficient money to make "significant improvements" in each of his priority areas: education, public safety, health care for children, and environmental protection.

The Governor's proposal, which will be introduced when the General Assembly convenes in January, would reduce the state's personal income tax rate from 5 percent to 4.5 percent. The reduction will be accomplished over three years: the rate will be reduced by two percent in 1998, an additional three percent in 1999, and an additional five percent in 2000.

"This tax cut will help working families. It will put $485 million back into our taxpayers' pockets, and is both fiscally responsible and affordable," Governor Glendening said. "It is, moreover, the single most important step we can take to make Maryland more competitive and create more jobs."

"The seeds of this personal income tax cut were planted when Governor Glendening came into office 22 months ago and developed the state's first four-year, strategic economic development plan," said James Brady, Maryland's Secretary of Business and Economic Development. "The governor immediately cut the budget by $234 million and worked with the legislature to set aside $200 million in reserve. That money was earmarked for a tax cut, provided it was not needed to offset cuts in federal funds. Now that it appears that threat has passed, and with our economy picking up steam, the governor is moving ahead responsibly with the tax cut."

SUPPORT FOR SOUTHERN RESCUE - Sisler and Sisler Tree Farm Management LLC, which operates the Mountaintop Tree Farm just north of Oakland along U.S. Rt. 219, will demonstrate its support for the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad this holiday season by donating $1.00 for each and every Christmas tree sold at their lot this year. The company also has wreaths and garlands for sale, along with large Christmas trees (8-14 feet). Pictured above left is Randy Sisler, manager of Sisler and Sisler, and at right is David Moon, president of Southern Rescue. Sisler explained that one reason for the decision to donate to the squad is the fact that the squad responded to the farm in September to treat and transport Alvin Sisler, who was injured on the job.

In later years, the governor said, the cost of the tax cut will be covered through savings from the continued reduction in the size of government, by increases in revenue from an economy stimulated by the tax cut, and from revenues from the proposed increase in the tax on cigarettes.

He emphasized that even after reserves are diverted to pay for the tax cut, the state will continue to hold aside a "rainy day" reserve fund equal to five percent of the state's general fund. Bond rating agencies have instructed the state that this is a reasonable amount for a AAA-rated state such as Maryland to hold in reserve.

The governor said state government expenditures have been reduced through a series of actions, including a decrease in the total number of employees, an early retirement incentive program, consolidation of some departments, and progressive reforms of both the welfare and Medicaid programs.

"This year, we enacted a budget that actually declined for the first time in more than 60 years," Governor Glendening said. "We also reduced or eliminated 10 business taxes, saving businesses over $124 million, and instituted regulatory reform.

"While we have recovered the jobs lost during the recession of the early years of this decade and those lost due to federal government reductions and shutdowns," he said, "we need to do more in the area of job growth. There are more jobs in Maryland than ever in the history of our state, and most of our key economic indices are headed in the right direction, but we have to do more."

"This is exactly what we need to do to bring more jobs to Maryland and improve the state's business climate," said Secretary Brady. "Everyone knows I have been an unabashed advocate of lowering the tax rate and I commend Governor Glendening for finding a way to get this done in a reasonable, responsible way. This will be a critical component of our economic development agenda, one that is essential to ensuring steady job growth well into the 21st Century."

Representatives of a variety of business groups immediately commended the governor's action.

"This is an important commitment by the governor towards moving Maryland forward economically," said Randall Griffin, president of the Constellation Real Estate Group. "A personal income tax cut is an integral element of our statewide strategic plan designed to stimulate growth."

Studies Link Price Hike to Smoking Decrease

Governor Glendening also said that mounting evidence had convinced him that aggressive action could reduce the number of Marylanders who smoke cigarettes and sharply reduce the number of young people who would otherwise start smoking.

"This is about saving people's lives, about sparing our citizens from the ravages of heart disease and lung cancer," the governor said. "In the next 24 hours, 3,000 teenagers across this country will start smoking cigarettes.

"Think about it," he added. "From now until the end of the 1997 legislative session, 1,833 children in Maryland will start smoking. During that same period, 3,750 Marylanders will die from smoke-related deaths. And 90 percent of them started smoking as children. These numbers simply cannot be ignored."

Recent studies conclusively demonstrate that an increase in the price of cigarettes not only encourages current smokers to quit, but deters young people from starting this deadly habit. For example, California increased its tax on cigarettes by 25 cents per pack in 1989. Since then, the number of smokers in California has declined by 17 percent.

Other studies indicate that for every 10 percent increase in cigarette prices, there is a 12 to 14 percent decrease in youth cigarette consumption.

"I only wish my mother and father both had stopped smoking before it killed them," Governor Glendening said.

Dr. Martin Wasserman, Maryland's Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene, said the proposed cigarette tax increase was vital to changing personal habits and was consistent with the Glendening Administration's overall philosophy on the health-related impacts of smoking.

"I applaud the Governor for taking this decisive action," Dr. Wasserman said. "It fits perfectly in line with the state's workplace smoking ban and the lawsuit filed by Maryland and other states against the tobacco manufacturers to recover the costs of cigarette-related illnesses."

In Fiscal Year 1992, smoking-related illnesses among Maryland's Medicaid population cost the state an estimated $124 million. The following year, that number rose to $130 million.

"I am sure those numbers are even higher today," Secretary Wasserman said.

In addition to the health-rated benefits of a cigarette tax increase, the measure would generate between $90 and $100 million annually in new revenue--funds that could be used to help offset the cost of the tax cut in later years.

"This is a revenue increase, but it is first and foremost about the health of our citizens," Governor Glendening said. "This is about our children. This is about saving the lives of our sons and daughters."

Over the next four to six weeks, Governor Glendening said he intends to announce new initiatives in each of his priority areas, including for public school students, for college and university students, for public safety, for children of the working poor, and in the area of environmental protection.

"My commitment to the people of Maryland was to keep our focus on those priorities, to protect our AAA bond rating, and to make Maryland more attractive for business, and all the while balancing our budget," the governor said. "I am pleased that we can meet that commitment and give the citizens of Maryland a tax cut as well."

Lakers Up Record To 3-0 By Winning Michael Tourney

Off to a winning start in their 1996-97 hoop season are the Garrett Community College Lakers, who captured their second and third victories in as many starts this past weekend by winning the annual Rob Michael/State Farm Insurance Tournament, hosted by Garrett.

The Lakers defeated Penn State-New Kensington in Friday evening's second game, 91-78, and then toppled Dundalk CC in Saturday night's title game, 87-78. Dundalk earned a spot in the finals by rolling over Potomac State College, 100-71, in the opening game on Friday.

It took a rally in the first half and another scoring spurt in the final minutes of the game against New Kensington for the Lakers to earn their second win of the season. The Lakers were down 25-15 at the 8:44 mark of the first half before going on a 15-3 run to take a 30-28 lead with 4:06 left. The score was knotted at 40-40 at halftime.

The lead changed hands several times in the second half until Garrett erupted for 10 straight points with less than three and one-half minutes to play. The effort included a three-point shot by VaShawne Gross and seven successful free throws.

Ronald Rhodes finished with a game-high 26 points to lead the Lakers' scoring effort. He hit six field goals and was 12-for-14 at the foul line. Gross was right behind with 24 points, Aubray Gray scored 16, and Kirk Grantham and Frank Winter each contributed 10 points.

Gray also grabbed six rebounds, Grantham was credited with six assists, and Jerome Adams had three steals.

Leading New Kensington in scoring was Josue Nieves with 21 points. Jorge Llanos netted 15, Jonathan Barroso scored 11, and Don Boylstein and Arthur McCray each recorded 10. Eighteen of Nieves's points were scored from three-point range.

Calling the game "a great team effort," GCC Coach Dennis Gibson said that it was his team's "defensive intensity" in the final eight minutes of the first half that carried over into the second half and led to the victory.

Gross led the scoring for the Lakers Saturday evening in the championship game with Dundalk, as he finished with 23 points, while Rhodes netted 16 points and was named the tourney's Most Outstanding Player. Adams finished with 15 and former Southern High standout Jimmy Pamepinto, who added eight points, came off the bench to spark a second-half surge.

The contest featured 11 ties and four lead changes, with the Lions holding a 39-33 advantage at halftime.

The Lakers were down 67-62 when Pamepinto entered the game, recorded a three-point play, and then hit two free throws to tie the score at 67-67 with 7:06 remaining. Garrett then scored eight of the next nine points to take the lead for good, as Gray and Winter, a Northern High graduate, each hit a field goal and two free throws.

The Lakers took their biggest lead of the game at 82-70 with 1:26 left and went on to win by the same margin.

Kenneth Bostic led the Lions with a game-high 26 points, while Antonio Bailey netted 17, and Benjamin Free and Rashad Howell each scored 12.

Grantham also had eight assists for Garrett, Gray pulled down 13 rebounds, and Gross pulled 11. The Lakers finished with a 46-37 edge in rebounds.

Penn State-New Kensington topped Potomac State in the consolation game, 93-74.

Gross and Rhodes of Garrett, Bostic and Bailey of Dundalk, Darrick Bush of Potomac State, and Llanos of New Kensington were all named to the All-Tournament team.

The Lakers will play again this Saturday at Catonsville CC, with tip-off set for 2 p.m. Next week they will spend three days in Florida where they will participate in the Central Florida Tournament (Nov. 27-30).

In Memory Of
Matthew S. Riley
on his birthday, Nov. 17, 1972

"Earth hath no sorrows that heaven can't heal." As I softly repeat it great comfort I feel. And I long to reach out to those in the storm of sorrow's dark night and point to the morn, when joy will abound up there in the skies, as God gently wipes the tears from our eyes. Oh then, we'll see clearly the face we adore and greet our dear loved one who has gone on before. Gone every heartache that here we may feel; for "earth hath no sorrows that heaven can't heal."

Loved dearly and sadly missed,
We love you, Matt!

JUNIOR HUNTER DAY, Nov. 16, was a big success for 12-year-old Robert Broadwater, Swanton, who bagged his first deer. The Southern Middle School student, son of Gerald and Karen Broadwater, got the 13-point, 165-pound buck while hunting with his father on private property in Swanton. The deer was checked in at Swanton Grocery. Robert is pictured here with the buck.

Firearms Deer Season Nearing; Safety Stressed

Maryland Department of Natural Resources' (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin this week reminded hunters that Maryland's two-week Deer Firearms Hunting Season will open on Saturday, Nov. 30, and close on Saturday, Dec. 14, and urged hunters to continue the tradition of safe hunting practices.

Deer hunting is one of Maryland's most popular hunting traditions with an estimated 100,000 sportsmen and women expected to go afield on the opening day of the 1996 season.

"Maryland's deer population is not only an important natural resource but it is also a valuable economic resource to the state," Secretary Griffin said. "Maryland deer hunters contribute more than $210 million to Maryland's economy."

Appreciation is extended to all private landowners who grant permission to Maryland's hunting public, "This is a valued service that is recognized by the department. Persons hunting on private property are reminded that you are a guest of the landowner, and you should act as you would want a hunter to act on your property," Griffin said.

The forecast for the 1996 deer firearms season is excellent as Maryland's deer population is estimated at 300,000. Maryland's firearms deer hunters set a harvest record last year when 39,721 deer were reported at official deer checking stations across the state.

Hunters should refer to the deer hunting section of the "Guide to Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1996-97" for detailed information concerning deer hunting regulations. This publication is available at all DNR Sport License Agents and DNR Regional Service Centers. Following are individual county/zone restrictions relative to Maryland's 1996 Deer Firearms Season:

Allegany (Zones 1 and 2), Frederick (Zone 1), Garrett (Zones 1 and 2), and Washington (Zone 2): Nov. 30 to Dec. 12 (antlered only), Dec. 13 and Dec. 14 (antlered or with permit antlerless). An "antlerless deer permit" is required in order for a hunter to take an antlerless deer in these counties/zones.

All Other Maryland Counties: In the remaining Maryland counties, antlered or antlerless deer may be taken during the entire two-week firearms season. Note that Frederick County (Zone 2) has been opened to hunting antlered or antlerless deer for the entire two-week season this year.

The goal of Maryland's deer management program is to maintain the deer population at a level compatible with the various Maryland landscapes, to provide recreational opportunities for the citizens of Maryland, and to reduce deer damage to crops, urban landscapes, automobiles, and other property.

Hunting remains one of the safest outdoor recreational activities. Hunters contribute to this safety record by annually reviewing and following the Ten Commandments of Shooting Safety:

Control the direction of your firearm's muzzle. Carry your firearm safely, keeping the safety on until ready to shoot.

Identify your target and what is beyond it. Know the identifying features of the game you hunt.

Treat every firearm with the same respect due a loaded firearm.

Be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions and that you have only ammunition of the proper size for the firearm you are carrying.

Unload firearms when not in use. Leave the actions open. Firearms should be carried empty in a secure gun case to and from the hunting area.

Never point a firearm at anything you do not want to shoot. Avoid all horseplay with a firearm.

Never climb a fence or tree, or jump a ditch or log, with a loaded firearm. Never pull a firearm toward you by the muzzle.

Never shoot a bullet at a flat, hard surface or water. During target practice, be sure your backstop is adequate.

Store firearms and ammunition separately beyond the reach of children and careless adults.

Avoid alcoholic beverages or other mood-altering drugs before or while shooting.

Student Teacher Helps With SHS Cross Country

The Southern High School girls' cross country team captured the 1996 Maryland State 1A championship recently, and a person who assisted the Rams in that effort was Angie Rye, an education student at Frostburg State University who is doing her student teaching this semester.

Miss Rye, who participated in track and cross country both at Middletown High School and while a student at Frostburg State, assisted in recruiting runners for the Southern girls' team, helped the athletes set, evaluate, and adjust their goals for the season, helped motivate them for races, and also assisted in the administration of the home meets.

"Angie brought many positive experiences from her own high school and collegiate careers," stated Louis Newcomb, head coach of the Rams, "and she applied them to our program.

'Angie always gives more than is expected, whether it is in coaching, teaching in the classroom, or working in the community," Newcomb continued. "She was an excellent addition to our coaching staff and an outstanding role model for our young athletes."

Miss Rye's professional development program this fall also included teaching experiences at George's Creek Elementary, Beall Elementary, and Southern Middle School. She will be awarded her education degree at FSU next month.

Upland Game Hunting Season Is Underway

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin noted this week that the upland game season is now underway, and announced a new quail research project.

"Hunting for upland game, commonly referred to as "farm game," began with the opening of the cottontail rabbit season in Garrett and Allegany counties on Nov. 1," Griffin said.

In all other Maryland counties, rabbit hunting seasons opened on Nov. 7, along with the opening of the bobwhite quail and ringnecked pheasant seasons. Quail hunting is not permitted in Garrett and Allegany counties.

"Bobwhite quail populations throughout the Eastern United States have been declining in recent years," Griffin said. "One of the primary factors contributing to this decline has been a decrease in the availability of quality quail habitat."

This same trend is evident in Maryland as reflected by the annual harvest levels of quail by hunters. In 1975 an estimated 250,000 quail were harvested compared to about 50,000 in recent years.

This fall the Wildlife and Heritage Division will begin a multi-year investigation to determine what effect hunting, especially late season hunting, may have on quail population numbers, the secretary reported. A sample of approximately 1,000 quail hunters will soon receive a survey form and a letter explaining details of the project and asking for their cooperation. The Division encourages selected quail hunters to cooperate in this survey and welcomes participation by other quail hunters who may not have been directly contacted by the Division.

Interested hunters should contact Joe Shugars, Upland Game Project Manager, Wildlife and Heritage Division, Indian Springs W.M.A., 14038 Blairs Valley Road, Clear Spring, MD 21722, or call (301) 842-3355.

Quail reproduction suffered from the unusually severe weather last winter and a wet summer. Consequently, bobwhite quail numbers are likely to be lower than the past two years. Since hunting conditions are closely related to current year reproductive success, quail harvest generally is expected to be depressed this year, the secretary reported.

Near Tragedy

Oldsmobile Cutlass he was operating on the Old Crellin Road began to slide on the icy roadway, causing it to strike a utility pole.

Ahern was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad. He was reportedly treated and released following the 8:08 a.m. mishap. He was cited by the state police for failure to drive right of center.

ONE INJURED

An Oakland woman was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a single-vehicle accident last Thursday morning on the Sand Flat Road.

Wilma L. Strawser, 43, was traveling south on the Sand Flat Road, just south of Rt. 219, when she apparently lost control of the 1994 Ford F-150 pickup truck she was operating, causing it to travel off the right side of the road and over an embankment.

Strawser was admitted to the hospital for treatment of her injuries. She has since been released.

Tpr. G.A. Seaman investigated the 6:08 a.m. accident.

OAKLAND RESIDENTS INVOLVED IN MISHAP

Two Oakland residents reportedly escaped serious injury following a two-vehicle accident that occurred Tuesday afternoon near Cumberland.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police at Barrack C, Cumberland, George Tanner, 27, and Linda Tanner, 27, were traveling south on Rt. 36 in Motor City and were waiting to make a left turn onto Dakota Street, when a 1987 Ford Ranger pickup truck, operated by Bryan McFarland, 21, Cumberland, struck their 1996 Jeep Cherokee from the rear.

McFarland was injured in the 2:52 p.m. mishap, according to the police report, and was transported to Sacred Heart Hospital. His passengers, Jessica Greise, 18, Cumberland, and an unidentified 5-year-old child, were apparently uninjured.

McFarland was charged by the state police with failure to control the speed of his vehicle to avoid a collision.

CARS COLLIDE

A Frostburg woman was injured Wednesday evening when the car she was a passenger in was struck by another vehicle on Rt. 219.

Patricia E. Blubaugh was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by volunteers from Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, where she was reportedly treated and released.

Blubaugh was a passenger in a 1990 Chrysler Imperial operated by her husband, Ralph W. Blubaugh. Their car was struck in the side by a 1985 Chevrolet Blazer operated by Kenneth J. Beckett, Mtn. Lake Park, who was attempting to make a left turn from Rt. 219.

Neither Ralph Blubaugh, Beckett, nor his passenger, Keith V. Beckett, were injured in the 7:25 p.m. accident, but Beckett was charged with failure to yield right of way.

Also responding to the scene were volunteers from the Oakland fire department.

Several Students Complete Career Planning Class

The New Horizons/New Dimensions programs of Garrett Community College recently completed the third FY97 series of a five-week, 10-session Career Planning class taught by Mary Kirkland, Intake/Counselor Specialist with the New Horizons Program of GCC. The class included learning about job hunt strategies, getting to know oneself, what self esteem means to a nontraditional student returning to classes or to the work world, ways to build self esteem, what stress is and how to handle it, combining working with family obligations, time and budget management, resume writing, and job interview techniques.

Several interest tests were administered to participants to determine their career interests. These tests included the Career Assessment Inventory (CAI), the Holland Code Self-Directed Search, and the GATB (General Aptitude Test Battery).

The recent group of students enrolled in the class included: Sarah Bolyard, Christine Hawtin, Janet Joseph, Elaine Kackley, Linda Moon, Jacqueline Railey, and Crystal Vecchioni.

The next Career Planning Class is scheduled to begin on Monday, January 8, 1997, at Garrett Community College, McHenry Campus. Anyone interested in enrolling in the Career Planniug Class should call New Horizons weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 387-3071 or 387-3102 for complete information. "The class is a great beginning for a support group and has proven beneficial for reentry individuals to make career decisions and to enter training in their areas of interest," stated Barbara Frey, program director for New Horizons and New Dimensions.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the program through Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is 90% of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,200, which is 10% of the total budget for New Horizons. The New Dimensions Program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources, Community Services Administration, Women's Services Division.

by Mary Sincell McEwen

The room is dark, her eyes are heavy, she finally drifts off to sleep . . . WAAH! Violently she is jarred awake to the sound of a screaming baby who must have her attention at that moment, no matter how tired she is. She drags herself up, stumbles to the crib, and handles the child with loving care even though she'd much rather curl up under the blanket, hold her ears, and hide.

This is the nightly experience of all parents, mothers and fathers, and while those with children may try to explain this to a young person enamored with the idea of having a baby, there is truly no way to explain to a teenager how tiring and demanding parenthood is. However, an innovative electronic mechanism in the guise of a sweet cuddly infant is making great strides in giving these young people a dose of reality.

"Baby Think It Over" dolls have made national headlines of late, and a local group of concerned physicians, dentists, and their spouses have managed to raise enough money to purchase six of them. The dolls are lifelike 20" vinyl infants weighing seven or eight pounds, available in choices of gender and race. An internal computer simulates an infant crying at realistic, random intervals of two to four and a half hours, 24 hours a day.

"That sound is really a shock to your ears," said Larry Bruch, child welfare supervisor for the Garrett County Department of Social Services. Bruch said the department has one doll already, obtained after he saw a national story about them on television. The department lends the doll out over weekends to "at-risk" teenagers, or to girls who have simply expressed the desire to have a baby.

"These kids realize in a hurry what a huge task it is," Bruch reported. "Several of the kids were really taken aback by it. They're always ready to give the doll back when the weekend is over."

The doll cries and the "parent" must pick it up and put a special key in its back. The child cannot be put back down for at least 20 minutes or it will simply begin to scream again. A computer inside the doll records any kind of abuse or neglect. Only the assigned parent can quiet the infant.

"It's a wonderful thing with wonderful results," said Kathy Johnson, the wife of Dr. Tom Johnson. Johnson and Dorothy Leighton, wife of Dr. Herbert Leighton, said they and several others were planning to join a state organization of physicians' spouses. The state group required dues to be paid. Leighton said she was weary of sending money out of the county and suggested that the group put money toward a local project aimed at helping local residents. She saw an advertisement about the Baby Think It Over dolls, and the group's mission became clear.

The dolls each have a price tag of $250, but apparently the group had little trouble raising the money to purchase six. The noisy little reality-check babies are to get to the county by January. The group hopes to offer them to any teenager group interested in using them. The option of getting them into the local school system is also being explored, although some logistical problems have to be resolved.

"We have to examine all the ramifications they may cause," said Maxine Miller, director of secondary education. "We'll be discussing it." Leighton did note that the dolls can be deactivated when they are not in use.

Bruch said the ingenious infants were created by a NASA engineer who happened to be out of work for a while and came up with the idea.

"It is a complicated mechanical set-up," Bruch said. "And I think it is a very valuable tool in teaching young people the realities of having a child." He also added that the local doll has yet to go home with a boy.

"But we need to do that, too. The boys are just as responsible as the girls are, and they need to know wh it's like to get up all ho of the night with a screa
ing child," he said.

Gov. Announces

SAUERBREY RESPONDS

Glendening's Republican opponent in the last election, Ellen Sauerbrey, reacting to the governor's tax proposal, stated, "I'm pleased that the governor has finally acknowledged that Maryland's business climate is in desperate need of an income tax cut." However, she called the governor's tax proposal a "tepid response to our economic stagnation."

"Promising overburdened families a meager two percent tax cut, not even to be seen until their 1999 tax returns is nothing short of insulting and is completely unacceptable," said Mrs. Sauerbrey. "This is not a tax break, this is a blatant political gimmick to make headlines today. It's a tax fake, not a tax break." According to a Maryland Department of Fiscal Service report, the average person currently pays $873 a year in state taxes. The proposed 2 percent would give each taxpayer under $18 in 1998.

The governor's tax proposal would not give taxpayers a 10 percent tax reduction in an accumulative fashion, but a gradual, phased-in tax reduction at 2 percent in 1998, 3 percent in 1999 and 5 percent in 2000. Maryland suffers as the fourth highest-paying personal income tax state in the country--this proposal would only bring the state down to the fifth highest, Sauerbrey said.

She said this proposal would also "do little" to aid the state's faltering business climate. Maryland has been rated the third worst in the country for job growth, the Kiplinger Letter reported this month.

"This doesn't even begin to make us competitive with Virginia and Pennsylvania," said Mrs. Sauerbrey. "It's time to give Maryland a true tax break that will help both families and business prosper."

BRASKEY RESPONDS

A local response to the governor's tax cut proposal came from Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey, who said that the cut would not have any effect on the amount of state monies that funnel into Garrett County.

"This will definitely make our state more attractive to businesses, which is particularly important for Garrett County right now," he said.

Goals Set

ties, and develop a plan to address needs; to protect the county's environment and quality of life while achieving economic development goals; encourage business development while targeting quality jobs; and to promote education and training.

"This get-together, combined with the commissioners' recent request for enabling legislation to allow them to phase out the business personal property tax and give local suppliers a preference on county purchased goods, should send a strong signal to the business community that Garrett County is serious about economic development," said Dave Moe, Chamber of Commerce.

Jim Hinebaugh added that the summit should lead to improved cooperation among the various businesses and industries within the county.

"If we are successful and follow through with this initial effort, we can make sure we are all playing off the same sheet of music in order to maximize the return on the investment of our limited resources," Hinebaugh said. A good strategic plan will also help us to set aside some time for future planning. We are all so busy we frequently get caught up in day to day business to the extent that planning for the future gets neglected."

Braskey Named

includes the areas of the Elbow, Avilton, Finzel, Grantsville, Accident, Bittinger, Jennings, and Friendsville.

Grilfin has expressed his satisfaction with the hiring of Braskey for the new position.

"With John's educational experience along with his organizational ability and a concrete knowledge of Garrett County, I am confident that he will be an asset to the department in promoting public education, appreciation and participation in adventure sports through college-based educational programs, in-the-field internships, and special events occurring on public lands in Maryland," the DNR secretary said.

"The Adventuresports Institute (ASI) is very pleased to work with the special liaison from DNR focused on moving forward the initiative to build a National Adventure Sports Center in Garrett County," said Dr. Stephen Herman, president of Garrett Community College. "John Braskey knows the governmental system well and should do an excellent job in bringing this vital new element to Garrett County's economic development."

Braskey said he is looking forward to the challenge of the new position.

"Working with ASI and DNR in Western Maryland is an exciting opportunity to help Garrett County and all of Western Maryland expand on this new economic development opportunity," he said. "The adventure sports field is growing rapidly, and Western Maryland can be a leader and a major force in this area.

"We have a great natural resource here in our state-owned lands and we must expand our utilization of these lands to help our economy and to create jobs and opportunities for all our residents. Working toward a National Adventure Sports Center in Garrett County should be one of the goals we strive to achieve."

Braskey also noted his gratitude to the Glendening administration and Griffin for giving him the position and "the opportunity to help Western Maryland."

Braskey has been a county commissioner for 14 years.

Highway) and MD 560 (Gorman Road). Additionally, the program includes construction funds for the I-68 interchange at US 219 and engineering funds for the replacement of the US 219 bridge over Bear Creek and Fish Hatchery Road.

"Preserving and improving our transportation system in Garrett County remain our priorities," said Winstead.

Friday's meeting was part of 24 such transportation department visits around the state over the next month. Each fall, the department presents its draft program to every county and Baltimore City for review and comment. It then prepares a final report to present to the General Assembly in January.

Delegate George Edwards, Senator John Hafer, Congressman Roscoe Bartlett, Senator Barbara Mikulski, and Senator Paul Sarbanes) by telephone, mail, or fax to urge the officials to support the search for alternative funding.

Clarification Noted

A story appeared in last week's issue of The Republican stating that Arnold Brothers was the company hired to remove debris from the Potomac near Shallmar. In fact, the company working in the river is Frank Arnold Contractors.

Hetz Sentenced

18 months in the local facility, Hetz is to be on supervised probation for four years and will not be allowed to operate a motor vehicle for two years.

The accident was apparently the result of a total of three drivers "horsing around" on the roadway, according to a report filed by the Maryland State Police. Hetz was operating a pickup truck eastbound on I-68 and had allegedly been engaging in horseplay with another driver, a 17-year-old boy, who was operating an Oldsmobile. Jesse I. Jenkins, who was 17 years old at the time, was driving a Silverado pickup truck, also eastbound, in the same vicinity as the other two young drivers. The two victims, Timothy Durst, 17, and Annette M. Jenkins, 16, were passengers in the Silverado.

All drivers were traveling at high rates of speed, according to the police report, and Hetz apparently cut into the fast lane in front of Jenkins, causing him to brake. The sudden braking made the truck to skid sideways, hit a guardrail, and overturn, ejecting all three teenagers. Miss Jenkins was killed instantly and Durst died a day later. None was wearing a seat belt, according to the report.

An appeal hearing has not yet been scheduled.

In other circuit court events, Thayer ordered presentence investigations for two defendants both convicted of theft-related crimes.

Nathan T. Bendler, 21, Oakland, pleaded guilty to theft ($300+). The presentence investigation was ordered and Thayer set bail at ten percent of $1,000.

Bendler allegedly stole a stereo system from a vehicle parked at 135 Amoco. Also at that business, he allegedly took food items from a vending machine without paying for them and stole numerous gallons of gasoline. The crimes were committed in July of 1995, according to the court report.

Charles J. Wassil, 29, Gaithersburg, pleaded guilty to second degree burglary. Thayer accepted the plea and ordered the pre-sentence investigation.

The charge against Wassil stemmed from an incident in November of 1995 when the defendant apparently stole a safe from the American Legion in Oakland.

Sentencing dates for both cases have not yet been slated.

CRIME SOLVERS . . .

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information into the theft of two all-terrain vehicles, tools, and stereo equipment.

Sometime between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 8 p.m. on Oct. 9, someone entered the home of Paul Richards on Lake Shore Drive. A 1987 250 Four Trax four-wheeler, a 1987 210 Big Red three-wheeler, numerous tools, and a stereo system were stolen. The loss has been estimated at over $6,260.

Persons who have information about these or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor do they have to appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

heimer's disease, but do they know the same neurons that clump together, tangle, shrink, and die are the ones that malfunction in the brain of the mentally ill person? Society understands cancer, diabetes, Alzheimer's, and most of the other diseases. Why is mental illness so misunderstood?

James Watson, Nobel Prize Laureate for his work with DNA, declares "We want to be able to diagnose so that a person, from childhood, won't have to go through years of thinking he behaved badly, when in fact he has had a mental disease from early childhood which was never diagnosed." With the number of hospital beds being taken up by mentally ill patients, society should be aware of mental illness, and its effects -- which can be treated and cured.

Now the governor wants to cut what care the mentally ill get even more. The governor has proposed a 28 million dollar cut that will create more problems when the mentally ill community goes untreated. There has been a great deal of progress made in the treatment of mental illness, and it would be a disaster to allow the mentally ill to go untreated after coming as far as we have.

To the Editor:

I read the letters to the editor in our local newspaper each week and am very much in hopes that many others in the local area do the same. For this reason I am asking some of your more regular writers, who seem to me know the laws and understand the citizens' legal rights pretty well, if they could or would help me out a little on a few matters of importance.

First of all, I have found a United States Supreme court decision stating that citizens of this country have a legal right to own private property. However, I am unable to find anywhere where it states anything differently. So, I have to wonder why I am being refused the opportunity to bring a property dispute case into court to show evidence of ownership of our property which is now being totally destroyed and claimed by other parties. I wonder if the local clique members here in Garrett County would play any special part in this sort of activity of refusing to grant any citizen the right to ownership.

I furthermore would like for someone to please explain to me when there was an amendment made to our constitution which denies any citizen the legal right to use a governmental facility to file charges against anyone who would trespass on private property. Is there any such amendment? Or do our local clique members found in Oakland just make up their own laws as they go along?

I would like to know if there has been an amendment made to our constitution which gives any person, regardless of who it is, the legal right to intrude on another person's property and be able to file charges against the owner just because he or she is on their legally owned property.

I would truly like to know how our local department of taxation and assessments determines exactly where a parcel of land fits into our local tax maps. I cannot find the amendment to our constitution where they have been given total say over where to move property when they deem it necessary to re-locate a parcel of land. This is done on the tax maps in Oakland, but I just can't find out where it says it is legal to do.

I would like very much for someone to show me an amendment to our constitution making it legal to have a double standard of law such as exists here in Garrett County, and the state of Maryland. Is this legal or not? Is there an amendment which gives our local clique members special privileges which are illegal for other citizens?

I am in hopes that maybe Mr. Rowan, or Mr. Eastman, or Mr. Watson could help me. Since I am just an average everyday citizen here in Garrett County, I have no idea of what the laws actually state on these questions. The reason I mentioned the three people I did is because I feel they may be able to help me since I read each and every one of their letters and they seem to be quite knowledgeable of our constitutional rights and the laws surrounding them.

Thank you for any and all consideration you might give me on this matter. Your time and trouble is greatly appreciated.

Editors note: The writer of the following letter to Carl Booth, boys' cross country coach at Southern High School, requested that it be printed in this column.

Dear Carl,

Letters are easy to write when the subject is a person such as you. I particularly want to congratulate you for winning an unprecedented fourth state cross-country championship! You constantly amaze me! You seem to have the ability to sense the needs and feelings of the young people at Southern High School and you make them feel that they are a contributing factor to the spirit of the entire school.

There have been many positive comments and enthusiastic remarks relevant to your overall success as a coach from some of the finest students in our state. You always demonstrate a tremendous amount of enthusiasm that obviously carries over to those who come in contact with you daily, whether it be as a friend, teacher, or coach.

You possess fine psychological concomitants such as: exhibiting a personal warmth, having a high level of indigenous motivation, and harboring an unparalleled prowess to succeed in all aspects of your life. These qualities are recognized by our school and community, both of whom appreciate what you have done for the students in general.

The boys and girls of the "Runnin Rams" experienced a full day of pageantry, history, and excitement on November 9, 1996. Many of these students who participated and experienced success on that day would not have been there if you were not their coach.

Your personal warmth and ability to communicate with all students have contributed to your overall success. Realizing you like to stay in the shadows and let the students bask in the glory of another successful year, I want everyone to know what a great coach these students have.

Lastly, I would like to thank your wife Linda, who put in many long hours in helping to make the "Runnin' Rams" a winner's story. She has meant a lot to your program and exhibits as much interest and excitement as you.

Carl, go for number 5!

Your Friend,
Art Refoscoe

Even Start Classes Offer Job Skills To Assist Parents

As part of the welfare reform initiative, the Garrett County Head Start program, part of the Community Action Committee, Inc., is offering skill building classes to parents of enrolled children.

Made possible by a grant from the Office for Children, Youth and Families (O.C.Y.F.), this parent training program, called the Jennings Even Start project, opened in September and will run through June 1997.

According to Kathy Hamrick, family development coordinator for Head Start and Even Start project coordinator, this pilot program is a cooperative effort between Head Start and O.C.Y.F. "We are excited about these two agencies working together. It is the first time we have come together to focus on parent training," she said.

Explaining the goals of the program, Hamrick said "Even Start classes, which are held at the Jennings Head Start site, will focus on skill-building to increase effectiveness in job seeking. Sheryl Hershman, family service provider for Head Start, will teach computer literacy."

She also explained that other presenters would be brought in to teach interviewing techniques, resume writing and general office skills. "We also emphasize self-esteem building," she added.

Adult Basic Education (ABE) classes will also be offered through Even Start by the Garrett Community College Continuing Education Department. Hamrick described ABE teacher Ron Bolyard as "an interesting, dynamic teacher."

Some of the life skill subjects to be covered through the ABE classes are nutrition and budgeting. There will also be drivers' education available for anyone who needs it, she said, adding, "The parents we are working with are very enthusiastic about this program."

Hamrick said she thinks the enrollment will increase as more people become aware of the program and its benefits. "Hopefully we will help people increase their self-confidence and skill level so they can find employment," she said.

Doll And Bear Dressing Set At Extension Office

The Cooperative Extension Service has scheduled an all-day and evening worktime for dressing dolls and bears on Tuesday, December 3, at the Extension office. Worktime is scheduled from 9:30 in the morning until 7:00 in the evening. Attending this hands-on activity will provide Service Learning credit for students and volunteer hours for others. Basic sewing knowledge is helpful, but not required.

The Extension Service will provide sewing machines, patterns, dolls and bears, fabric scraps and trimmings. Persons who have doll and bear patterns are asked to bring them to share (12-15" dolls and 13" bears). They should also bring fabric remnants, lace, ribbons, Velcro, snaps, buttons, thread, and their own basic sewing equipment (good scissors).

Alice Hevner and Irmgard R. Koscielniak, both Extension agents, will be available to guide, support, and answer questions. Persons are asked to call (334-1990) if they are planning to participate and indicate the approximate time and number of hours they will be attending. The Extension office is located at 202 S. 3rd Street, Oakland, in the Courthouse.

"The dressed bears and dolls will be distributed by the Rotary club to children who may otherwise not have a doll or bear to hug on Christmas day," Mrs. Hevner said.

"How Do You Know?"

One day in late fall, little Jessica tugged at her mother's hand, and headed toward the front yard. "Mom," she exclaimed, nearly in tears, "my big old climbing tree is almost bald, like Grandpa got when he was old and sick before he died and went to heaven! Is my tree going to die like Grandpa?"

"No, Jessica," Mom reassured her. "It just looks that way." "But how do you know?" Jessica cried. "It still lives inside," explained her mother, "where Grandpa's soul lived when he died and went to live with God. Your tree will look alive again when spring comes, because it lives inside." Jessica was puzzled. "But how do you know?" Mom was patient. "Because of our faith in what God has promised us. Just believe me, Jess."

Our Lord says in John 20:29, "Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed." That is how we know. As you worship this week, go to God as a child and just believe.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE SOUND OF DRY BONES
November 24, 1996

Background Scripture:
Ezekiel 37
Devotional Reading:
Hosea 14:1-9

Have you ever known true despair–even if just momentarily? Have you ever concluded that there was no solution to your problem, no way out of your desperate situation?

If you haven't, I salute you. And maybe even envy you –unless it means that your time is still to come! Few of us escape completely the experience of despair and hopelessness. I am much more an optimist than a pessimist, but there have been times in the dark night of the soul when I have wondered if morning light would ever return. In those moments I could say with the exiled people of Judah, "Our bones are dried up, and our hope lost; we are clean cut off" (37:11).

The visionary Valley of the Dry Bones which the Spirit of the Lord shows Ezekiel was quite possibly an actual valley wherein the people of Judah fought the Babylonians and lost, not only the battle, but the kingdom as well. Either literally or figuratively it was a valley strewn with the sun-dried bones of the losers. Actually or symbolically, it was the graveyard of Judah's hopes. A valley of wounded soldiers might still give some hope, but a valley of dry bones holds no promise.

THE GRAVE OF HOPES

E.L. Allen, writing an exposition on this chapter, asks: "Who among us has not stood at some time or other by the grave of his hopes?" The grave of our hopes may be a home destroyed by natural disaster or a brokenness of human relationships. It may be a career which has come to an abrupt, apparent end or a physical condition that promises only disability and perhaps even death. Or it may be a deep feeling that the very stuff of human vitality has dried up within us and we can no longer meet life's demands.

Sometimes we despair because we wrongly interpret our situation. We may jump to the mistaken conclusion that "All is lost!" when it is not. We may misinterpret the severity of our danger or the resilience of our resources. But there are times when our despair is justified because we have nothing left with which to struggle but the skeletons of our failures and vicissitudes.

This was the situation that faced the people of Judah. Any realist, even the most optimistic of the lot, would have to agree that there was nothing for which they could hope. Judah and her jewel in the crown, Jerusalem, was a stone-cold memory, nothing more–at least from a very human point of view. This is what Ezekiel saw in the valley, nothing but dry bones! And the writer tells us "and lo, they were very dry" (37:3).

CAN THESE BONES LIVE?

I would like to know what Ezekiel thought and felt when God asked this ominous question: "Son of man, can these bones live?" He knew that there was no way humanly possible for these bones to live again. Yet, he also knew the Lord and must have wondered whether God was going to do something spectacular. His answer is guarded and open-ended, "O Lord God, thou knowest."

His answer of possibility is just enough an opening of the door through which God can accomplish his mighty act. It appears that this is something in which he needs Ezekiel's compliance. "Prophesy to these bones, and say to them, O dry bones, hear the word of the Lord" (37:5). The prophet is no mere spectator to the miracle of rebirth, but the agent through which it takes place. So long as there is a prophet willing to speak for God and dry bones ready to listen, there is nothing for God which is impossible. "So I prophesied as I was commanded; and as I prophesied, there was a noise..."–the sound of the dry bones taking on sinew and flesh and finally breath, a whole people rising up from the grave.

When we obey God's command, the spirit breathes into us a miraculous new life and breath and those dry bones can live again. That and that only is the ground of our hope.

TAKING NON-PRESCRIPTION DRUGS? SEE YOUR PHARMACIST

This is the theme that all pharmacists around the entire country are stressing this week. Why is it important? Because, many drugs that do not require a doctor's prescription can be dangerous and your pharmacist is qualified to advise and counsel you in the use of such over the counter drugs.

Of course, self-medication is only indicated with simple ailments and should never be attempted when there is the possibility of something more serious. We will never hesitate to recommend that you consult your doctor if we feel that you may be doing yourself a disservice by continuing with a non-prescription drug.

EMERGENCY PHONE, 334-8617

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?

Maya Lin: a portrait of the artist as a visionary

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Slender and soft-spoken, Maya Lin is a titan. Now in her late 30s, Lin joined the ranks of the world's best artistic designers at the age of 21, when her design submission was selected from thousands for the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington.

That and her other work, from public art to personal expression, is the subject of the Academy Award-winning documentary Maya Lin: A Strong, Clear Vision, airing Wednesday, Nov. 27, as a P.O.V. special on PBS (check local listings).

Filmmaker Freida Lee Mock begins with an account of the memorial's design and construction from Lin's point of view as a Yale undergraduate. Her plan for inscribing the names of the American war victims into walls drew a firestorm of criticism from veterans and government officials desiring a tribute of glory, not mourning. In congressional hearings Lin tenaciously defended her design.

Mock's initial idea was to compare that first public project with Lin's later memorial to the civil rights movement, commissioned by the Southern Poverty Law Center.

As the filmmaker began to follow Lin with her camera, she realized "there's a lot more going on (inside her) than what's reported in the paper." The film mushroomed from an 18-month plan to a five-year project.

"I shifted the whole idea," Mock says, "to a look at 10 years of her work and the creative process."

The result has grace without pretension, becoming a window to Lin's ideas, as well as the stone into which she casts them.

The artist who designed the Vietnam Veterans Memorial is the subject of Maya Lin: A Strong, Clear Vision, a P.O.V. special airing Wednesday on PBS (check local listings).

In Focus

Hugh Downs (20/20) narrates Assassination, a three-part in-depth look at some of history's well-known political murders.

The program premieres Monday, Nov. 25, and continues Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 26 and 27, on the Discovery Channel.

The series probes the motives behind the murders and the repercussions of the crimes through on-location re-enactments, and considers the implications had the outcomes been different.

Trivia

John Lennon's last onstage appearance occurred on Thanksgiving of 1974 with Elton John.

Trivia

Andy Griffith has performed in No Time for Sergeants, the play that made him a star, on stage, film and television.

Heavenly Bodies Toning & Tanning Salon

Heavenly Bodies Toning & Tanning Salon, owned by Roger and Teresa Baker, opened May 1 in the Loch Lynn Train Station. The Train Station and Heavenly Bodies are located at 115 Arnold Lane where Routes 135 and 560 intersect in Mtn. Lake Park.

Heavenly Bodies targets not only overweight people, but those who are out of shape, have lost muscle tone and flexibility, and those who are advised to exercise but are afraid of aerobic stress. Clients are assisted by three employees, April Friend, Jessica Baker, and Jody Teets.

"We have seven different tables that help to tone muscles, trim inches, increase circulation, all in a nonstrenuous program," says owner Teresa Baker. Heavenly Bodies also has one tanning bed and supplies, and carries items like vitamins, fat-burning bars, etc. Baker cautions, "Please remember this is like any other exercise program. You only get out of it what you put into it. You do need to work with the tables."

Baker says the salon targets young and old, men and women, and there is always an assistant available to help. "We take your health interests to heart," she adds. "The tables are also an excellent way to relieve stress. Hopefully, once our clients see results, they will share it with others, enabling us to grow and possibly expand.

Heavenly Bodies Toning & Tanning Salon can be reached for more information or an appointment by calling 301-334-0902.

Great American Smokeout Notes 20th Anniversary

The American Cancer Society's (ACS) Great American Smokeout is 20 years old this year. For two decades, the staff and volunteers of the American Cancer Society have used the Great American Smokeout to help smokers quit cigarettes for at least one day, and that day is today, Nov. 21.

"In a new twist to an old problem, the American Cancer Society is focusing efforts on children and teenagers because most smokers start before they reach the age of 18," said an ACS spokesperson. "By helping young people resist starting to smoke in the first place, the American Cancer Society hopes that future generations will not have to struggle to break an addiction to nicotine."

Since the inception of the Great American Smokeout, the smoking rate of American adults has dropped from 36% to 25%, the spokesperson added. "Unfortunately, an estimated 177,000 new cases of lung cancer are expected to be diagnosed by the end of 1996. Another estimated 158,700 Americans will have died from lung cancer during 1996," he said.

The Great American Smokeout is a time for Americans to renew their commitment to a smokefree environment for themselves and for their children. Most especially, it is also a time to keep kids smoke-free. Several reasons to keep kids smoke-free include:

*Tobacco use (smoking or smokeless) causes bad breath.

*Cigarettes cause harm to even the beginning smoker, including lung problems, smokers' cough and the likelihood of addiction. Even if you smoke only one cigarette a day, it can be harmful.

*Smokeless tobacco increases the risks of mouth cancer and other diseases of the mouth like tooth decay and gum recession. Early signs of mouth cancer may occur after just a few years of use.

*A very strong relationship exists between smoking and academic performance. Of those seniors with an A average in their senior year, only 7% were current daily smokers; of those with a D average, 46% were daily smokers.

*Cigarette advertising appears to increase young people's risk of smoking by affecting their perceptions of the pervasiveness, image, and function of smoking.

*Age 13 is when the average teen has had his or her first whole cigarette. By age 14, half have started to inhale. By 15, half have bought their first pack of cigarettes.

For more information or to receive a Great American Smokeout Survival Kit to try to quit for a day, persons may call 722-2145.

County United Way Reports Successful Year

In many ways, 1995 was a turn-around year for the local County United Way, according to an agency spokesperson. The organization reached its fund-raising goal for the first time since 1989, raised over $700,000 for the first time since CUW began in 1957, and established a new organizational structure for campaigning. New initiatives, such as The Legacy leadership giving program, were undertaken and new member agencies joined the organization, including AIDS Alliance, Garrett County Lighthouse, and Western Maryland Food Bank.

A new wave of volunteers has also come forward to perpetuate the increased exposure and improved outcomes of last year's efforts. As the 1996 annual CUW campaign reaches for its highest-ever goal of $786,902, new volunteers are personalizing employee solicitations, according to Harry King, executive director.

"The effects of 1995 are just now beginning to benefit CUW and our member agencies' clients," King commented. "We have significantly more people to support and personalize both employee and corporate campaigns."

King noted that "enthusiastic" programs are now underway at the Allegany County Board of Education, CXS Transportation, and First United National Bank & Trust, all of which involve expanded volunteer efforts and an increased number of employee meetings. Many internal campaigns that were formerly conducted by mail, without meaningful follow-up, are now being handled personally by volunteers, he said.

"And that is what the United Way is all about," continued King. "The United Way is about volunteers who unite to help their less-fortunate neighbors and individuals who care about others enough to make a financial contribution."

In the Frostburg area, which exceeded its 1995 goal by 148%, an entire team of new volunteer solicitors has been formed to add to the efforts of a few campaign volunteers last year. The same is true of Mineral County where Dr. Kathryn Brailer, president of Potomac State College, chairs a steering committee, composed of Dr. Harry Boggs, County Commissioner Bob Harman, and Sam Kalbaugh, superintendent of schools, who recruited a volunteer team.

"We are very grateful for the strong showing of volunteers who have come forward to help us tell our story face-to-face," King said. "The pattern of this campaign appears to be one of working each account more personally to create a quality contribution. That takes time. We are very comfortable with the direction that this year's campaign is taking."

The campaign to date has yielded a steady flow of larger commitments. The average gift among donors who participated in both 1995 and 1996 has increased. Success stories of accounts who already delivered significant increases or first-time gifts include Hunter Douglas in Frostburg, Wal-Mart of Keyser, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, J. C. Penney, and United Parcel Service in Cumberland, and Sheetz stores in all seven counties served by the County United Way.

For more information about the County United Way, persons may write to County United Way, Post Office Box 394, Oakland, MD 21550, or telephone (301) 359-9697.

Westvaco Reports Sales, Earnings For Fiscal 1996

Westvaco Corporation (NYSE/W), a major manufacturer of paper, packaging and specialty chemicals, this week reported its fourth quarter and audited year-end sales and earnings for fiscal 1996.

Sales for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1996, totaled $3 billion, a 7 percent decrease compared to 1995's total of $3.3 billion. Net income for fiscal 1996 totaled $212 million, or $2.09 per share, a decline of 24 percent from the $281 million, or $2.78 per share, earned in fiscal 1995.

In the fourth quarter of 1996, sales totaled $778 million, a decline of 11 percent compared to the same period in 1995. Earnings for 1996's fourth quarter totaled $56 million, or 55 cents per share, a decline of 37 percent from the $89 million, or 88 cents per share, earned in the fourth quarter of 1995.

Commenting on Westvaco's 1996 performance, John A. Luke Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, noted that Westvaco's decline in annual earnings reflects the challenging market conditions encountered by the paper industry during the year. He added that throughout the year, Westvaco has reported a lower rate of earnings decline than most of the company's competitors, reflecting the earnings stability increasingly derived from Westvaco's emphasis on product and service differentiation.

"Our accomplishments reflect our long held strategy of emphasizing market-leading products and services which create measurable values for our customers and Westvaco through superior quality and performance," said Luke. "For our customers, these values provide quantifiable competitive advantages including enhanced end-product quality, lower production costs, higher efficiency and increased sales. For Westvaco, the advantages include better earnings stability during periods of market pressure than most of its competitors, increased prospects for growth and the strength to continually invest for future rewards.

"As we enter 1997, we are encouraged by the improving demand for our industry's products," he added. "We certainly hope that this positive trend will continue, and we expect to make important progress in pursuing our business strategy in the months ahead."

Herman Among Presenters At NAGC Convention

The 43rd annual convention of the National Association for Gifted Children (NAGC) was held October 30 - November 3 in Indianapolis, Ind., and among those presenting sessions for educators and parents at the convention was Dr. Gail N. Herman, Swanton.

NAGC is the premier membership association for educators and parents who believe in the importance of allowing every child to achieve its full potential. Approximately 2,500 attendees from across the United States, Canada, and other countries participated in convention sessions and special activities designed to address the needs of gifted students.

In a presentation titled "Time Travels: The History of Architecture, Animals, and Inventions Through the Arts," Dr. Herman and her colleague, Dr. Pat Hollingsworth, focused on integrating the study of historical time periods from classical to modern times with art, drama, and science. Three thematic units presented were: Awesome Architecture, Animals Through the Eyes of Artists, and Scientists and Inventions. The units were published through a Jacob Javits Grant.

Other speakers at the convention included Roger Wagner, creator of HyperStudio, and Robert Sternberg, professor of psychology and education at Yale University.

The Crooked Tree Latest Bender Book Published

Esther Bender and Edna Bender, author and illustrator of the recently published April Bluebird, have had another book published by Herald Press. The Crooked Tree, a picture book, tells the life story of an oak that lived for more than 200 years.

The Crooked Tree began in Esther Bender's mind many years ago in Springs, Pa. Behind the house where she grew up, there was a crooked tree where neighborhood children gathered to play. Looking back, Bender says she wondered what made the tree crooked, which led to the idea for the book.

"How did the tree become crooked? How did it become strong and beautiful in the end? This is the theme of the book, intended for an elementary-middle school audience. It is a universal theme, for each of us has some crookedness to overcome," she said.

Because the story begins about 1700, writing the story led to writing about relationships between Native Americans and European immigrants. The crooked tree in the book became a guide tree or trail tree for a time. Trail trees are believed to have been tied down by Native Americans to mark a trail.

Edna Bender was already illustrating April Bluebird when she read the manuscript of The Crooked Tree. She immediately knew the book would allow her to paint the forest scenes she says she loves. She took the manuscript and produced sketch ideas that brought the two women a contract with Herald Press.

Because of the historical nature of the book, it required extensive research by both author and illustrator. Some of the organizations and people consulted by the author were Erik Newmann, head of the National Arboretum, and Charles Strauss, Sr., a resident of Accident.

Using information from locally published books, Evelyn Guard's Indian Blood, Stephen Schlosnagle's Garrett County: A History of Maryland's Tableland, and Stegmaier, Dean, Kershaw and Wiseman's Allegany County: A History, a timeline was developed for the events of the story.

The illustrator did extensive research, too. Research on Woodland Indians led to members of a Shawnee group who generously shared information about their ancestors, according to Edna Bender.

Numerous individuals from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Ohio shared information about the customs and dress of the Shawnee, Delaware, and Sioux. The resulting book is as authentic as the author and illustrator could make it, according to Herald Press.

In the end of the story, the children of the town cry, "Save the crooked tree. It's old! It's strong! It's beautiful!" Then a park was built around it. "But no one knew how the tree came to be crooked because the tree was much, much older than the people."

The real crooked tree did not fare so well. Only a small part of the original crooked tree remains today, the rest having been cut away long ago. "Of course, no one knows how the tree came to be crooked," Mrs. Bender said.

The two women have developed a study guide to accompany the book for teachers or home schoolers who would like to use this book in the classroom. The study guide is a 40-page book with reproducible student pages. It is available from either Esther or Edna Bender.

The Benders will be signing books at Waldenbooks in LaVale on Saturday, November 30, from 10:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m.

Governor Urges Observation Of World AIDS Day

Governor Parris N. Glendening is urging all Marylanders who know someone with HIV, AIDS, or has died of AIDS, to commemorate World AIDS Day by turning on their vehicle headlights during daylight hours on December 1. Governor Glendening has proclaimed December 1, 1996, as World AIDS Day in Maryland.

"The impact that AIDS has had on our citizens has been tremendous," said Glendening. "If all motorists who have been touched in some way by this disease were to turn on their headlights on World AIDS Day, that impact would surely be demonstrated to everyone."

According to the latest statistics from the AIDS Administration of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) 14,956 Marylanders have been diagnosed with AIDS since 1981. Of that total, 8,586 have died.

"AIDS remains one of the most serious challenges facing our community," said Dr. Martin P. Wasserman, secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. "There are many AIDS treatments available today, but the search for a cure continues. The most effective weapon we have in our arsenal is prevention--and that is where we must put our efforts in combating this disease."

Current prevention efforts target the populations at risk of contracting HIV disease: men who have sex with men, injecting drug users, women of child bearing age, and youth. Prevention strategies include use of small group sessions and one-on-one peer outreach.

World AIDS Day has been observed every year on December 1 since 1988 as a result of efforts by the World Health Organization (WHO) to encourage governments, communities, and individuals to focus on the threat that AIDS poses to worldwide public health.

Meet Garrett County's NEW TEACHERS

ADRIENNE INGRAM

Kitzmiller Elementary School has welcomed two new employees. Linda Buckel was recently appointed principal of the school and she has announced that Adrienne Ingram has been employed to teach the second grade.

Prior to her transfer to Kitzmiller Elementary as principal, Buckel served four years as principal at Red House Elementary where she previously had been a diagnostic prescriptive teacher with the special education program. She began her teaching career with the Garrett County Board of Education as a reading teacher at Northern High School following the completion of her undergraduate studies in elementary education and master's degree work in reading at Frostburg State University. Additional course work at Frostburg State University led to her certification in administration.

Buckel resides in Bittinger with her husband, Pete. Her daughters, Kimberly Collins, also employed by the Garrett County Board of Education, and Tina Gallucci, both reside in Garrett County.

Concerning her new position, Buckel stated "I certainly appreciate the support I have received from the staff, the parents and the Kitzmiller community. It's great to work with individuals that care so much about kids."

Having lived in Garrett County most of her life, Ingram attended Accident Elementary, Northern Middle and Northern High schools. She completed requirements for her BS degree in early childhood elementary education at Frostburg State University and later served as a substitute teacher for the Garrett County Board of Education.

Ingram, the new second grade teacher, completed her student teaching at Broad Ford Elementary School, where she worked with Barbara Ponceroff's third grade class, and in the fifth grade class at Loch Lynn Elementary School, where her cooperating teacher was Jill Gracie.

During her years as a substitute teacher, she was employed long-term at several area schools including Dennett Road Elementary School, where she taught for a year while the first grade teacher was on a sabbatical leave.

Ingram resides in Swanton with her husband, Sam, and son, Seth.

Of the new second grade teacher Buckel said "Adrienne is a very capable person and she's doing an excellent job. Coming to us with a variety of prior teaching experiences, Adrienne has much to offer the staff and students of Kitzmiller Elementary School."

LEARNING ABOUT FINLAND - Broad Ford Elementary School second grade students got a personal glimpse of daily life in Finland when Milas Lathi, a retired teacher from Turku, Finland, spoke to students taught by Nancy Stewart and Lynne Elmlinger, recently. Lathi told them that every house in Finland has a sauna. She also described reindeer pulling sleighs in winter. The students asked questions and discussed life in Finland. Lathi and her husband Matthew arranged their trip to the United States to access natural, alternative therapy for Mr. Lathi.

Amanda Hinebaugh called roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting. Aliza Green gave the treasurer's report and Sarah Cosner led the pledges to the 4-H and American flags.

The program, presented by Bob Custer, was about beef, and included a video.

Vonda gave a report about beef ticket sales, noting the top ticket sellers were Tommy Holler, Nikki Moreland, and B.J. Upole.

Cemetery clean-up during the months of September, October, and November was conducted by Nikki Moreland, Alan Warsaw, and Tara and Amanda Hinebaugh.

B.J. Upole gave a demonstration on his "feathered friends."

The December 4 meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at the church. Members plan to fill "sunshine" baskets and an awards program will be conducted.

The officers for the 1997-98 club year have been elected and are as follows: Steve Knepp, president; Frank Anderson, vice president; Amanda Hinebaugh, secretary; Emily Cosner, treasurer; Nikki Moreland, reporter; and Eli Green, photographer.

Sentence Passed On Oakland Woman Convicted Of Theft, Theft Scheming

An Oakland woman was sentenced during recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, after being found guilty in August of felony theft and theft scheming.

Amanda R. Guy, 22, convicted of those offenses by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett, who had originally ordered a pre-sentence investigation, will serve an 18-month term in jail. Initially sentenced to serve three years for the conviction, all of the sentence was suspended except for the 18-month term. She was also ordered to make $3,587 restitution to Potomac Engineering, Oakland, attend addictions counseling, and attend college classes.

The charges against Guy, which had also included six additional felony theft charges, six bad check charges, two petty theft charges, and one charge of forging private documents, stemmed from the theft of six checks from Potomac Engineering in November 1995.

According to district court records, Guy wrote the checks for a total of $3,587.63 over a three-month period. In a separate but related incident, Guy also stole five checks from Potomac Engineering, and cashed them for a total of $2,976. The investigation and charges against Guy were conducted by the Oakland City Police.

In other district court news, during a sentencing hearing for Dennis M. Warnick, 23, Mtn. Lake Park, who was found guilty in May of one count of petty theft, Judge Burnett handed him a six-month suspended sentence, fined him $355 in fines and court costs, ordered him to make restitution to Rt. 135 Amoco, Wayne Anderson, and John George, and placed him on one year of supervised probation.

A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered by the judge following Warnick's conviction. The original charges had also included an additional charge of petty theft and one of felony theft, and stemmed from the theft of a stereo system valued at more than $2,000 from a wrecked Eagle Talon that was parked in the storage lot at Rt. 135 Amoco in July 1995.

Warnick and a co-defendant were subsequently charged for the offenses by Garrett County sheriff's deputies who found the stereo in Warnick's possession. The defendant also admitted to taking food from a vending machine at 135 Amoco, and said he and the co-defendant also pumped gas from a storage tank at that location.

One count of violating a protective order, filed against David L. Rounds, 44, Swanton, was placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision state that Rounds must complete 50 hours of community service by Feb. 1, 1997. The charge was filed by Mary J. Rounds, Oakland, on April 8, after the defendant reportedly continued to go near her and her home after he was ordered by the court to stay away.

Yamil J. Medina, 23, Hammad N. Alzakwani, 22, and Fahid Y. Allahdi, 22, all of Morgantown, W.Va., each pleaded guilty in recent district court proceedings to possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). Each was sentenced to a 30-day jail term, with all of the sentence suspended except for 48 hours. They were also fined $155 each, placed on six months of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service by Jan. 1, 1997. Additional charges of possession of CDS paraphernalia were not prosecuted.

District court records indicate that the three defendants were among seven people arrested on drug charges on April 12, while at a campsite at Swallow Falls State Park.

Terry L. Pike, 28, Falls Church, Va., pleaded guilty to two counts of non-support of a minor child. He was handed a six-month suspended sentence for each offense, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. The charge was filed by Anita Pike, Oakland, after Pike reportedly failed to pay child support over nearly a three-year period of time. Conditions of his probation state he is to pay child support.

Brad Wolf, 39, Oakland, pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of harboring nuisance dogs. He was fined $100. The charge was by Mark Marucci, Oakland, who claimed that between June and September, Wolf's two Rottweilers barked and howled at night.

Timothy L. Rounds, 19, Swanton, was found not guilty of harassment/following another with intent to harass. The charge was filed on Aug. 11 by Tara Crossland, McHenry, who claimed the defendant intentionally followed her in his vehicle as she left the local state police barrack after filing a complaint.

Allen R. Friend, 49, Oakland, was not prosecuted in district court proceedings on one count of battery. The complainant, Paul A. Friend, Oakland, filed the charge on July 27, after an incident at his home.

Dennis K. Dumire, 37, Oakland, pleaded not guilty and was found not guilty of one count of battery. Vickie L. Bowser, Friendsville, filed the complaint on Aug. 11, after a domestic dispute at her home.

Robert J. Hill, 20, Baltimore, pleaded guilty to one count of possession of CDS. He was ordered to serve 48 hours of a 30-day jail term, fined $155, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation. Conditions of his probation state he must complete 30 hours of community service by Jan. 1, 1997. Additional charges of possession of drug paraphernalia and petty theft were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

The charges stemmed from Hill's July 6 arrest by the Maryland State Police following a traffic stop for speeding on Rt. 219. The responding trooper noticed several items of CDS and drug paraphernalia inside the vehicle, and later learned that the driver's license inside Hill's wallet had been reported stolen.

Jay Savage, 18, McHenry, was not prosecuted on a charge of being disorderly in public/disobeying a police officer. The charge reportedly stemmed from Savage's involvement in an Aug. 11 party in a wooded area near the Mayhew Inn Road.

Jeffrey Lynn Conner, 27, Lonaconing, paid $100 in fines after pleading guilty to one count each of having a loaded firearm in his vehicle, and shooting from the paved roadway. He was cited for the offenses by the Natural Resources Police on Sept. 24, after an incident on Pea Ridge Road.

AN ADVENTURESPORTS MAJOR AT GCC, Rick Baxter of Seattle, Wash., instructed his crew from Big Brothers/Big Sisters to give a high paddle salute. Many of the participants had never whitewater rafted before, so careful instruction and particular attention to safety around moving water were important considerations of the day. The "middle section" of the Youghiogheny River, near Confluence, Pa., provided a perfect teaching setting for beginning paddlers. Pictured below is the whole group prepared for the 11 mile whitewater trip. The group was composed of three Garrett Community College Adventuresports majors, four Frostburg State University Adventuresports majors, 12 Little Brothers/Little Sisters, eight Big Brothers/Big Sisters and one staff person from Big Brothers/Big Sistera. In loving memory of Raymond Miller, who went to be with Jesus one year ago November 23, 1995

I'm thinking of you today, but then that's nothing new. I thought of you yesterday and the day before that, too. I'll think of you tomorrow and the day that follows. It's only been a year since Jesus took you, but that time seems like forever. To some you may be forgotten, to others just a part of the past, but for me your memory will always last. Being without you is still so very new. I'm having such a hard time letting you go. Getting through each day is a big struggle for me. For awhile I try to be strong, but then all of a sudden I see something that reminds me of you and I sadly realize you are gone forever.

Don't ask me if I miss him, there's such a vacant place in my heart that no one can ever fill. I never knew what pain was until Jesus called you home, it's a pain that will never, ever go away. No one knows how much I miss you. What it meant to lose you no one will ever know. No one knows the pain in my heart when I go to your grave. When I turn to leave and walk away it's like saying goodbye all over again. The day Jesus took you my life was forever changed, but part of my heart went with you. The day Jesus took you, I wasn't with you. That's the part that hurts me so much. It gives me great sorrow to know how troubled your heart must have been. You left us so quickly. You bade none a farewell. You said goodbye to none. I wish you could know of all the times I'm thinking of you. I'll always wonder why Jesus took you from all the rest, but I shouldn't question. He knows best. Jesus saw you getting tired and he knew you were sad, so he put his arms around you and whispered, "Peace Be Thine." Jesus said your work on earth is done, now I want you here in Heaven with me.

This world had someone special when it had you, but Heaven needed you more. Jesus, walk with him today and keep your loving arms around him and make up for all the suffering and all that seemed unfair. And although you were taken ahead of me, I pray for the day that time will stand still, when we'll once again be together in Heaven. Eternal life will be as it will.

Raymond, please be waiting for me. I want to meet you someday at "Heaven's Door." Jesus broke our hearts to prove he only takes the best, but our loss upon this earth was surely Heaven's gain. . .

Love eternally,
Kaye

Thank You

Our deepest thanks and appreciation to those wonderful people for all their prayers, cards, flowers, phone calls and food brought to our home during the illness and death of our mother, Della Friend. NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK OBSERVED

November 18-22 is both National Education Week and National Book Week, and Aurora School is planning an activity for each day beginning with designating Monday as "Read-A-Shirt" day when students wear appropriate message T-shirts. On Tuesday, crazy socks announce "Sock-It-To-Reading Day." Wednesday will feature a presentation of "The Emperor's New Clothes" by the Preston High Drama Club. Thursday's guest storyteller will be Meghan Durst. Dressing as a favorite story character will be the Friday activity, and older students will tell about their characters to the younger ones.

BOX TOPS FOR EDUCATION

To help raise money for their school, students at Aurora School are participating in a unique program from General Mills, called Big G Box Tops for Education.

The school will receive $.15 for every qualifying General Mills cereal box top collected between now and March 31, 1997. A qualifying box top is the top flap of any General Mills cereal box that has the 1996-1997 "Big G Box Tops for Education" symbol.

The students have set a goal of 500 box tops, and are collecting tops from many Big G cereals. They plan to use the money they raise for school supplies.

"This is an opportunity for parents, teachers, students, and even senior citizens to join together to raise money for our school," said David Toothman, principal. "It only takes a couple of seconds and our kids will really benefit. All you have to do is look for the Box Tops logo, cut out the top of the box and send them to the school. It's that easy."

The students encourage families and friends to pitch in and collect box tops for the good of the school. Anyone interested in donating box tops can send them to the school.

Eligible cereals that families should look for include the many varieties of Cheerios, Wheaties, Total, Kix, Oatmeal Crisp, Basic 4, Lucky Charms, Trix, Clusters, Fiber One, Golden Grahams, Count Chocula, Frosted Cheerios, Multi-Grain Cheerios, Raisin Nut Bran, and selected others.

For more information, persons may contact Aurora School at 735-3781.

HOMEMAKERS STUDY ZIMBABWE

Zimbabwe, the former Rhodesia in South Africa, is the home of a student, sponsored by the West Virginia Extension Homemakers, to attend West Virginia University. Studying about the student's country is one of the Eglon Homemakers' activities. The group was led in such a study by Fern Jamison.

Martha Bolyard was host to the October 15 meeting and also provided devotions titled, "Today's Gift: A Leaf." She then presided at the business session where it was reported that work at the community building has included both interior and exterior cleaning. The club has also purchased supplies for the remodeling of the restrooms. Martha Bolyard and Deloris Slawter handed out cancer literature and pink ribbons for Cancer Awareness Month. The club also made candy and other items for sale at the Rebekah's bazaar.

Delores Douglas was named the club's Homemaker of the Year and will be recognized at the annual Achievement Day to be held November 21 at the Fellowsville School at 6:30 p.m. Ideas for the December meeting were solicited by planning committee member Wilda Stemple.

Opal Myers was winner of the pig-in-the-poke. Miss Bolyard showed an antique brass shower caddy used by miners. An angel made on a 20-ounce soft drink bottle was shown by Opal Myers. nine members were present.

EGLON HOMEMAKERS STUDY SAFETY

During a recent meeting of the Eglon Homemakers, Rebecca Teets reminded the members that there are several things that one can do to stay safe while traveling, including carrying purses in a safe position; making sure packages and purses are not left visibly in the car; locking doors, keeping car windows up; and always staying alert.

Nina Layman and Ruth Teets acted as hostesses. Mrs. Teets led the devotions using "Thanksgiving" as her theme, and Mrs. Layman closed with a poem, "A Blessed Event," and prayer. Following this, the roll call was answered by naming things for which members are thankful.

A menu was planned for a December 5 Mt. Lions Club dinner, and items were assigned to be donated. On December 3, members will meet at the memorial building at 1 p.m., with each providing something for a snack. The activity will be a craft.

The assistance given in personal care, exercise programs, activities of daily living make it possible for people to remain safely and comfortably in their homes. "Their skills, compassion and caring help speed patients toward recovery or provide comfort when recovery is not possible," she said. For their dedication to their patients' well-being, Welton said that Grant Memorial Hospital Home Care would like to thank the certified home care aide staff for "their willingness to give care that is always exceptional." Pictured left to right in the front row are Bonnie Crites, Lois Moyers and Deanna Kuykendall. In the back row are Patricia Bradshaw, Debbie Evans, Judy Bolton, all from the Petersburg, Va., area, and Alice Steele of Moorefield.

Benefit Auction

Your help is needed!!

All proceeds from this auction will be used to purchase construction materials for a volunteer project in Sucre, Bolivia.

Eighteen local volunteers will travel to Bolivia on December 30 to complete the fifth floor and roof of this project. This project involves a Seminary, an extremely successful drug and alcohol rehabilitation center, and a Christian radio station. This project has been an ongoing effort for six years, and has been done with volunteers and contributions from our area. We hope to finish the structural work in January so that finishing may begin in classrooms and dormitory rooms.

All volunteers pay all of their own expenses, including travel, food, and shelter. All proceeds from this auction will go directly to the purchase of materials for the job.

This effort is actively suported by Brethren, Methodist, Mennonite, and Assembly of God churches, and has volunteers and assistance from several other denominations.

All contributions are tax-deductible.
We need the following items for the auction.

Antiques - firearms - jewelry - art
- automobiles - skis - boats - etc.

We are also looking for any other items of value that will bring a good return at this auction.
Please - no household items, yard sale items, or attic debris.

Give your best to be blessed!

Q. I found a game rolled up in a cardboard canister in a box full of old games and puzzles. On the canister's outside there are cartoon-like faces of black people. The game is called "Turkey Doodle" and is dated 1936. In the center of the game-board target is a white man with the words, "Listen to Jimmy Scribner." Who was he?

A. Jimmy Scribner was a white radio entertainer who had a one-man show called, "The Johnson Family." He played the parts of Southern black characters in the family. the show was first broadcast in 1934 in Norfolk, Va. It later was broadcast on the Mutual Network out of Cincinnati. "The Johnson Family" went off the air in 1950

Your game has value as black memorabilia.

Q. My cabbage leaf-shaped plate is marked "Tenuous Majolica." Who made it?

A. The Tenuous majolica mark is a mystery to majolica collectors. Some say the mark belongs to William Hill, a potter who worked with Henry and George Griffin and David Smith in 1879. Pieces with the Tenuous mark greatly resemble the Etruscan Shell and Seaweed pattern and simple leaf designs of Etruscan majolica. Hill left Griffen and Smith just as they were starting to mark their wares "Etruscan."

Q. I have a seven-volume set of Little Orphan Annie books. One of them is marked "The Big Little Book." Another has a 1928 copyright date. Are they valuable as a set?

A. Whitman Publishing Co. published the first Big Little Book in 1933. The small, fat, square, hardcover books first reprinted comic strips and condensed movie stories.

The first Little Orphan Annie Big Little Book has the 1928 copyright date from the comic strip, but wasn't published until 1933. In mint condition, the book sells for about $50. Other titles from the Little Orphan Annie series sell for $19 to $35 in mint condition.

Whitman still publishes versions of Big Little Books.

AN AMERICAN HERO

CYRUS McCORMICK

If Cyrus McCormick had been a man of less determination, it is hard to say how much more we would be paying for food today.

The farmer-inventor had solved a problem that had plagued farmers from the beginning of agriculture when he introduced his crude contraption to a Virginia wheat field in July, 1832.

It was the prototype for the McCormick Reaper, a grain harvesting device that freed the farmer from the sickle and scythe.

But farmers can be a conservative lot, and they first jeered his odd mechanical contraption. It took McCormick eight years to sell his first unit.

But by 1840, he had perfected his device so that it could cut two acres of wheat an hour. A farmer risked $50 to buy the first one. Two years later, he sold seven machines and by 1844, he sold 50. By the time he died in 1884, his Chicago factory was turning out 50,000 reapers a year and the giant industry he had developed led the world in production of harvesting equipment.

A person of less perseverance might never have seen his invention get to market, but he believed in hard work. His plan of attack was to do "one thing at a time and the hardest thing first. Following the line of most resistance made everything that came after it easier."

He gave easy credit to farmers because, as he told them: "It is better that I should wait for the money than that you should wait for the machine you need."

When the great Chicago fire of 1871 wiped out his plant, he considered retiring even though he was turning out 10,000 machines per year. But he decided to carry on — collected all outstanding debts to the company, sold his New York home and used the cash to rebuild the plant even bigger than before.

This American hero kept going when it seemed to take forever for his idea to catch hold. His tenacity benefited everyone.

Home Tips

NO MORE TEARS — My children love to go outside and make bubbles and chase them around the yard.

However, they were getting the bubble soap on their hands, then they would rub their eyes and cry because their eyes hurt.

Now I make my own bubble solution out of tearless shampoo or tearless bath soap. They have more fun without tears or their eyes hurting. Edith C., Webster, N.Y.

USED TO THE MAX — I take two or three plastic bags from home to the store when I go grocery shopping. I give them to the person sacking groceries to use for my groceries. Sometimes, they will last six or eight trips.

When a tear or hole develops, you can put them in the recycling bin. Gina T., Taos, N.M.

NO MORE MELTDOWN — The other day, I made some stew and when I got ready to serve, it was too hot for my young children. They sometimes get impatient and burn their tongues.

I quickly reached for ice cubes, saw the plastic ones that I use for decorative drinks, and decided they would be great to use since they wouldn't water down the stew. Yolanda V., North Vernon, Ind.

FITTED SHEETS — If you have a regular double bed but a king-size husband, buy queen-size top sheets. The same goes for king-size sheets over a queen-size bed. Rita L., Karnes City, Texas.

ACHOO! — Tissues come in such pretty boxes now that I hate to throw them away when they're empty.

I tear out the little plastic strips in the top and fill the box with cotton balls to use when I clean my face or do my nails. The cotton balls come in large bags, so I put all I can cram down in the box to keep handy, then put the rest out of the way in a drawer. Wendy P., Piggott, Ark.

National Caregivers Week Honors Those Who Attend To Others

Submitted by Garrett County Area Agency on Aging

Since it was initiated by Congress in 1993, National Family Caregivers Week has been celebrated by many organizations during the week of Thanksgiving to recognize the nation's informal caregivers. Today, an estimated 12 million Americans dedicate their efforts to helping some 5 million older family members, friends, and neighbors to maintain their dignity and independence.

Informal caregivers include spouses of elderly persons, their siblings, children, grandchildren, and nieces and nephews. These caregivers, 80 percent of whom are women, spend all or part of their days caring for the elderly, and they often do so at considerable personal sacrifice.

Caregivers often need to juggle the demands of their children, other family members, and their jobs. An estimated 50 percent of caregivers work outside the home. Some forego promotions and more demanding jobs at better pay, some cut back on the number of hours they work, while others stop working altogether in order to meet the needs of their older relatives at substantial cost to themselves.

Whatever their circumstances -- whether they are old or young, remain at home or work -- caregivers need support in the areas of respite care, counseling and education, job flexibility, and supportive services, such as day care centers, home delivered meals, transportation, and in-home services. Caregivers not only help the elderly to maintain their independence, but also save millions in taxpayer dollars by preventing nursing home placements, most of which are paid for with public funds.

Caregivers also substantially decrease demands on the formal system of supportive in-home and community services that are financed by federal and state programs, including the Older Americans Act (OAA).

The informal caregiving system of family and friends provides an estimated 80 percent of all the care and help needed by the frail elderly and those with disabilities. From personal care to transportation, meal preparation, and household chores, family caregivers and friends provide the range of care vital to ensuring that older people may remain in their homes and communities.

Caregivers often need the support of the formal aging network in order to keep performing their jobs and to avoid being overwhelmed with the responsibilities they shoulder.

By the year 2030, the older population will swell to 65 million, or one in five Americans. While most older people will be active and contributing members of their families and communities, their sheer numbers, coupled with the rise of Americans age 85 and older, mean that there will be an increasing need for family caregivers and the services that support them.

The Garrett County Alzheimer/Dementia Support Group has been meeting since 1988. The group joined with Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging Adult Caregiver Support Group in 1995, and in 1996 with the Mountain Glade Adult Medical Day Care Support Group. These support group meetings are free and open to anyone. Generally, they are held the last Monday evening of each month. Senior Care Provider Sally Schwing Leaves Garrett County Community Action Area on Aging after Decade of Services to Frail Elderly

The Area Agency on Aging and the frail elderly population of Garrett County have lost a very valuable friend. Sally Schwing, a personal care provider for the ageney's Senior Care Program for close to a decade, recently made a decision to resign.

Sally faithfully provided competent and dedicated care and services to the frail elderly. Early in the program, she provided personal care services to frail elderly residing in the northern area of the county. More recently she traveled throughout the county, driving hundreds of miles to give services. Sally more often than not went above and beyond her responsibilities as a provider. We know the clients she served will miss her as we will miss her.

Sally has made the decision to continue her career from her own home providing care for a member of a younger generation. We wish her the very best.

Local Therapist Attends Seminar

Theresa A. Hannibal, licensed physical therapist of McHenry, recently attended an intensive 15-hour seminar in Baltimore on injuries in the workplace.

Sponsored by Northeast Seminars, the course was presented by Lauren Hebert, PT, a national authority on work injury prevention and developer of the IMPACC system. The aim of the program is to reduce injury claims on the job by the prevention of neck and back problems and cumulative trauma disorders.

Ms. Hannibal holds MD and PA physical therapy licenses and practices in Meyersdale, Pa., at the Meyersdale Manor and Rehabilitation Center.

Area Emergency Personnel Take Tactical Class

Eight area volunteer fire fighters and rescue technicians recently spent a weekend at the Western Maryland Regional Training Center of the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute (MFRI) in Cresaptown to participate in a high angle tactical rope rescue program. The event was sponsored by MFRI and instructed by Bill Luebberman and Lenny Yox, both considered leaders in the field of high angle rescue.

Both MFRI certified instructors, Luebberman and Yox are members of the Carroll County Advanced Tactical Rescue (ATR) teams and Yox is also a member and instructor with the Baltimore County Fire Department ATR and USAR teams. Additional ATR members served as support instructors during the weekend sessions.

The program, which consisted of classroom instruction and practical drills, involved fire and rescue personnel from across the state who learned state-of-the-art techniques in tactical high angle rescue. Jim Crabtree, Oakland, also a MFRI instructor and participant in the program, explained that the techniques learned involved rope rescues from high angles such as cliffs, tall buildings, farm silos, and confined space rescue situations. The training included complex rope rescue rigging and stressed the latest in safety procedures used in critical rescue situations.

Highlights of the weekend included rappelling with different styles of rigging from the top of the training center's 50-foot training tower and a mock rescue of a stranded man and infant dangling off the side of the tower at the 35-foot level.

Crabtree stated that the class was the first part of a series of training programs, with the next section scheduled to be held at the training center next spring. He said it was also the first step in a long series of training programs which will enable local fire fighters to prepare for the development of Garrett County's own advanced technical rescue team.

ATR instruction also includes training in major heavy vehicle rescue and extrication techniques, building collapse and trench rescue, swiftwater rescue and accompanying rope rigging, confined space rescue, heavy farm and industrial accident rescue, and rapid intervention fire fighter and emergency services personnel rescue called FAST teams.

Local fire fighters/rescue technicians involved in the weekend training, besides Crabtree, were: John Feather, Jeff Hinebaugh, Jim Feather, Scott Bookout, and Sid Friend, all members of the Oakland VFD, and Alanna Thomas, of the Deep Creek VFD.

ADVANCED TACTICAL TRAINING was taken recently by eight area volunteer fire fighters and rescue technicians, with the emphasis being high angle tactical rope rescue. Sponsored by the University of Maryland's Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute (MFRI), it was held at the MFRI Western Maryland Regional Training Center in Cresaptown. Above left, Alanna Thomas, a member of the Deep Creek VFD and the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, makes her first-ever "over the edge" rope rappel, while above right MFRI Instructor Lenny Yox, a member of the Baltimore County Fire Department and recipient of the MFRI Instructor of the Year award, explains the finer points of rope rigging. Also in the photo, kneeling, is John Feather, first assistant chief of the Oakland VFD. Below is a group photo of all of the local fire fighters who took the training. Thomas and Feather are pictured kneeling in the foreground. Standing, from left, are: Jim Feather, Jeff Hinebaugh, Scott Bookout, and Sid Friend, all members of the OVFD, and Jim Crabtree, MFRI Instructor. See story. Photos by Jim Crabtree.

Health Education Grant Renewed

Frostburg State University has received a $4,000 grant renewal for the Western Maryland Interdisciplinary Health Training Program. The funding comes to FSU through the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

This is the third year of the program, which is designed to improve health care through personnel education in Allegany, Washington, and Garrett counties. Classes are conducted in occupational therapy, physical therapy, social work and nursing, leading to a master's degree in rehabilitation.

The grant was secured for FSU by Dr. Frank Parks, interim provost, who will oversee its administration. "This is a project that we have participated in already, and we are excited and pleased to offer a site for the project to take place," Parks said. "Area health professionals can now get advanced training and we are happy to offer this service."

FSU's role within the program is to provide video classroom facilities, which are used to conduct health education classes. Parks added, "The grant funds will be used to improve our interactive video network facilities."

A GROUP EFFORT that has apparently resulted in a decrease in the number of skiing accidents at the Wisp Ski Area in McHenry, and one that has received national recognition, involves the management of Wisp, the members of the Wisp Ski Patrol, and the owners/management of the local McDonald's restaurants. For the past two ski seasons McDonald's has supplied coupons that urge safe skiing, bear the Skier's Responsibility Code, and are also redeemable for a free sandwich at the area McDonald's restaurants. The coupons are distributed by members of the ski patrol to skiers on the slopes of Wisp in recognition and appreciation of their safe skiing efforts. The program will be continued this coming ski season. Spearheading the program was National Ski Patroller Carl Rebele, a member of the Wisp Patrol, who for this effort was awarded the John J. Clair Jr. Memorial Safety Trophy for 1996 by the Eastern Division of the National Ski Patrol System. In addition, the Wisp Ski Patrol was named the 1996 Patrol of the Year by the Eastern Division, in part because of this unique safety program. Pictured above, from left, kneeling, are: Dick Sluss, a member of the Wisp Patrol; Irene White, manager of the Deep Creek Lake McDonald's Restaurant; and Rebele. Standing, same order, are: Randy Buckel, manager of the Keyser's Ridge McDonald's; Al Boxley, owner of the local McDonald's franchises; Helmuth Heise, owner of Wisp Ski Area; Jerry Geisler, Wisp Ski Area manager; Christine Sheetz, marketing director for McDonald's; and Greg Few, manager of the Oakland McDonald's. Boxley and Heise are holding the Clair Memorial trophy.

Area Mall, Cotton Inc., Sponsoring Blanket Drive

The Country Club Mall, located in LaVale, and Cotton Incorporated will team together to offer the "Share the Warmth" holiday program. The effort will afford shoppers the opportunity to donate 100% cotton blankets in the shopper's name to one of five local chapters of the American Red Cross. One chapter to benefit from the program is the Garrett County organization.

A shopper who chooses to take part in Share the Warmth can turn in a receipt totalling $150 or more to the County Club Mall Customer Information Center between Nov. 11 and Dec. 24. Cotton Incorporated will in turn donate a blanket to the effort. The blankets will then be distributed to five ARC chapters in Garrett, Hampshire and Mineral counties, W.Va.; Allegany County; and Bedford County, Pa.

The Country Club Mall, managed by Compass Retail, Inc., is one of 27 malls throughout the country taking part in Share the Warmth programs.

"The program captures the essence of the holiday season; sharing, caring, and giving," said Jan Beem, marketing manager for the mall. "The program slogan -- "The most thoughtful gift you'll give this season will go to someone who isn't even on your list" -- really rings true to the people in our area. The American Red Cross played a vital role in the flood relief efforts in this area earlier this year. This program enables the community to thank the organization and further aid the community."

For more information about the effort, persons may call the mall at 301-729-8002.

Farming In Maryland.....

AFB Foundation For Agriculture To Fund New Projects

The American Farm Bureau Foundation for Agriculture will help finance five new agricultural research and education projects during its 1997-1998 funding cycle. The approved projects come with a total price tag of $234,152, according to Marsha Purcell, managing director of the foundation.

The projects approved by the foundation's board of directors deal with: evaluating agricultural market advisory services; assessing and managing agricultural watersheds; expanding access to the Ag in the Classroom program; developing new technology for weed control; and improving nitrogen management in crop production.

"Experts believe that agricultural research will be a key to feeding the world's growing population in the 21st century," Purcell said. "Privately funded research will continue to grow in importance. By supporting vital research and education projects here at home, the foundation is helping to ensure that American farmers will continue to be the world's most important producers of food and fiber."

One of the approved projects will be a joint effort between the University of Illinois and the Ohio State University. Researchers at those universities will conduct a two-year evaluation of market advisory services for agricultural commodities. The study will compile data on, as well as analyze and investigate the economic value of, recommendations provided by market advisory services.

The other four projects will be financed through dollar-for-dollar challenge grants, with funds from the foundation and other contributors, according to Purcell.

At Grand Valley State University in Michigan, researchers will develop an environmental index to help assess and manage agricultural watersheds. The one-year study's objective is to provide information on agricultural watershed management for farmers and the public.

Officials at the Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation will receive financial support in their effort to expand access to Ag in the Classroom education through the use of mobile classrooms. During this two-year project, a professional educator will travel with mobile classroom units to provide students opportunities to be involved in hands-on agricultural projects.

Support will also go to researchers at the University of Idaho to fund work on new technology for economical weed control. The 18-month project's objective is to develop remote sensing procedures to identify, define and record the location and distribution of weeds in wheat and peas with management-level accuracy.

Researchers at the University of Minnesota-Waseca will receive support from the foundation for work on the management of nitrogen from animal waste for crop production. The two-year study will develop a tool for determining the amount of nitrogen available in a field from previous applications of hog and dairy manure.

Persons wishing to make a tax-deductible gift to the foundation designated to support any of the newly approved projects should contact Purcell at (847) 685-8764. General gifts to the foundation may be sent to: American Farm Bureau Foundation for Agriculture, 225 Touhy Ave., Park Ridge, Ill. 60068.

The American Farm Bureau Foundation for Agriculture is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation. It was formed in 1967 for the purpose of initiating and financing agricultural research and education projects.

Md. Dairymen To Meet Nov. 26

A meeting will be held at 10 a.m. on November 26 at the New Midway Fire Hall on Route 194 in Frederick County to discuss the creation of a new dairy producer organization charged with the task of keeping the state's dairy industry viable, competitive and proactive.

Pet Food Joint Venture Formed By Cooperatives

Southern States Cooperative announced November 1 that it has formed a joint venture, together with five other prominent agricultural cooperative organizations, to manufacture pet food and related products. The joint venture participants, along with Southern States, are Agway, Country-Mark, Gromark, Land O'Lakes and Tennessee Farmers.

The joint venture will purchase the assets of the pet food manufacturing and distribution business of Agway, Inc., consisting primarily of a pet food manufacturing facility in St. Mary's, Ohio.

The venture will operate as a limited liability company under the name Pro-Pet, L.L.C. Its products will include the well-known brands currently manufactured and distributed by Agway, Inc., including Big Red® dog food, Li'l Red® cat food and the Pro-Pet® premium line of dog and cat foods.

Each of the joint venture members has agreed to bring a volume of business to the venture to support its operations. The venture partners, through their combined support, expect the business to grow and to operate with greater efficiency.

Southern States Cooperative, a 73-year-old farmer-owned cooperative headquartered in Richmond, Va., operates in six states. The cooperative processes or manufactures and distributes feed, seeds, fertilizers, petroleum products and a wide range of farm supplies and lawn and garden products in Virginia, North Carolina, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and Kentucky. It has grain marketing facilities in five of these states. The regional cooperative's membership totalled about 190,000 and the annual volume reached $1.014 billion last year.

Have You Heard the Term MIG?

After in the dairy industry (short for Management Intensive Grazing. I just finished reading an article called, "Knee Deep in Grass," which was about twenty-nine family dairies in Minnesota that used MIG. What really caught my attention was that these dairy farms were very typical of the farms here in Garrett County. When those folks described the weather and the typical seasonal patterns, the description fit Garrett County like a glove. The optimism shown by these dairy farmers who grazed their herds was very positive. Their strategies involved seasonal breeding and rotational grazing. The farmers reported that their quality of life improved after adopting MIG because it changed their use of time. The most frequently cited change was the shift from repetitious tasks such as baling hay, chopping silage and repairing equipment to duties such as pasture and business management. The production strategy was to have their herd freshening at the time of pasture season to take advantage of the high quality forage in the pastures. By the end of the pasture season, most of the cows were through their peak milk production period. Most of the farmers led a supplement high in energy, and of course, the minerals and vitamins. Profitability on these farms improved because they drastically reduced input purchases such as feed and fuel. Each of the farmers reported that the animals were much more healthy reducing the health related costs. There is much more in this story than I can put in this article. There were some problems, as we would expect. One of the major problems was in making the conversion to seasonal breeding because of the cash flow situation. I am not really promoting this system on a wholesale basis; however, for some of you it may be something worth taking a look at. Do you think MIG would be an interesting topic to address at a workshop this winter?

Bloodmobile Nets 167 Units On November 8

One hundred sixty-seven productive units of blood were collected at the Oakland bloodmobile visit on Friday, November 8. Of those units, nine were collected from first-time donors John Beachy, Eugenia Cassidy, Krista Coddington-Durst, Danielle Jackson, Amanda Kisner, Dan Shroyer, Barbara Thorne, and Elisabeth Yoder.

Gallon milestones were reached by several donors. Those reaching their first gallon level were Teresa Snyder of Oakland, and Barbara Unger and Tammy Uphole of Mountain Lake Park. The two-gallon mark was reached by Brenda Crabtree, Frederick Fitzwater, Randy Street, and Melvin Yoder of Oakland, and Gena MacMillan, Friendsville. Wanda Foley of Oakland topped the three-gallon mark while Beryl Moser of Grantsville hit the four-gallon level. Top donors for the Oakland bloodmobile were Karen Steyer and Rachel Zook of Oakland, who both donated for the 48th time to reach the six-gallon milestone.

Volunteers making the bloodmobile possible were: Rose Baker and Artie Dixon, greeters; Don Forrester and Barb Sweitzer, registration; Rayetta Beitzel, Ethel Cosner, Pat Moorefield, Dee Murphy, Pat Powels, Joyce Ridder, Mary Rodeheaver, and Jonathan Wildesen, canteen; and Pat Fernandez, Anne Forrester, and Russ McConnell, walkers.

The canteen was provided by donations from many individuals and companies including the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Cumberland, Lakeside Creamery, Junior Ferguson, Elizabeth Huxford, Jean McConnell, Debbie Weissgerber, and Lessa Wilt.

The next Garrett County bloodmobile will be Monday, December 2, at the Grantsville fire hall from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. The next Oakland visit will be Friday, January 3, from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

OPD Arrest Man After Traffic Stop

A traffic stop last Wednesday morning in Oakland resulted in the arrest of a young Oakland man who was charged with speeding and driving on a suspended license.

According to a report filed with the Oakland City Police Department, Officer Shawn Fratz arrested Todd W. Riley, 21, following the 10:07 a.m. traffic stop on Fourth Street. The officer stated in his report that he saw a black Mercury Cougar coming toward him at a high rate of speed and clocked the vehicle at 46 miles per hour in a 25 mph zone.

The officer initiated the stop and Riley reportedly told him he didn't have a driver's license, and never had obtained one. A check through the sheriff's office, however, revealed that Riley's license had been revoked. Following his arrest and the subsequent charges, Riley was transported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office where he was later released.

ARREST WARRANTS

Arrest warrants were served by the Oakland City Police on Nov. 18 for John Junior Miller, 20, and Jacob Allen Miller, 19, both of Oakland. Officer Chris Feller served the warrants on the brothers, who have been charged with disturbing the peace and trespassing.

A warrant was also issued for the arrest of Timothy Beeman, Oakland, who has been charged with assault.

Southern Rescue Is Honored By The Prudential

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad was honored Tuesday by The Prudential Insurance Company of America for purchasing a cardiac defibrillator -- in part with money from The Prudential's Helping Hearts Program. The ceremony, which took place at the Southern Garrett station, is a culmination of the squad's fundraising events and a matching grant initiative from The Prudential.

Chuck Cramer of The Prudential addressed squad members, congratulating them on their hard work.

"The Prudential applauds your tireless efforts to help the residents of Oakland," he told the squad members. "On behalf of The Prudential employees, and future cardiac victims, thank you for your selfless volunteerism. We are delighted to help you help others by acquiring these life-saving machines."

Also attending the ceremony were members of the squad and members of the EMS Board of Trustees.

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad is part of 66 Maryland volunteer squads accepted into The Prudential Helping Hearts Program for 1995/1996. Each squad will receive up to $2,500 to cover approximately half of the cost of the defibrillation unit. To date, at least 18 cardiac arrest victims have been saved by defibrillators purchased through the program. The Health Department registers a defibrillation "save" when a cardiac arrest victim is discharged from the hospital.

Launched in 1994, The Prudential Helping Hearts Program is a matching grants initiative (up to $2,500) to help volunteer rescue squads purchase portable cardiac defibrillation machines. The defibrillation units are used by certified medical personnel to help revive cardiac arrest victims before they are transported to hospitals, improving their chances of survival.

Each year, approximately 250,000 Americans suffer sudden cardiac failure and die before reaching a hospital, according to the American Heart Association. Studies show that on-site defibrillation more than doubles a victim's chances of survival. The Prudential's Helping Hearts Program is speeding the process for acquiring portable defibrillation units among the volunteer rescue squads in the state of Maryland.

The Prudential, headquartered in Newark, New Jersey, donates millions of dollars and thousands of employee volunteer hours to support non-profit programs throughout Maryland and across the country.

SOUTHERN RESCUE HONORED FOR EARNING DEFIBRILLATOR - The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad (SGCRS) was honored Tueaday In a ceremony by The Prudential. The purpose of the ceremony was to recognize the squad's auccesa In obtaining a heart defibrillator as a culmination of fund-raiaing efforts and a matching grant of up to $2,500 from The Prudential Helping Hearts Program. This program enables volunteer emergency medical squada to purchaae auch equipment. See atory. The squad was also recognized by the Garrett County Commisalonera on Tueaday. U.G.L.Y. Contest Raises $140,000 For MS Research

The Maryland Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and Jack Daniels have announced that the 17th Annual U.G.L.Y. (Understanding Generous Lovable Young-at-Heart) Bartenders' Campaign saw 176 Maryland bars complete the month-long competition. The contest raised over $140,000 for multiple sclerosis research and local services.

Bartenders who were involved competed by planning various fundraisers in their restaurants, taverns and cafes during October. For every 25 cents raised, the bartender earned one vote. At the end of the month, the bartender with the most votes won the title of The U.G.L.Y.-EST Bartender in Maryland. The 1996 award went to Kelly's Bar, Baltimore, for raising $21,620.

According to a spokesperson for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, this is a nation-wide campaign conducted by MS chapters. Maryland MS chapter has one central office in Towson and branch offices in Salisbury, Westminster, Millersville and Hagerstown. Garrett County is part of the Western Maryland chapter under the Hagerstown office.

Top Regional Award for the U.G.L.Y. Bartender contest in Western Md. was given to the Oakland Elks Lodge, Oakland. The state's top 100 bars were ranked, based on votes earned. Among those were Oakland Elks Lodge #2481, in eighth place, and Long Branch Saloon, Mtn. Lake Park, in 18th place.

McCLIVE'S LAKEFRONT DINING

Food For Thought

Nothing skimpy about vegetarian meals when grilled portobello mushrooms join grilled tomatoes and ricotta cheese in a toasted baguette. Top with arugula and a drizzle of balsamic vinegar and olive oil, then the top half of the bread. Cut into sections.

Ginger butter's a zesty taste to add to grilled fowl or fish. Mix ½ cup soft butter with 2 Tbs. sliced green onion, 1 Tbs. grated ginger root, and 1 tsp. each minced garlic and soy sauce.

Brussels sprouts or baby onions on your holiday table. They'll cook more evenly if you cut an "X" into the root end.

Do cook pasta in plenty of water to keep it from sticking together. Don't rinse after cooking if you're serving it hot. The starch that sticks to it helps the sauce cling to each strand.

It's all in the knowhow: tomatoes will peel more easily if you first heat them in the microwave for 30 seconds. Let them stand until they're cool enough to handle.

Red Run Lodge To Be Open For Red Cross Tours

The Home for the Holidays House Tours, sponsored by the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross, will feature the Red Run Lodge, a nearly 60-year-old building that has operated as a restaurant, a home, an inn, a movie theater, and a bed and breakfast. The tours of five area homes will take place on Dec. 6, 4-9 p.m., and Dec. 7, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., with all proceeds from the event benefitting the local ARC chapter.

RED RUN LODGE

Red Run Lodge was originally named "McComas Beach," having been built by the late Dr. Henry McComas in 1937. Dr. McComas was known as an advocate of "clean fresh air for a health body" and wished to build a camp for city boys and girls to enjoy Garrett County's clean air and sunshine. He had already constructed the Camp Minnetoska barn, which had a large community room upstairs and a locker room and shower facilities downstairs. A builder in the Deep Creek Lake area, Raymond Houck, suggested to McComas that he construct a similar structure at the lake for youngsters to enjoy the beach and water. Thus Red Run was built.

The lodge has had several owners over the years. McComas passed away in 1939, and his son operated McComas Beach as a restaurant until it was purchased in 1948 by Clarence and Marie Savage. This family owned it until 1972, when the upstairs area was converted into a movie theater under the management of Glenn Lyons. In the 1980's, the building was again remodeled, this time into a bed and breakfast under the ownership of Ruth Umbel. Red Run Lodge is presently owned by "McComas Beach, Inc." and managed by Kathy Gibson.

The bed and breakfast area will be the portion featured on the tour. It has six bedrooms, each with a private bath, and can accommodate 14 people. There is a large communal living and dining area with an outside balcony that offers a panoramic view of Deep Creek Lake. The lodge is designed for all types of visitors, from single travelers to large families. It is the oldest commercial structure fronting Deep Creek Lake.

Tickets for the tours, which are priced at $5 per person for all five dwellings, are on sale at area pharmacies, at Flowers by Webers, and at Goehringer's Country Restaurant.

Proceeds from the tours will remain in Garrett County for use in meeting the emergency needs of local disaster victims, often in the form of emergency shelter, food, and clothing.

Endometriosis: Oral Medicines May Help

Endometriosis affects up to 15 percent of menstruating women between the ages of 25 and 44. This is a condition in which the lining of the uterus detaches itself and begins to grow in other areas of the abdominal cavity, such as the ovaries, fallopian tubes, urinary ligaments, and even the large intestines. The tissue typically thickens and sewells during each menstrual cycle. At the end of the cycle, if there is no pregnancy, this tissue breaks down and is eliminated in the normal menstrual flow. The body reacts to the dislocated tissue by building up scar tissue. Eventually, if not treated, cysts form on the organs affected. Pain and possibly infertility can result.

Medications: Certain medicines may be used to stop ovulation and lower body hormone levels.

Surgery: If large cysts develop on the ovaries, if abdominal pain is severe in the presence of drug therapy, or if medicines are not effective, surgery may be necessary. Conservative surgery involves the removal of some tissue during laparoscopic examination to establish a diagnosis of endometriosis. More involved surgery may require removal of the ovaries to eliminate the risk of recurrence of the problem.

Foundation Gets Rotary Grant

Oakland Rotary Club president Katherine Zimmerman recently continued the club's annual tradition, on behalf of the local organization, by making a financial contribution to the Rotary International's Foundation. This donation is made each year during November, which is designated Rotary Foundation Month.

Established in 1917 by A.C. Klumph, sixth president of Rotary International, this endowment fund is to be used throughout the world to meet charitable, educational and community needs.

Since 1917, the foundation has spent $630 million for humanitarian programs. "Specific grants are made to improve quality of life throughout the world and for educational awards," explained Zimmerman.

All of the foundation's programs are directed toward furthering understanding and friendly relations among the world's people. The foundation's largest funding has been to the Polio Plus Program which has contributed over $400 million to global polio virus eradication efforts. In 1995 over 150 countries reported no polio cases.

The Rotary Foundation is supported by voluntary contributions and spends 100 percent of its contributions on programs. According to Zimmerman, contributions are invested for a three-year period before they are spent on programs. The interest and earnings from these investments pay the foundation's administrative, operation and fund-raising costs, she reported.

In a recent report, the Rotary Foundation ranked first in total giving among U.S. based organizations classified as public charities by the Internal Revenue Service.

Lions' Halloween Parade Success

The annual Halloween Parade organized and conducted by the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club recently in downtown Oakland involved over 500 area children. All who participated were given a package consisting of candy, fruit, toys, and a soft drink. Additionally, 30 prizes were awarded to those judged to be wearing the best costumes.

After the parade, a cake walk and various other games were held in the Oakland fire hall.

A club spokesman noted that some 85 local businesses and individuals donated prizes and/or money to support the event.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING

A THANKSGIVING PLAY WITH ALL THE TRIMMINGS was presented earlier this month by Nancy Stewart's second grade class at Broad Ford Elementary School, featuring the talents of lots of young actors. The fledgling performers were dressed in the appropriate garb of pilgrims or Native Americans, and were given the great opportunity of having a full set and authentic props. What an effective way of teaching one of the most cherished stories of American culture; one which should be re-told tomorrow as millions of families sit down together to share a great feast, and to remember the great number of blessings we are given as citizens of this country where freedom and opportunity reign. Pictured from left to right are Tyler Weeks, Cody Brack, James Mullenax, Erica Glotfelty, Amanda Perry, Jade Ream, and Susanna Pannell.

Army Corps Notes Time Line For Shallmar Repairs

The Army Corps of Engineers this week issued a time line for the Corps's part of the Shallmar Road project. The schedule is contingent upon the approval of plans and the release of funds for construction, according to Major Lawrence Deren, the district engineer for Civil Works.

"We're going to get this thing done," Deren said this morning in a telephone interview. The project must also wait for a non-federal sponsor's furnishing 35% of the cost of the total project, and upon the execution of a Project Cooperation Agreement with the non-federal sponsor, which must occur

GARRETT COUNTY will be represented in the national AIDS Memorial Quilt, as the local women pictured above have volunteered their time and talents to create a quilt panel. Garrett County Volunteers Create Panel For AIDS Memorial Quilt

Garrett County, Maryland, will soon be represented with a panel on the NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt, thanks to the creativity and dedication of volunteers from the area. A panel showcasing the land, mountains, lake, and terrain of the area was recently pieced together by a group of eight women from the northern area of the county. The group came together following a request by Friendsville resident Ina Hicks.

"I only mentioned this project once and all of these willing hands came forward to help," explained Hicks.

Joining Hicks to complete the piecing of material on the panel in three afternoons were several friends and two sets of mothers and daughters.

"I think that we all came together because we know that we are all touched by this disease," explained Wendy Friend, who along with her daughter, Stephannie, helped with the project. That message made its way onto the panel, where the words "Everywhere There Are Those Who Know That We Are All Connected By Love" have been inscribed along the peaks of the mountains. The words were

Governor's Flood Mitigation Task Force Hears Plight Of Local Victims

Stories of trauma, loss, and fear were relayed to members of the Governor's Flood Mitigation Task Force on Monday afternoon during a public meeting, held in the theater at Garrett Community College. The meeting was one of four public sessions held by the Task Force in Western Maryland as the members try to gather information and ideas for helping those who have experienced loss because of flooding and who are in danger of losing more should the waters rise again, which they will inevitably do.

About 55 people attended the hearing, which was in front of about 15 members of the Task Force. The members represent a range of state and federal agencies, and the group is chaired by Speaker of the House Casper Taylor. Despite some residents' claims to the contrary, Taylor promised the group that this Task Force will proceed with action, not just discussion. He said the Force has delegated work groups to attack the immediate, the short-term, and the long term solutions. December 20 is the deadline for an interim report, and a final report and "game plan" is to be completed in January,

State Honors Local Schools; Southern Middle Given $30,706

Three Garrett County schools have been named among the state's fastest improving schools as part of a $2.75 million School Recognition program led by Gov. Parris N. Glendening.

One of the schools, Southern Middle School, was awarded a total of $30,706 in additional funding for achieving "substantial and meaningful improvement" on state test scores, Governor Glendening said.

The other two local schools - Grantsville and Broad Ford Elementary - will receive School Performance Recognition certificates.

In all, 422 elementary and middle schools from every corner of the state -- nearly half of the state's 1,000 total elementary and middle schools -- were recognized for significantly improving their scores on the Maryland School Performance Assessment Program, or MSPAP. During a ceremony to inaugurate the new program, 102 schools from 18 of the Maryland's 24 school systems shared $2.75 million in bonus funding in amounts ranging from $14,586 up to $51,394 per school. The size of the award was based on the enrollment of each improving school.

"It's unbelievable," stated Jack Rickman, principal of Southern Middle School. "Our whole staff is just elated. This has been a total team effort. We have great teachers and we also have kids who are really trying to do their best. It proves what can be accomplished when everyone works together."

Rickman was quick to

Embezzlement Charges Filed Against Former Vitech Employee

An Oakland woman was arrested recently by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, after an investigation into a reported embezzlement at Vitech Enterprises, McHenry, led to charges being filed against her.

According to a report filed by Tfc. R.M. Hershberger, investigator for the state police, Michele Renee Sweitzer, 34, who was employed by Vitech at the time of her arrest, was charged with embezzlement after she apparently wrote company checks for more than $24,000 that were unauthorized by Vitech's owner/president, David Vitez.

Hershberger said that he was contacted by Vitez on Sept. 19 and was advised that $24,618 was missing. Checks written by Sweitzer, who was responsible for payroll and paying bills for Vitech, were reportedly hidden in the office. Hershberger's investigation revealed that the checks, some written as cash advances to and by Sweitzer, were written over a period of approximately 16 months (May 1995 through September 1996).

Following her arrest, Sweitzer was taken before a district court commissioner and later released on her own recognizance. Her trial date is set for Dec. 9 in Garrett County District Court.

SKIS STOLEN

The state police investigated a reported theft of skis at the Wisp Ski Resort.

William J. Vinson III, Hagerstown, reported that his Rossignol downhill skis with attached bindings, left unattended near the ski slopes, were taken sometime between 6:30 and 6:45 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 23.

According to the investigating officer, Cpl. D.W. Broadwater, there were no witnesses to the theft, and there are currently no suspects. The skies are valued at $680.

COIN BOX STOLEN

It was also reported this week that a steel coin box, containing $15 in quarters, was taken from the car wash in Grantsville sometime between 6 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 21, and 9 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 23.

Robert H. Speicher told the state police that someone used a sharp object to pry open the locked box and remove the coins.

COMMISSIONERS HONOR RUNNIN' RAMS - Members of the Southern High School boys' and girls' cross country teams were honored this week by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners with a special proclamation in recognition of both teams capturing Maryland State 1A championships recently at Hereford High School. It was the fourth consecutive state title for the boys' team, coached by Carl Booth, and the first championship garnered by the girls' team, coached by Louis Newcomb, after finishing as the state runner-up last year. The proclamations also noted that the Southern boys won the Uniontown Invitational two years in a row and the past four West Region titles, while the girls finished with a 74-4 record. All members of the teams were named in the proclamations, with special recognition given to those who captured All-State honors at the state championships: Mike Bittinger, Adam Chorpenning, Sean Conroy, Eric Rexroad, Dan Sincell, Lauren Newcomb, Amy Snyder, Erin Hoalcraft, and Angie Sincell. The proclamations congratulated the Rams "for bringing honor to Southern High School and to Garrett County." Pictured above with Commissioners Roger Glotfelty, Wayne Wilt, and John Braskey are, from left: Coach Booth, Justin Hershman, Eric Rexroad, Ted Wolfe, Eric Cosner, Daniel Shafer, Peter Porcaro, Jared Beckman, Sean Conroy, Mike Bittinger, Matt Sincell, Andrew Sisler, Casey McBee, Adam Chorpenning, and Dan Sincell. Not present for the photo was Beau Gibson. In the photo below with the commissioners are, front row, from left: Keri Strubin, Kristen Spurrier, Katelyne McBee, Lauren Newcomb, Meghan Dabney, Amy Snyder, Erin Hoalcraft, and Angie Sincell; and back row: Coach Newcomb, assistant coach Angie Rye, Jody Bowser, Nicole Frazee, Rendi Carpenter, Devon McClive, Erin McClive, Annie Neville, Christy Hoalcraft, Beth Sauder, Mariah McBee, Natalie Carleon, and Shannon Spurrier. Not present for the photo was Megan Conroy.

DEDICATION OF SHELTER - A ribbon cutting ceremony was held this week for Garrett County's first Domestic Violence Shelter which is located along U.S. Route 219 about three miles north of Oakland. This dedication ceremony marked the culmination of years of work by many people of varied talents. The shelter is not yet ready for operation because renovations are still in progress. It is expected that the facility will be operational in a short time. The Garrett County Commission for Women recognized local agencies and individuals for their efforts and support in this project. Pictured are some of those thanked for their assistance. Left to right are County Commissioners John Braskey, Wayne Wilt, and Roger Glotfelty; Daryl T. Walters, Garrett County Bar Association president and past president of Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Resource Center (DVSARC); Phyllis B. Trickett, Commission for Women; Sue Sines, steering committee chair, Beverly Beard, Commission for Women, Patrick Kelly, vice president, Board of Directors, DVSARC, Pam Nelson Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc.; and Sheryl Hershman, steering committee. Anyone wishing to donate to the shelter or get information about the shelter may call DVSARC at 334-9000.

TREE OF LIGHTS - The third annual Tree of Lights, sponsored by the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, will be a public celebration next Wednesday, Dec. 4, at 7 p. m. on the hospital grounds. Following the lighting of the tree there will be Christmas caroling and sing-alongs featuring the "Saturday Night Garage Band," pictured above. Members of the band include, from left, Drew McGowan, Jeff and Liz Gilbert, Mike Robinson, Fred Jacoby, and (not pictured) Jann Dehus. Music and refreshments will be in the hospital's Community Services Center. Additional information about the Tree of Lights may be obtained by contacting the Foundation Office at (301) 334-2155.

Area Businesses Prepare Trees For Rotary Christmas Project

Businesses throughout Garrett County are busy decorating their Christmas trees with gift need cards in support of the 16th annual Oakland Rotary Christmas Project. David Bolinger, Rotary chairman and the club's organizer for the project, noted that this year's goal is to provide Christmas gifts for the children of 400 Garrett County families in need. In addition, this joint civic organization project will collect or purchase over 30,000 pounds of food, to provide these families with a Christmas dinner.

Oakland area businesses and organizations participating this holiday season are: American Trust Bank; Arrowhead Market; Bausch and Lomb; First United National Bank & Trust; Garrett County Courthouse; Garrett County Health Department; Garrett County Memorial Hospital; J.C. Penney catalog store; McDonald's Restaurant; Mettiki Coal; Oakland Post Office; Red Run Lodge; Ruth Enlow Library; Silver Tree Inn Restaurant; St. Peter's Catholic Church; Treasure Island Department Store; V & S Variety Store; and Will O' the Wisp.

In McHenry, a tree is located at First United National Bank & Trust.

Accident locations include: American Trust Bank; Fratz True Value Hardware; IGA of Accident; and the Ruth Enlow Library.

Participating locations in Friendsville are: First United National Bank & Trust; S & S Grocery; and Twila's Old Mill Grill.

In Grantsville, shoppers will find trees at: American Trust Bank; Beachy's Pharmacy; Buckel's Market; First United National Bank & Trust; Grantsville Foodland; and the Ruth Enlow Library.

Shoppers visiting any of these participating businesses are encouraged to remove one or more gift need cards from a Rotary Christmas Giving Tree and purchase the requested gifts. According to Bolinger, after the gift is purchased, the need card should be attached to the gift and returned to the business from which the card was obtained by December 18. All gift need tags represent children who have been designated as in need by one of the two local social services agencies.

Katherine Zimmerman, Oakland Rotary Club president, noted that the success of each year's project is because of "the wonderful generosity of Garrett County's citizens and visitors. Each year, people become more generous and the project more successful," she said.

Persons wishing to provide monetary contributions in lieu of gifts may mail their donation to: Oakland Rotary Christmas Project, P.O. Box 741, Oakland, MD 21550.

THE 16TH ANNUAL ROTARY CHRISTMAS PROJECT is currently underway and businesses throughout Garrett County are decorating Christmas Giving Trees with "need cards" in support of the project. Garrett County Memorial Hospital is one of the many businesses involved in this year's project that will ultimately provide gifts for children of the 400 Garrett County families in need, according to David Bolinger, Rotary chairman and organizer of the project. Above, Debbie Gaither and Fred Callis, president and vice president, respectively, of Garrett Memorial's employee committee, are shown as they fill the hospital's giving tree. (See story)

Cardiac Victim Clarification Noted

A story appeared in last week's paper that told of Clarence Crosco suffering a heart attack following a minor car accident on Rt. 135 near Bausch & Lomb. The report stated that volunteers of the Deer Park fire department administered CPR, which is correct. But further information has since been submitted and it should be noted that those who initiated the life-saving measure were one officer of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and a trooper with the Maryland State Police.

Deputy L. T. Smith was the first police officer to arrive on the scene and was speaking with Crosco about having his vehicle towed when the man fell to the ground unconscious. Smith was assisted by a state roads employee (unidentified) initially, and then he and Trooper F. Derham initiated CPR. They continued to work on the patient for about five minutes until the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad arrived on the scene.

Mr. Crosco was a patient in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital for several days, but has since been released, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Baltimore Man Arrested After Two-Car Mishap

A Baltimore man was arrested and charged with various traffic violations following a two-vehicle accident last Friday afternoon on Rt. 135, near the intersection with the Turkey Neck Road.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police at Barrack W, McHenry, William Cason, 24, was traveling west on Rt. 135 when he abruptly steered his vehicle off the road and onto a dirt lot. At the same time, another vehicle, operated by Richard C. Williams, 59, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., was traveling behind Cason's vehicle. Cason reportedly drove back across Rt. 135, into the path of Williams' vehicle, and then fled the scene.

Williams was injured in the accident and transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 4:37 p.m. accident. He was treated and released. His passenger, Willie G. Friend, 44, Oakland, was apparently uninjured.

Cason was later found by the state police on Old Rt. 38, and charged with leaving the scene of an accident with injuries, driving on a suspended license, giving false information to a police officer, negligent driving, and failure to yield right-of-way. He was transported to the Garrett County Jail where he was held on $1,500 bond. He has since been released from incarceration.

None of Cason's passengers, Terry M. Harris, 18, Michael Stalks, 18, Lewis H. Ervin, 19, or Steven A. Smith, 21, all of Baltimore, were injured, according to the police report.

RIG OVERTURNS

A Delaware man received only minor injuries when the tractor-trailer he was operating on Interstate 68 ran off the road and overturned early Tuesday morning, spilling a load of wooden skids onto the highway.

James E. Sullivan, 62, New Castle, Del., was treated and released from Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, following the 3:14 a.m. accident. State police said Sullivan was operating a 1985 Freightliner east on I-68 when he failed to negotiate a right turn, traveled onto the median strip, and overturned onto a guardrail.

Sullivan was subsequently charged by the state police with negligent driving. Also responding to the scene were members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department.

The interstate was closed for several hours following the mishap and eastbound traffic was detoured onto Alternate Route 40. The State Highway Administration was called to the scene to help with the cleanup operation.

HIT & RUN

A Grantsville man was cited with several violations after he reportedly backed his vehicle into a parked car on the Jennings Road and then drove away.

State police said Harold W. Wiley, 70, and his passenger, Lori A. Kyle, 31, also of Grantsville, were parked on the Jennings Road, near the intersection with Miller Road, in front of a 1994 Plymouth Duster operated by Bonnie L. Brooks, 44, Grantsville. The report stated that Wiley backed his vehicle, struck Brooks's vehicle, then immediately left the scene.

CAR FLIPS

A Swanton woman was reportedly uninjured in a single-vehicle accident when her car skidded off the snow-covered road and overturned as she traveled along the Green Glade Road last Friday morning.

State police said Connie W. Coleman, 52, was operating a 1994 Jeep Wagoneer north on the Green Glade Road, near Hazelhurst, when she attempted to shift into a lower gear, causing her vehicle to slide on the slippery roadway, then skid into a ditch and overturn.

Tfc J.T. Bentlejewski investigated the 10:43 a.m. mishap.

ONE INJURED

A Grantsville woman was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a single-vehicle accident last Friday morning on the Rock Lodge Road.

Sherry L. Wiley reportedly lost control of the 1987 Dodge Dakota she was operating north near the intersection with Rt. 495, causing it to run off the road, strike an embankment, and overturn.

Volunteers from Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Wiley to the hospital following the 9:53 a.m. accident. Members of the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

DWI ARRESTS

Three DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrests were logged at the local state police barrack during the past week.

Janet Ridder, 48, Oakland, was arrested and charged with DWI on Nov. 25, after she failed to negotiate a left turn in the road on Rt. 42, just north of Rt. 219, causing the vehicle to

McCLIVE'S LAKEFRONT DINING

Food For Thought

Give bulgur salad a Southwestern twist with corn, red onion and green bell pepper for color, chopped cilantro, hot pepper flakes and hot pepper sauce for taste. Great with leftover turkey.

"Brown bag" sandwich lunches tastes better and won't get soggy if you pack the sandwich bread and filling separately in plastic containers. Put it all together just before eating lunch.

Almost every kind of berry tastes better with a splash of kirsch. It brings out the natural goodness of the fruit.

What is the key to "Pacific rim" coleslaw? We figure it's the seasoned rice vinegar and Oriental sesame oil in the dressing and the sliced green onions and chopped cilantro mixed in.

Easy dish, straight out of the pantry, tastes like it came from Tuscany. Combine a can of cannellini beans, rinsed and drained, with a can of Italian-style stewed tomatoes. Add a big splash of balsamic vinegar, rosemary and red pepper to taste. And mangia!

A Bittersweet Event...

The dedication of the Garrett County Domestic Violence Shelter this week was a major step toward addressing a significant need in our community, even though the shelter is not quite ready for use. Tuesday's ribbon-cutting was a bittersweet event; sweet in that it was the culmination of lots of hard work by many people and that the shelter will serve as a sanctuary for abused family members, and bitter in that it's such a shame that there is even a need for such a facility.

But according to a report released Monday by the Maryland Family Violence Council, the need for such shelters has never been greater, as spousal assaults increased 18 percent in Maryland between 1994 and 1995. Law enforcement agencies in the state receive at least 20,000 domestic violence calls per year, and estimate that the actual number of such incidents is more likely four times that amount, but too many victims are either too afraid or too ashamed to report them, or have no place to go for assistance.

Unfortunately, while Garrett County is somewhat shielded from many of the negative aspects of urban life, we certainly have our "fair share" of domestic violence. In fact, many believe that on a per capita basis, Garrett County has an above average number of cases. We hope that the opening of the shelter will encourage more local victims to report such abuse since they will have a safe haven for themselves and, in many cases, their children.

There is a segment of our population, mostly male, that believes that with a marriage certificate comes a "right" to inflict physical harm on their spouses. Sadly, our judicial system has for many years basically reinforced such an attitude by doing little more than slapping the fingers of the abuser. Meanwhile, many convicted of aggravated assault against non-family members are sitting in jail. The crimes are identical.

With the dedication of our local shelter, we express our gratitude to the many organizations, agencies, and individuals - mostly women - who spearheaded this effort. Organizations and agencies include the Commission for Women, the Civic Club of Oakland, the League of Women Voters, the Business and Professional Women's clubs, the Board of County Commissioners, and the Community Action Committee. Individuals who have done an outstanding job include Phyllis Trickett, who has been the primary "mover and shaker," Sue Sines, Pam Nelson, and Duane Yoder. Undoubtedly there are many others.

More funds are needed by the Commission for Women to complete the shelter project, so persons are encouraged to give. Victims of domestic abuse are strongly urged to contact the police and/or call 334-9000 for assistance.

A NEW MAYFLOWER, A NEW COMPACT

The Pilgrims were harbored off Cape Cod in late November 1620 when they agreed to form a government with their fellow shipmates who had joined them on their adventure. The first constitutional document of the new world was a scant 200 words, and most of that consisted of formalities. Signed on shipboard--a prerequisite for going ashore---it was called "The Mayflower Compact."

The word "compact" does not mean much to us today except as a size of car. Four hundred years ago it meant "to join or knit things firmly together.... to combine closely into a whole." As it pertained to the fledgling colony at Plymouth it meant they were in it all together.

A year after the Pilgrims went ashore, half their number were dead, but they had gotten in a harvest that promised life to those who remained. On that occasion they observed the first Thanksgiving.

It can be argued that without the Mayflower Compact all of the Plymouth colonists might well have died. The adversity they faced was so severe that without total cooperation and mutual commitment persevering might have been impossible.

The Pilgrims had fled persecution in England where King James had viewed them as enemies of the state. The journey across the ocean was something of an emblem for another kind of journey which the Pilgrims made simultaneously. That other journey was one of culture and a culture that embraced principles which were social, economic, and political as well as spiritual.

Few enterprises have been founded on such radical ideas as the Plymouth colony. It was a commonwealth, another word that after four centuries of use means next to nothing. What they meant by the term was that no one should be deemed to have a political, social, or economic advantage over anyone else.

Everyone's work was deemed to be equally essential to the good of the community, a view that has never been more true than in their extreme circumstance. Because the value of everyone's work was equally important, however different it might be, everyone should share equally in the wealth of the colony. Thus the wealth of the community was held in common--a commonwealth.

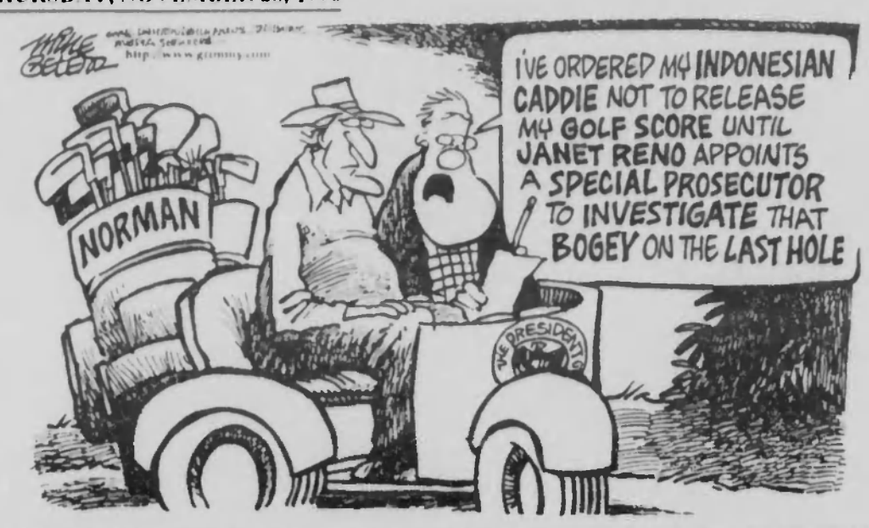
Only when the years of peril were past did the community jettison this radical vision. They replaced it with the more typical notion that what I do is worth more than what you do, and therefore I should have more of the community's wealth.

Today people continue to feel imperiled, and they continue to make geographical journeys. When the journey is that of an American family from the city to the country it is often a mistake because they carry with them the culture they have fled. In the age of satellite dishes there is nowhere to go. Geographical journeys are meaningless unless accompanied by cultural conversion.

One thing is clear about the Pilgrim colony at Plymouth: it meant living a different kind of life. Saying the magic words did not save them between signing the Compact and observing Thanksgiving. The daily living of a new vision did save them. More shame on them that they abandoned the vision which saved them when they did not think they needed saving anymore.

The opportunity is for those of us on the ground, few as we may be, who have a different vision of life, who share a different cultural commitment than the one prevailing in American society to compact ourselves together.

Such a commitment, full of perils, is the kind of journey necessary to renew community, to revive a private virtue which is also public, to restore the commonwealth. For a new compact there is no place like here. Our Mayflowers are families, churches, neighborhoods, or any other form of community as we can find or make it.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In the early morning of January 18, 1979, Garrett County Deputy Sheriff David G. Livengood answered the call of a silent burglar alarm at the Army-Navy Discount store in Oakland. In his attempt to capture the perpetrators, Deputy Livengood and his K-9 police dog, Sarge, were murdered by Richard Danny Tichnell and Roberto Oscar Reeck. Tichnell was convicted and sentenced to death by the trial judge. In subsequent appeals afforded him by law, Tichnell was sentenced to death two more times by different juries and finally, on appeal, Tichnell successfully convinced one juror out of twelve that he should not receive the death penalty for murdering Deputy Livengood. The end result was the trial judge had no choice but to sentence Tichnell to life imprisonment.

This was the first time in the history of Garrett County that a law enforcement officer was killed in the line of duty. It dealt a severe blow to everyone in law enforcement who knew and worked with Deputy Livengood, including his family.

Now, enough time has passed that the Maryland Parole Commission is required to hold a hearing on February 1, 1997, to determine whether Tichnell should be let out of jail on parole or not.

I'm writing this to make you all aware of this sad situation and am asking everyone to write a letter to the Maryland Parole Commission to demand that Tichnell not be paroled; that he should remain in jail for the rest of his life, as the trial judge in this case stated. The Parole Commission needs to be advised by the citizens of Garrett County in no uncertain terms that we will not tolerate liberal attitudes on its part in this case.

The address is: Maryland Parole Commission, Attn: Chairman Paul Davis, 6776 Reisterstown Rd., Suite 307, Baltimore, MD 21215.

I thank you for your time and consideration on this extremely important matter.

Randy L. Sines,
Sheriff of Garrett County

To the Editor:

At a time when even the Federal Department of Education recognizes the important role religion plays in the history of the United States and the value of teaching about the role in the public schools.

The value of remembering that heritage in our homes this Thanksgiving is beyond measure.

The following is the first Presidential Proclamation of Thanksgiving as recorded in the Messages and Papers of the Presidents.

Sincerely,
Patrick W. Riley

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS it is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey His will, to be grateful for His benefits, and humbly to implore His protection and favour; and Whereas both Houses of Congress have, by their joint committee, requested me "to recommend to the people of the United States a DAY OF PUBLIC THANKSGIVING and PRAYER, to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many and signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity peaceably to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness":

NOW THEREFORE, I do recommend and assign Thursday, the TWENTY-SIXTH DAY OF NOVEMBER next, to be devoted by the people of these States to the service of that great and glorious Being who is the beneficent author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be; that we may then all unite in rendering unto Him our sincere and humble thanks for His kind care and protection of the people of this country previous to their becoming a nation; for the signal and manifold mercies and the favorable interpositions of His providence in the course and conclusion of the late war; for the great degree of tranquility, union, and plenty which we have since enjoyed; for the peaceable and rational manner in which we have been enabled to establish Constitutions of government for our safety and happiness, and particularly the national one now lately instituted; for the civil and religious liberty with which we are blessed, and the means we have of acquiring and diffusing useful knowledge; and, in general, for all the great and various favours which He has been pleased to confer upon us.

And also, that we may then unite in most humbly offering our prayers and supplications to the great Lord and Ruler of Nations and beseech Him to pardon our national and other transgressions; to enable us

THE COMPUTER CORNER

By Toni Hudson

Computer Shopping

As Christmas approaches, many people are considering purchasing a computer. That's a great idea. A computer will provide access to dozens of services and activities that you can use in your home and business. It will also offer you and other members of your family the opportunity to learn skills that are in demand today. A typical computer today costs around $2,000 and is just right for home or small office use.

Because of this, I thought I would offer you a brief translation of the jargon used to describe a computer. Whether you review package deals or try to put together a system for yourself, these terms will be very important.

There are four basic components to a computer: the processor, the disk drive(s), the keyboard, and the display monitor. The keyboard is the least concern. When buying your computer, just be sure to check that it says somewhere that you are getting a standard IBM or Windows keyboard.

The display monitor is the TV-like device that shows you what you are typing or drawing. Monitors come in several standard sizes, which are measured diagonally. The most common size is 17 inches. Of that, about 15 1/2 inches are the actually viewing area; the rest is the frame.

Now, let's move on to the parts that make a difference. First, the processor.

Think of the processor as a card table. You are trying to line up playing cards in neat rows on the top of the card table. You will be rewarded for how many cards you can line up and how fast you can do it. In order to line up the most cards on the table, you need a large deck waiting in readiness.

Your computer is like the card table and the deck. The deck of cards is the RAM of your computer. RAM stands for "random access memory," if you really need to know that. The size of that deck of cards is measured in megabytes, or "meg." Each megabyte is about a million pieces of information, but that's not important; we could measure the size of processors by any agreed-upon standard. Back to the card table: your computer's RAM needs to be a minimum of 8 megs in size and probably should be bigger. The sizes usually are sold in groups of four, so you could go from 8 to 12 to 16 and so on. A good size today is at least 16. Many computers in the catalogs that I am receiving start at 32 and go up to 128, which is way too big for home use.

The other aspect of the card table is how fast you can line up the cards. The speed of your computer's processor is measured in megahertz, which may be abbreviated as MHz. The higher the number, the faster your computer can process the information, but the more it will cost. With today's Pentium processors, this number is astronomical. An average machine, however, will run between 100 and 200 MHz.

The last major component that we need to look at is the disk drive. If we go back to the card table analogy, imagine that you have several decks of cards. You only use one at a time to fill up the table, but you need a place to store all the unused decks. On your computer, the programs and data that you are not using are kept on a "hard drive," so-called because it is harder than the little diskettes that you put in and take out of your computer. How much hard drive space do you need? At least twice as much as you think you need! I am not kidding. Of all the components of your computer, spend the most money on this. This space may also be measured in megabytes, as the processor is, or in an even larger number, gigabytes. A gigabyte is roughly one billion pieces of information. Even counting all the letters, numbers, periods, commas and spaces you will write, it might be difficult to imagine that you could ever fill up that much space, but don't be surprised at how close you come to it! Buy at least 1/2 a gigabyte, but 1 or even 2 is much safer.

You can add on a lot of other components, such as modems and CD-ROM and stereo sound cards, but they are not as central to your computer's operation.

I'm sorry for all the numbers in this column, but if you are buying a computer this Christmas season, you will need to understand a little bit about the technical details. Happy shopping!

Book of Hours...

Excerpted from
of Katerina Schutzerin v. Wald

I am less happy with Glendale Road since the bridge went out of it. When cat tails flourished in the small wetland where it ran into 219, before it was drained of all character and christened by officialdom with an anonymous name, we all knew it led somewhere, and all along the winding, canopied passage, a child could anticipate the arrival. For in an age long condemned and now lost, when its name was written onto the hearts of those who waited interminably, until they ceased being children, and peered out trapped behind the glass of a car climbing, dipping and turning its way to the spot for which the road existed; in an age long condemned and now lost to children, we all knew from the signs on our hearts and not on the road its real name, Glendale Bridge Road. Now that it is vanquished as children, who will know their true destination on this indecipherable road? Who will know Glendale, wonder what a glen or dale is, what their difference is or why there are two of them in one spot? Far less, in the life-long recognition in which we learn what is precious and what is not, who will wonder what it takes to bridge them or the hollows of our souls? For childhood forms the heart of humanity, which is shattered in youth, reconstructed in adulthood and searched ceaselessly down many roads for understanding in maturity.

Once again, the face of the writing/reporting office here at The Republican has changed. Benjamin Robb is off living the life he has wished for -- in the city where he can get a tofu burger at 3 a.m. if he wants to, or where he can experience the thrill of being chased by a gang of tattooed teenagers wielding crowbars who just don't like his looks. Ah, city life. Do we miss Ben? Well, yes, in that quirky way one misses a wart that's been burned off. Just kidding, of course -- we do miss him and his "out there" sense of humor. But, all is not lost, as we have hired a new writer. Peggy Santamaria is here and she's working out just fine. She hails from Accident, where she has lived with her husband Eddie for about three and a half years. This hiring puts our editor back in the minority in the newsroom, as he is the only male again. And I, who seven years ago was the newest and youngest, am now in line behind Don in seniority and am the, well, still the youngest. Yay. Anyhow, enough from me. Now I'd like you to meet Peggy Santamaria:

Perhaps I am the only one weary of references to Baby Boomers. It seems that this year everybody who is anybody turned 50, or should I say, the big five-oh . . . Magazines, news broadcasts, advertisements, all reflected, from time to time, on this boom phenomenon.

My sense of ho-hum about this big boom may result from my own feelings of not really being part of it. I hit the big five-oh two years ago. Peter Jennings made no mention of it and not one magazine wanted to run a nice full-color shot of me looking simply marvelous for my age. I just kind of quietly turned 50.

I was actually a bit surprised about all the hoopla at the start of the year proclaiming this the year that the first baby boomers would go over the hill. I had always thought of myself as part of the boom generation. While I was learning to diaper my first born, Dick Cavett kept me company each morning. He had a talk show way back then. It was not in the vein of sleazy, personal melodrama but presented some rather interesting people who spoke in multiple syllables about things other than their perverse behaviors.

One of Cavett's guests was (if I remember correctly) the author Tom Wolfe. Wolfe, Cavett and I are, I suppose, roughly, contemporaries (though I, of course, am younger and look better). Wolfe's conversation that day has stayed with me over these almost 29 years. He spoke of this generation (ours) being the largest generation ever to grace the earth. This was the generation that put blue jeans into executive wardrobes and "up-scale" shops. This was the generation that spoke out and was noticed if not appreciated. This was a generation whose music just seemed to never go away.

What Wolfe said that day was that this group, as the geriatric generation, would be a force to be reckoned with. We would continue to set the trends and, by gum, it would be the in-thing to carry a cane or use a walker and even the young would want to follow these styles.

Well, Mr. Wolfe, the time is nigh. We are getting there. Though I am somewhat tired of all the hullabaloo about younger skin, shinier hair, flatter "abs," I do hope that when the year of the boom passes, those of this generation who can and did will continue to do. I hope we will move forward with the energy of spirit with which we took the scene by force way back before crow's-feet and Clairol. I hope we will not get mired in self-absorption and trying to retrieve or achieve the build of an adolescent. If boomers really are the trend setters today, then let us see it as a big responsibility and a great opportunity. Let's not waste this chance. We won't have a whole lot more.

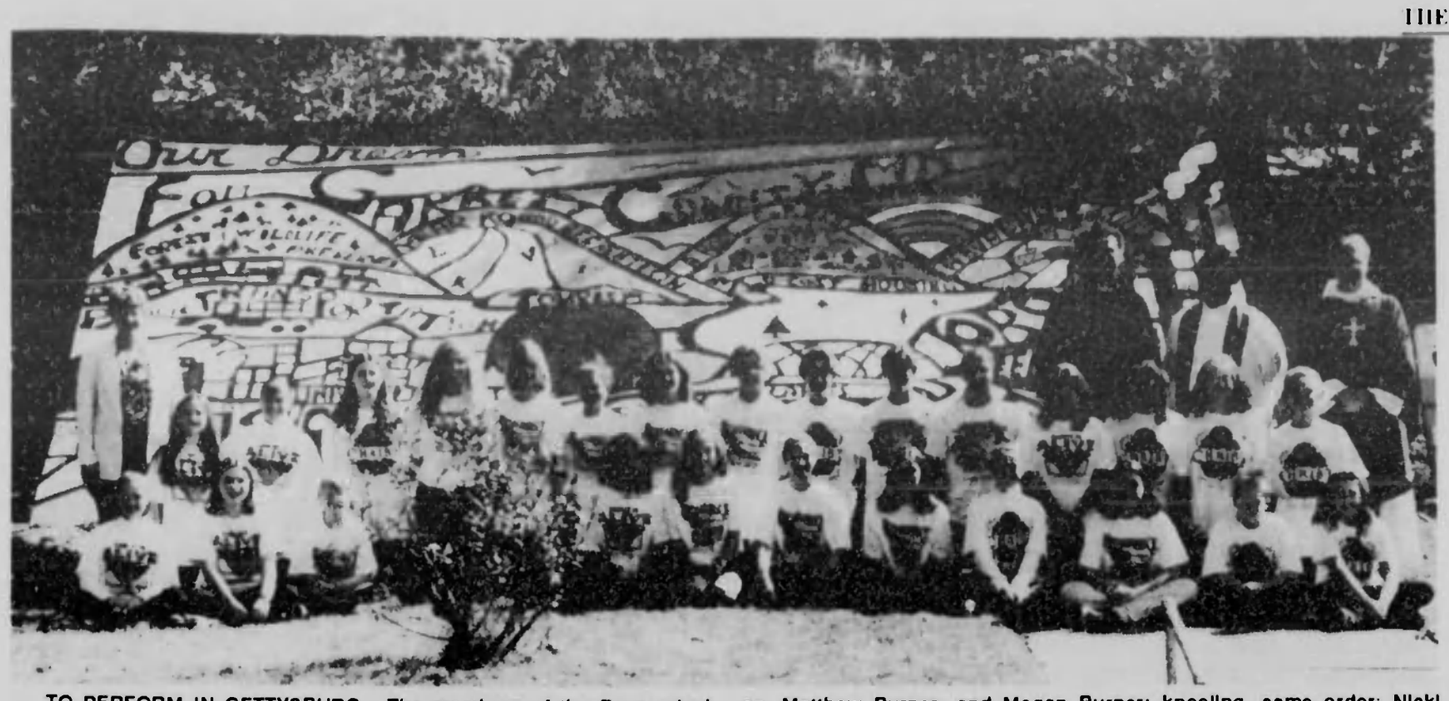
NOVEMBER 28, 1996



TO PERFORM IN GETTYSBURG - The members of the Ecumenical Youth Ministry musical ensembles, who presented a highly successful run of the musical Godspell in three different locations earlier this year, have been invited to present two concerts at the Gettysburg, Pa., Lutheran Theological Seminary next week. The programs will include an 80-minute concert on Monday evening and a morning concert on Tuesday, both presented in the Gettysburg College Chapel. The programs will include numbers by the EYM percussion, recorder/flute, and guitar ensembles. Members of the EYM pictured above are, from left, seated: Sheila Nolan, Katie Richter, Megan Broderick, Keri Strubin, Rita Powell, Anna Marc, Annie Neville, Susanne Gilbert, Molly McGowan, Matthew Burner, and Megan Burner; kneeling, same order: Nicki Hughes, Rachel Sincell, Erin Wampler, Michelle Molz, Janet Cook, Sara Sincell, Bridget Nolan, Justin Helbig, Adam Chorpenning, Matt Sincell, David Peterson, Katie Helbig, Danielle Jackson, Leah Broderick, and Gina Powell. Standing are Lynn Broderick, EYM director; Rev. Mike Robinson of St. Mark's Lutheran Church; Rev. John Kitagawa, executive officer of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland; and Rev. Chip Lee of St. Matthew's/St. John's Episcopal churches. The EYM, which is open to all teenaged youth, is sponsored by St. Mark's Lutheran, St. Matthew's and St. John's Episcopal, St. Paul's United Methodist, and St. Peter's Catholic churches.

Ecumenical Youth Ministry To Perform At Gettysburg Seminary

The Ecumenical Youth Ministry will be "on the road again" Monday and Tuesday, December 2 and 3, as the EYM musical ensembles will travel to Gettysburg, Pa., to perform at the Lutheran Theological Seminary. The Chapel of the Abiding Presence will be the setting for two concerts the ministry will perform while guests on campus, according to EYM director Lynn Broderick.

The EYM will perform an 80-minute concert on Monday evening at 7:30, as part of the Music Gettysburg Concert Series. The concert material includes six numbers from the musical Godspell in addition to 24 songs rehearsed since June. The repertoire includes traditional hymns, Gregorian chant, gospel style tunes, and songs from the musical theatre genre. The EYM sings in Spanish and Latin in addition to English.

On Tuesday morning at 10:30, the seminary will host fourth and fifth graders from the Gettysburg public schools. A 40-minute concert designed to enrich the students' knowledge of musical styles will be presented. The percussion, recorder/flute, guitar and vocal ensembles will be featured. The youth ministry will conclude its evangelical endeavors with a brief chapel service for campus personnel at 11:45.

Mrs. Broderick said that the trip to Gettysburg was "master-minded" by Pastor Mike Robinson of St. Mark's Lutheran Church. After spending part of the summer taking classes at the seminary, Rev. Robinson approached Donna Nicholson, Director of Development, to explore the possibility of a concert date for the youth ministry. Dates were set in July and the EYM went to work developing and polishing a repertoire of songs that have been previewed throughout the fall at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, St. Peter's Catholic Church, St. Paul's Methodist Church, and St. George's Episcopal Church in Mt. Savage. Final preparations for the tour concluded Tuesday evening and the participants are busily packing for the early departure Monday morning.

PSI Ordered For Man Convicted Of Child Abuse

Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer in proceedings last week ordered a pre-sentence investigation for a Butler, Pa., man convicted of child abuse. Michael D. Hall, 30, had pleaded guilty to the charge, according to the court report. Other related charges, including second degree rape, second and third degree sexual offense, and assault and battery, were not prosecuted.

Hall was arrested earlier this year after an investigation into incidents that occurred in November of 1995. He is accused of sexually molesting an 8-year-old girl on various occasions, forcing her to engage in sexual activity and then, according to the court report, allegedly threatening to hurt her if she told anyone about it.

A sentencing date was not noted in the court report.

A Kimberly, W.Va., man pleaded guilty to making a false statement to a police officer. The defendant, Benjamin A. Bass, 20, was fined $50, according to the court record. He will also have to perform 20 hours of community service.

The charge stemmed from a traffic stop made by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in September 1995.

Two Arrested As Result Of Ruckus

Two individuals were charged by Garrett County Sheriff's deputies following a disturbance of the peace at a Loch Lynn apartment complex this week. William P. Gank, 23, and Roger B. Gank, 19, both of Mtn. Lake Park, were arrested Saturday evening, according to the report.

Officers were contacted by the owner of the apartment who asked if a deputy would accompany him as he checked on a reported disturbance. The officers and owner approached the location and found two individuals involved in a loud verbal altercation. William P. Gank was told to quiet down, according to the report, but refused to do so and allegedly began to curse at the officers. The report indicates that he then shoved one of the officers in the chest.

He was then taken into custody and charged with assaulting a police officer. While the arrest was taking place, Roger B. Gank reportedly approached the patrol car and demanded that William be released. He was also apparently ordered to quiet down, but continued to cause a ruckus and was consequently charged with disturbing the peace.

Both Ganks were released on their own recognizance, according to an office spokesperson.

A Pinto man was charged with DWI (driving while intoxicated) by a deputy. Steven T. Stedding, 42, was arrested on Nov. 23. Further details were not available.

Wetland Trail Designed By Ecology Class

Bruce Taliaferro's Southern High School ecology class recently completed a wetland project at the school in the area located below the Vo-Ag building. Class members Danny Huber, Meredith Martin, Jody Friend, Holly Wilson, Brian Park, Bobby Gray, and Rachel Lane removed trash, designed and constructed a chipped-wood walkway, and installed signs containing information about wetlands.

The project, started on Sept. 26, will be updated regularly by subsequent ecology classes. The students went through many steps to get permission for this project, which gave them a better understanding of the complex processes involved with setting aside a wetland interpretive trail. Maryland Department of the Environment, the Board of Education, and Lynn Bell, principal at Southern High School all had to approve the plan. In addition, materials and equipment to complete the project had to be determined and acquired.

As the project progressed, the students learned that wetlands provide diverse benefits including water purification, habitat for wildlife, constant nutrient supply, and flood control. The goal of the students who worked on the project is to provide education and information on the value and significance of wetlands in order to increase support for efforts to conserve them.

Taliaferro and the students noted their appreciation of Liz McDowell of the Maryland Department of the Environment for surveying the site with the students, and of the carpentry teacher at SHS for helping to construct signs.

Equipment and materials for the wetlands project were provided by Beachy Lumber, Sisler Lumber, Green Acres Garden Center, and Highland Engineering.

Visitors are welcome to the wetlands and are asked to access the area from the Dennett Road side of the school.

WETLAND TRAIL PROJECT - Southern High School ecology students taught by Bruce Taliaferro recently completed a wetland project at the school. They designed and constructed the trail and installed information signs to educate people on the value of wetlands and the need to conserve them. before the project can go out for bids.

As of yesterday (Nov. 26), the design is 95% completed. This will now be open for review and comments until Dec. 3. The completion of the plans and "specs" are to be done Dec. 3-6, followed hy site meetings with potential bidders Dec. 9-13. The receipt of bids is to be Dec. 16-20, with the contract to be awarded on Dec. 23. The notice to proceed should be on Jaa. 6, 1997.

This project is a preventative measure, Deren explained. It is in conjunction with the Garrett County Roads Department's improvements to the road, which are currently underway. The roadway was severely damaged as the result of flooding in the past several months. School buses were barred from traveling on the road for several weeks, but have since been allowed back as a result of the roads department's efforts.

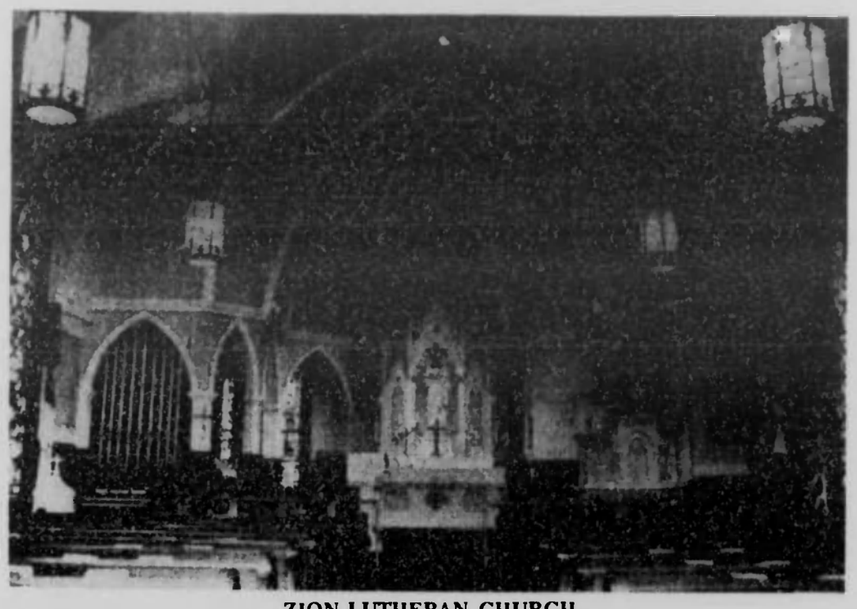
Zion Lutheran To Be Part Of Accident Tour

The Zion Lutheran Church in Accident will be among those structures featured in the Accident Cultural and Historical Society's first Christmas in Flowery Vale Tour, slated for Dec. 14.

The cornerstone for the present Zion Lutheran Church in Accident was laid on June 22, 1902, and dedicated on April 19, 1903. This church building replaced an earlier structure of the congregation which was located in the Zion cemetery and was struck by lightning and destroyed on August 23, 1901.

The original cost of the present Zion Church was $5,680, plus $200 for the lot on which it was built (now known as 209 North Main Street in Accident). Through the years, numerons improvements have been made to the building. Acetylene lights were installed in 1913. The exterior was painted in 1938, and the interior was redecorated in 1939. Lightning struck the 90-foot church steeple on September 15, 1941, and extensive repairs were required.



ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH

The church pews were refinished and the interior woodwork was varnished in 1946, and the stained glass windows were dedicated on Easter Sunday, April 6, 1947. In this year the church also obtained a fuel oil furnace. The exterior of the church was painted again in 1954, and land for a parking lot was purchased in 1958. In 1959, a Wurlitzer electronic organ was purchased for the congregation. Improvements in the 1960's included the installation of a communion rail and carpeting.

A carillon in memory of the Rev. Carl Dauphin, who served the longest pastorate in the history of the congregation, was dedicated in 1972.

The Wurlitzer organ was replaced by a new Moller pipe organ in 1987, and in 1989, the 125th anniversary year of the congregation, the church exterior was cleaned and painted and the stained glass windows were cleaned, repaired, and covered with a protective barrier.

The congregation undertook a major building program in 1992. New classrooms, a fellowship hall, offices, and a narthex were added to the sanctuary. This project was dedicated on May 23, 1993. During January and February of 1997 the interior of the church will again be totally redecorated by Mike McBride & Co., Greenock, Pa.

The self-directed tour will begin at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Accident, where maps of the tour route will be distributed. In addition to the two churches, participants will visit the historic Drane House and the homes of the Nairn and Slawson families. The public may tour the locations from 4 to 7 p.m., and are invited to attend Accident's holiday Festival of Music at Flowery Vale Senior Center starting at 7:30 p.m. Admission to the Festival of Music is free, and persons need not have toured Flowery Vale to attend. All those who bring tickets from the tour will be eligible for a special door prize drawing.

Proceeds from the tour will benefit veterans and their families in Garrett County. Tickets are $4 for general admission and $2 for children under 6. They can be purchased at the following locations: Matthew's Store, Accident; Deep Creek Pharmacy, McHenry; Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville; Friendsville Pharmacy, Friendsville; ProudFoot's Pharmacy, Oakland; and at St. Paul's Lutheran Church on the day of the tour.

Food Committee Surveys Show Hunger Rising

In order to gauge the increasing level of hunger, the Maryland Food Committee has conducted its annual survey of emergency food providers (soup kitchens, food pantries, etc.). Twenty-three emergency food providers in the Western Maryland region responded to the survey.

According to a Maryland Food Committee spokesperson, the survey documents a dramatic increase in hunger over the last year and provides demographic information about the people going hungry in Allegany, Frederick, Washington, and Garrett counties. It also finds that the increasing numbers of hungry Marylanders are coming closer to a state of crisis where they can no longer turn to the government or overburdened soup kitchens and food pantries.

Emergency food providers that participated in the survey gave information about the numbers of individuals and families they served in October 1996 relative to October 1995. They also provided information about family and employment status of their customers as well as information regarding the viability of their operation and their expectations for meeting future hunger needs.

The survey found that food providers in Western Maryland served 16,629 individuals and families in October 1996, an increase of almost 9% compared to the 15,252 individuals and families that those same food providers served in October 1995.

"Studies from the past four years show that hunger's steadily increasing rate is a long term trend," the spokesperson noted.

Though hunger crosses racial, geographic, gender and demographic boundaries in Western Maryland, the committee found "its primary victims are society's most vulnerable members, children and senior citizens."

Half of the food pantries and one third of soup kitchens surveyed say that they are seeing more families with children than in past years. Food pantries participating in the survey report that fully six out of every ten of their customers are families with children.

Food providers in Western Maryland additionally report that 17% of their customers are over age 60. This percentage is low compared to the state average of 21.4%, according to committee reports. However, the fact that senior citizens represent the fastest growing segment of society has alarmed some emergency food providers who fear more suffering for society's most vulnerable people.

"One sad fact that distinguishes Western Maryland from other regions in the state is the high rate of hungry people who are employed in some capacity and still find it necessary to receive food assistance for themselves or their families. Fully 50% of people who use food pantries and soup kitchens to feed themselves and their families are working, 18% higher than any other region in the state. The inability of the working poor to make ends meet even though they have a job is a serious crisis for Western Maryland," the spokesperson stated.

Thirty-six percent of food providers in Western Maryland have seen layoffs by major employers and this has contributed to the need for more food assistance. "I've seen the numbers I help climb dramatically because of unemployment and cutbacks on food," said one Garrett County food pantry operator.

The odds that emergency food providers will be able to cope with the swelling waves of new hungry people seem grim. According to the survey, one out of every five food providers reported "experiencing burnout, feeling overwhelmed, or feeling that you cannot address the needs in your community," the worker added.

The survey indicates that the safety net is not strong enough to take care of the needs of people in crisis. An estimated 67.5% of people who rely on soup kitchens and food pantries in Western Maryland receive food stamps or other forms of public assistance and still find it necessary to supplement their food supply with help from food pantries or soup kitchens.

Cuts in food stamps that went into effect on Oct. 1 are already being credited by many survey respondents for the larger numbers of hungry people they are seeing come to their door.

"They are not touching the right people to prevent abuses in the system. I've seen old people cry because they do not have enough food," said one Garrett County food pantry director.

However, providers fear that the crisis is yet to come. "[Welfare] reform is going to cause a whole new class of working poor as these people will be taking minimum wage it will ultimately fall on us to help supplement the needs of those people for food," said the director of a Washington County food bank. Providers are clearly worried that their own limited resources combined with government cuts and unfavorable trends put them on the verge of a crisis of suffering, according to the committee spokesperson.

$1,000 REWARD

I'm offering a reward of $1,000 for the safe return of my dog, "Beauty." She was taken on September 23 without my knowledge by my daughter who thought she should be out with hunters running in a fenced area. Beauty is a mixed breed dog, but has the loose mouth to catch birds. She is 45 pounds, black short hair, yellow front paws (I can't recall her back paws). She has a tattoo ID. She is loving and gentle. I really miss her and love her and want her back. Please call me at 706-865-5066. I will accept a collect call. Leave your name and phone number.

While the Lakers never regained the lead, they cut the margin to four points late in the game. That would be as close as they would get, however.

WHITETAILS UNLIMITED

Garrett County is the home of the state's largest chapter of Whitetails Unlimited. The organization, national and non-profit, is focused on informing the general public about the importance of the study and sound management of white-tailed deer.

The Garrett Woods Chapter was formed in 1992 as an "Associate Chapter" and currently counts at 105. The chapter was designated as a Patron Chapter in 1994 and it was at that time that their annual fund raising auction and banquet was initiated. The lion's share of funds raised locally are used to promote youth and adult hunter safety programs in the county and are run in conjunction with the DNR. The group is also active in organizing habitat improvement programs and fostering better hunter/landowner relationships. These activities under the direction of chapter founder Tommy Thayer and subsequent chapter presidents have led to numerous tracts, previously unhunted, being opened to organized hunts.

The group's annual dinner, attended by 105 members, was held this past November 7, at the Point View Inn. Anyone interested in joining the Garrett Woods Chapter or getting more information should contact Wendell Beitzel, current chapter president, at 301-387-6950.

NEW PRODUCT DESIGNED TO FOOL WHITETAIL

Bob Walker, developer of Walker's Game Ear, has introduced a new product designed to provide a visual attractant to both bucks and does along with a delivery system for a luring scent.

This product is called Wrap-A-Rub and is simply fastened around a tree with the ties attached. It gives the appearance of a fresh rub and should catch a roving deer's visual attention. Secondly, it absorbs and disperses scent added by the hunter. Also included in the package are rubber gloves to reduce human scent while handling. The Wrap-A-Rub is about 16" long and comes packaged with two bottles of scent. The product isn't in retail stores, yet; but should be by next year. Both photographers and hunters should find it useful. To order directly from Walker's Game Ear, Inc., call 1-800-424-1069.

CAN THE CATERPILLAR REALLY PREDICT?

Legend has it that the severity of the coming winter can be predicted by the colors worn in the fall by the wooly bear caterpillar. According to folklore, a hushy black coat means a long cold winter while an apparently thinner coat, mostly bronze, indicates a milder season. Conversely, biologists will tell you that these colors have nothing to do with the weather, but, rather, the age of the caterpillar. What do you think? Do you have an experience to sup-

JUNIOR HUNTER DAY In Maryland, which was Saturday, Nov. 16, brought success to 11-year-old Michael Wilburn, Grantsville, as he brought down this 135-pound eight-point near the Garrett County Airport at McHenry. Michael, who is the grandson of John and Margaret Beitzel, is a student at Northern Middle School. This was the first trophy of his young hunting career.

Savage River Shooting Range Opening Noted

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) State Forest and park Service Director Rick Barton announced today that the first five lanes of the shooting range at Savage River State Forest are open in time for hunters to sight-in their guns for accuracy on opening day of firearm season. The range will be open every day from 8 a.m. to sunset, and there is a $3 per day fee. However, there is a yearly permit available for $20.

The range is located approximately one mile south of the intersection of New Germany and Big Run roads, and it is near the first powerline south of Big Run.

"We are proud to have this facility completed in only three months, thanks to the cooperation of the employees at Savage River Complex, Garrett County Roads Dept., and Jeff Montgomery's building trade class at Northern High School," stated Barton. "One thing we ask is that users take pride in this and care for the range by cleaning up their shell casings upon departure."

For more information about the shooting range, persons may call Savage River Complex at (301) 895-5759.

Rams Named To All-Conference Football Squad

Four senior members of the Southern High School varsity football team were named to the All-Potomac Valley Conference first team as a result of their outstanding performances during the 1996 season. Selected were: Seth Tressler at defensive end, Aaron Newcomb at fullback, Shawn Durst at offensive tackle, and Howard Crosco at linebacker.

Tressler, 6-2, 257, who is being courted by numerous Division 1 universities, led the Rams in tackles with 30 unassisted and 43 assisted in 10 games. He was also the punter for the Rams and finished this season with an average of over 36 yards per punt.

Newcomb (5-11, 198) was one of the area's most productive running backs, as he finished with 1,367 yards for a per-game average of just under 137 yards. His yardage came on 194 carries, to give him an average of over seven yards per attempt. He scored 16 touchdowns and one two-point conversion. He had two pass receptions and also led the team in kickoff returns with 113 yards on six carries. As a linebacker he recorded eight unassisted tackles and 20 assisted.

Durst (5-10, 263) was responsible for providing much of the daylight for Newcomb and the other Southern running backs from his offensive tackle spot, and also excelled on the defensive line for the Rams, where he recorded a total of 28 assisted/unassisted tackles. He also had a pair of fumble recoveries.

Crosco (5-8 171) was second on the team in tackles from his linebacker position, with 23 unassisted hits and 35 assisted. He also had two fumble recoveries. As a running back on offense, Crosco scored seven touchdowns and three two-point conversions, was second on the team in total yards with 575 on 95 carries (6.05 per attempt), and had two pass receptions for a total of 68 yards.

Three other senior members of the team were selected for All-PVC Honorable Mention honors: Tim Jellreys at center, Joel Uphold at running back, and Scot Schroyer at linebacker.

Jellreys (5-11, 202) was rated the area's best center by a number of opposing teams' coaches, and also excelled on the Ram defense as he recorded a total of 28 assisted and unassisted tackles.

Uphold (5-9, 166) scored a pair of touchdowns and five two-point conversions this season and rushed for 226 yards on 45 carries for a five-plus yards-per-carry average. He also led the team in pass receptions with five, returned three kickoffs for a total of 57 yards, and returned two punts for 23 yards. Defensively, from his secondary position, he recorded a dozen unassisted tackles and was in on 12 others. He also had one interception.

Only Seth Tressler had more tackles this season than Scot Schroyer (6-2, 164), who recorded 19 un-

Sport Celebration Slated Dec. 8 At Southern High

The Southern High School Athletic Department will host a Fall Sports Celebration on Sunday, Dec. 8, at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Mrs. Lynn Bell, principal, and Tom Woods, athletic director, will welcome all fall coaches and spouses, along with volunteers selected by the coaches for special recognition. In addition, all fall athletes who achieved an 87.5% grade point average during first term will be honored with Minds in Motion certificates.

Woods said the intention is to make this a tradition at the end of each of the three sports seasons, adding that Southern annually has scores of volunteers who help all sports programs in a variety of ways. This fall approximately 50 volunteers will receive certificates acknowledging their efforts.

Approximately 60 athletes and cheerleaders will also be honored for their outstanding academic achievements.

SGAA Changes Meeting Night

In an effort to better accommodate the schedules of its members, the Southern Garrett Athletic Association has changed its regular meeting night to the second Monday of each month. The meetings will be conducted in the Southern High School cafeteria at 7 p.m.

The next regular meeting will be Monday, Dec. 9. All members are encouraged to attend.

assisted and participated in 38 others.

All of the PVC honorees will receive certificates at Southern's Fall Sports Celebration, slated for Dec. 8.

As a team, the Rams finished in a three-way tie with Musselman and Keyser for the PVC title. Each of the three had identical conference records and were even against each other, as Southern defeated Keyser, Musselman defeated Southern, and Keyser defeated Musselman.

Honors Schools

point out that the award is indicative of much more than just what goes on inside the walls of his school. "This is not a one-school thing," he said. "People at all levels of our county system have spent a great deal of time and effort on school improvement. The elementary schools that feed students into our school are also obviously doing an excellent job."

Rickman said that he does not yet know how the school will use the extra funds. "We will sit down with our School Improvement Team and decide together how best to use the money," he said. "One possibility would in the area of technology, such as for new computers to replace what is in our lab now. But that's just one of many possible projects."

"These schools are Exhibit A in our ongoing drive to improve instruction in Maryland -- and thereby improve results for our students," said Governor Glendening.

Sponsored by Governor Glendening and the Maryland State Department of Education, the event was hosted by State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick and State Board of Education President Christopher T. Cross.

"Each one of these schools should be proud of their accomplishment and willing to build on their performance in the future," said Dr. Grasmick. "Through these recognitions, and the additional funding they carry, all schools should be encouraged to strive even harder for better performance for each and every child."

Approved by the Maryland General Assembly earlier this year, the award program was among the governor's five original education priorities. The Governor committed $2.75 million in his budget to reward schools that had achieved two consecutive years of substantial MSPAP improvement. Grant amounts were based on whether the school was an elementary or middle school and other factors such as enrollment.

Across the state, 69 elementary schools will split more than $1.7 million in grant awards, while another 33 middle schools will divide the remaining $1 million. Another 260 elementary schools and 61 middle schools were recognized with certificates for posting significant gains on the MSPAP over a one-year period.

"Garrett County should be proud of the teachers and principals who make their schools true success stories," said Governor Glendening. "This moment underscores the value of communities and schools coming together for the benefit of our children in Maryland."

The awards were distributed during a "surprise" ceremony at Martin's Crosswinds in Greenbelt during which time recipients believed they were attending a conference on school reform issues.

Governor Glendening acknowledged the work of the state's legislators and of Karl Pence, president of the Maryland State Teachers Association, in bringing about the new program. "Karl has been an inspiration and a battler for those who, along with the children, are most affected by this new initiative -- the teachers," Glendening said. "He deserves our thanks and gratitude for helping to place attention on those who do so well."

The awards have been designed to become an annual event in Maryland.

Create Quilt

written by Hicks.

The panel is now in the hands of Garrett County AIDS Council member Joanne Harsh, who has gathered volunteers at the southern end of the county to quilt the piece. Quilters will complete work on the panel at Garrett Community College's Bausch & Lomb art gallery during the Council's Open Heart program on Saturday, December 7, at 7:30 p.m. This program of education through song, dance, and the spoken word, funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council, is free and open to the public.

"The local quilters will be working on the panel during the intermission of the program, allowing the public to visit the gallery, take a look at the Garrett County panel, and talk with the volunteers," explained Joelle Plauger, Garrett County AIDS Council member. "While visitors are in the gallery, they will also be able to see several panels from the AIDS Memorial Quilt on display and put their names and messages on a signature panel to be sent along with our local piece."

Local quilters are still needed to complete this project. Anyone interested in helping with the Garrett County panel should contact Open Heart chairperson, Eileen Schlosnagle, at 301-746-8917.

WAYS TO STOP YOUR BEAGLE FROM FOLLOWING DEER TRAILS

When a beagle takes a liking to deer scent and follows it rather than rabbit, the owner has a perplexing problem. Noted outdoor journalist Nick Sisley offers two possibilities in solving this problem. One employs a collar with a scent pad. This scent pad is soaked with deer scent and masks any other deer scent that the dog is going to find in the field. Hopefully, the removal of the distraction will keep his mind on rabbits.

Another solution, and probably the more effective one, is to use an electric collar. Take the dog into the field when the probability of seeing deer and picking up scent is high. When the dog goes for the deer, activate the collar. After a couple of times, the problem should be solved.

ANOTHER SQUIRREL HUNTER'S TREAT

While talking to Nick about the dog problem, the conversation drifted to squirrel recipes. Nick suggests that the backstrap be filleted from the dressed squirrel and fried in butter. He claims that this is a delicacy that has to be experienced to be believed. There isn't much meat here so you'll need maybe six or seven squirrels to satisfy two people. He made it sound so good, I can't wait to try it myself.

GETTING AN EARLY START TYING FLIES

Two young Garrett County men have really started tying flies at a young age. Brothers Kenny (10) and Josh (8) Noland have successfully produced streamers, wooly buggers in this their first year at it. I recently saw some of their work while visiting Spring Creek Outfitters and was quite impressed.

MUZZLELOADER SEASON TALLY

According to game checking stations across the state, Maryland hunters tagged 3,851 deer during the recent three-day muzzleloader season. This total is down from last year's 4,589 total. Most sources blame unfavorable weather for the reduced total.

AMERICA'S MOST DANGEROUS GAME

While reading Bob D'Angelo's column "In The Wind" in PA Game News, I noted an interesting statistic on the deadliest animal in the United States. If you thought bears, cougars, or rattlesnakes might lead the pack, you're dead wrong. Indeed, our most dangerous animal is the white-tailed deer. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, deer related fatalities average 130 per year. Second most animal-caused deaths are bee stings. Interestingly, elephants, goats, and jellyfish, on the average, cause more deaths than do bears, cougars, water moccasins, or copperheads.

In the same material from Bob D'Angelo, he relates that coyotes are now classified as a furbearing animal in Maryland. This means that it is legal to buy and sell the pelt or carcass. Coyotes can now be hunted year-round and trapping seasons have been established on a county-by-county basis.

Railey House To Be On ARC Holiday Tour

The Deep Creek Lake home of Bob and Vava Railey will be among those houses featured in the fifth annual Home for the Holidays House Tours, an event sponsored by the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Participants will be touring four homes and one historic inn/restaurant in this fund-raiser, which will be held on Friday, Dec. 6, 4-9 p.m.; and Saturday, Dec. 7, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The Railey home is located on Mayhew Inn Road, about two miles past the Red Run Lodge. The house, situated on a lot fronting Deep Creek Lake, was built in 1989. The foyer opens in a large living area with a lake view. The master bedroom, dining room, and a "cook's delight" kitchen are all on one level, with two separate powder rooms.

Upstairs are four bedrooms with two full baths. A "male heaven" can be found in the upper level of the garage, where there are a pool table, television, and various games. Also displayed in this room are military career memorabilia. Views of the lake and the surrounding area predominate this setting.

"Offering the charm of yesteryear while situated in a more modern architecture, comfort abounds in every room," a spokesperson said.

HOME OF BOB AND VAVA RAILEY TO BE ON RED CROSS HOLIDAY TOUR

Tickets for the tours, which are priced at $5 per person for all five homes, are on sale at area pharmacies, at Flowers by Webers, and at Goehringer's Country Restaurant.

Proceeds from the tours will remain in Garrett County to help the local Red Cross chapter meet the emergency needs of local disaster victims. The organization often helps residents in these situations by offering emergency shelter, food, and clothing.

Accident Gets New Postmaster

There is a new face behind the counter in the Accident Post Office. Joan E. Manahan took over the job of the postmaster in October.

Though new to the Accident post office, Manahan has 32 years of experience in the postal system. She served as Postmaster in Taneytown for 10 years prior to coming to Accident.

Starting her post office career in 1964, Manahan said she has had opportunities to work in Rocky Ridge, Thurmont, and Mount Airy in a variety of jobs. She has held the positions of clerk, city carrier, and supervisor.

Speaking of the change of location, Manahan said, "The pace is slower here. I love the community. It has been quite a change."

She has found the people of her new community and her co-workers to be very friendly and helpful, she said. "Everyone is so nice," she added.

Manahan lives in Accident, and her husband Cyrus will be retiring and moving to Garrett County full-time very soon.

all, whether in public or private stations, to perform our several and relative duties properly and punctually; to render our National Government a blessing to all the people by constantly being a Government of wise, just, and constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed; to protect and guide all sovereigns and nations (especially such as have shown kindness unto us); and to bless them with good governments, peace, and concord; to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the increase of science among them and us; and, generally to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as He alone knows to be best.

GIVEN under my hand, at the city of New-York, the third day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine.
(signed) G. Washington

To the Editor:

They say time flies when you are having fun. Well, that certainly is true for me as I have watched my son play football for the Southern Rams. There are so many individuals whom I feel compelled to thank that it is difficult to know where to begin. I would first like to express my sincere gratitude to the Rams' assistant coaches, namely Tom Bosley, Jay Stewart, Fred Gregg, Dave Bosley, Scott Harvey, and Mike Wilburn. The countless hours that these individuals invest in reviewing game films, scouting opponents, as well as coaching, certainly is one big reason that the Rams are so successful. Secondly, I would like to thank Dr Dan Miller for volunteering his valuable time and knowledge in making certain that tough players, playing a tough game, receive the best medical treatment possible.

I would like to say a special "thank you" to the players who, in every game, gave their all. Their never-give-up attitude was indeed an inspiration to all who witnessed it. We observed Nathan suffer a serious knee injury, only to return later in the season, although most doctors thought it to be impossible. We watched as Howie, Aaron, Scott and Seth took and gave hits that would have simply devastated most of us, only to get up and do the same thing on the next play. I watched my own son suffer a dislocation in the Musselman game, only to reset it himself on the field so he could remain in the game.

Space just won't allow me to recognize all of the players. I want you all to know that you are respected and admired by me and I'm sure most of the Garrett County community. I really don't know what the future holds for each of you. I do know that if each of you attacks life with the same vigor and enthusiasm shown your opposition, you will be successful!

Last, but certainly not least, I would like to thank coach Tom Woods. It has been a pleasure, as a parent, to have my son play for a man with such character and compassion. I have watched Coach Woods over the last four years be as tough as a drill sergeant during practices, but then hear his voice crack with emotion as he told a group of young men how proud he was of them after the game. I don't intend to bore the readers with personal memories, but this one I think best describes the players' attitude toward Coach Woods. On the night prior to the Fort Hill-Southern game, my son asked me what I thought Southern's chances were. I bluntly told him that Fort Hill was exceptionally talented this year and that it would be extremely difficult to win. I then asked him what he thought. He explained that Coach Woods had told them that if they played hard and kept the score low, we would win. Having an ever pessimistic attitude, I then explained that the coach was probably saying this to keep spirits high. To this my son replied, "No, Dad, Coach Woods said we could win, and he never lies to us!" Well, needless to say, the rest is history. I ate humble pie for a week and the Rams celebrated one of the school's biggest victories.

To conclude, I would like to wish next year's Rams good luck, and to those teams who have the courage to play us (which by the way excludes Westmar). You won't have to search for a tough, well-coached, hard-hitting team to play; it will be right in front of you.!

Respectfully,
Randy Durst

To the Editor:

I know all the folks at the State Highway Administration work very hard all winter and have always done an excellent job, in my opinion, of keeping our roads open in some very difficult conditions over the years, and this letter is not intended as criticism of them in any way.

Having said that, and as we begin another winter season, I wonder - should we be concerned about the way our state highways here in Garrett County are being treated with salt or other chemicals these days? With no more snow than we had the other week our roads were chalky white already. Up until a few years ago we seldom saw these chemical residues and never close to what is left on the roads now. It seems the "mix" that is being used nowadays has much more melting power and less abrasives than it used to.

My point is, could this "bare roads" policy backfire in years to come? Remember, our winter weather, unlike the rest of the State, sometimes requires that something be applied to our roads on an almost daily basis, and whatever that substance is, it has only one way to go, and that's down; down into the ditches and eventually into the streams and our groundwater.

Most of the people who live along these roads depend on wells or springs for their water. What would their property be worth if their sources became contaminated with these chemicals? Worse yet, how could it affect their health? Salt or other "melting agents" invading your water supply is not something to shrug off. Sometimes drilling another well, though expensive, could solve the problem, but there is no guarantee of that. Pollution can travel through an aquifer quite a distance over time, especially when the pollution continues over many years. Also most of the properties that could be affected by these substances have no access to some sort of alternative or community type water system.

For these reasons, I would encourage anyone who has a well or spring and lives along a state highway in Garrett County to have their water tested often, and if they are concerned about this issue to let their voice be heard.

Am I jumping to conclusions? Well maybe, but aren't we told these days that a person in Garrett County who uses a couple of gallons of used motor oil to help his brush pile burn or flushes out his car radiator without catching the coolant is polluting the Chesapeake Bay, which when I looked last was still 200 miles away? Shouldn't we be asking these questions now? Could we be setting up an environmental situation right here that if "fixable" at all, would be incredibly expensive to handle some years down the road, just so the tourists and anyone else can drive at top speed on "bare roads" all winter, even while the snow is still falling?

Sometimes, you know, "progress" comes with quite a price, and we don't always realize the final cost until it is too late.

To the Editor:

Urban cowboys must now face the law. At least in Ireland, where some 3,000 horses live outdoors and which for decades have provided under-privileged young people in Dublin's grimy public housing ghettos the opportunity to gallop bareback and shout with glee over sparse grass patches and scrubby fields. In areas where unemployment is as high as 90 percent and heroin addiction is rising, the horses are often the only joy for children, mostly boys.

In October the Irish Senate gave final approval to a proposal that grants local councils rights to prohibit children under 16 years of age from owning horses, and to confiscate horses living on public lands. The Dublin Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals says many of the horses are abused, emaciated, and diseased and that they are a public nuisance, trampling gardens, fouling soccer fields, and trotting out on busy roads.

Hunting Activity Leads To Arrests Of Three Men

Three brothers from Brunswick were arrested in Kempton on Nov. 23 for illegal hunting activity.

Natural Resources Police (NRP) Officer James Clise and W.Va. Conservation Officers Chris McKnight and Harold Spencer found a deer hanging at the Kempton hunting camp of Mark, Brad and Donald Minnick.

Mark A. Minnick, 28, was charged by Maryland NRP Clise for being in possession of an illegal deer during closed season, for which the fine is $520. Other Maryland charges are pending.

Brad A. Minnick, 24, was charged by W.Va. Conservation Officers McKnight and Spencer for two counts of failure to check in deer before removing it from county or state. Each count carries up to a $300 fine. He was also charged with attempting to exceed the bag limit.

The W.Va. Conservation officers charged Donald L. Minnick, 29, with failure to check in deer before removing it from county or state.

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information into a theft at the China Wok restaurant in Oakland.

Sometime between June 21 at 10:30 p.m. and June 22 at 9:45 a.m., an unidentified individual entered the restaurant and took $1,000 in cash, a telephone, assorted cooking wines and salts, ginseng, 300 pounds of shrimp, and 50 pounds of scallops. The total loss is $2,970.

Persons who have information about this or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor do they have to appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Task Force

Taylor reported.

Evelyn Fisher of the Maryland Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) addressed the group, stating that MEMA's first priority is getting people out of the danger zone. If that is not an option, then elevation or renovation (flood proofing) is the next option. In order to receive funding help from the Federal Hazard Mitigation Program, a county must be declared a disaster area, which, Fisher noted, has happened in Garrett County.

Brad Frantz, director of the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management, was the first to speak and provided a broad overview of the trouble spots in Garrett County. He said the county has had three federal declarations of disaster in the past year, and five in the past three years. Before that, Frantz said, there had been no disaster declarations since 1985.

The rivers that have flooded in Garrett County and caused damage are the Youghiogheny, the Savage, and the Potomac. Towns that have experienced damage include Shallmar (Potomac), Friendsville and Crellin (Youghiogheny), and the Savage River area. Frantz said the past winter with the 205 inches of snow had caused great problems because of the melt-off, in addition to hard, frequent rains.

In offering ideas for solutions, Frantz emphasized that he is "not an expert" in flood mitigation, and that his role as director of the emergency management office is to work toward reducing the loss of life and property.

"Unfortunately, we are more reactive than proactive in disaster situations," he said. "I truly feel we must emphasize an ongoing mitigation program with long-term solutions."

This sentiment was echoed by several persons who spoke at the meeting, with much emphasis being placed on preventative measures and on the changes in land use, especially in West Virginia.

"Mother nature is not the problem here," said Shallmar resident Ronald Rowan, who stressed that the town of Shallmar stood unscathed from flooding for nearly 80 years. "It doesn't take a brain surgeon to figure it out: strip mining, deep mining, and clear cutting in our neighbor state West Virginia is causing a great problem." He claimed that the state has eased up on land use permits over recent years, which has resulted in a surge of strip mining. Rowan also noted that the CSX Railroad regularly dumps debris into the river above Shallmar, making the water level rise even more. This subject has been brought up at several related meetings, although no clear answers have been given about the alleged dumping.

"I was extremely disappointed to see that a member of this Task Force is a representative of CSX," Rowan added. He expressed his pessimism with the entire effort, noting that the "private sector" is not represented on the Force. He felt if the group is to be successful at all, members must rise above "turf-protection mentality" and that "non-sensical regulations" need to be set aside.

Other speakers were less cynical about the effort and simply asked the members to help. While the chairman stated at the outset that dredging rivers and building flood walls are not good solutions, some speakers ask that the walls be built. Bill Ferry, a resident of Shallmar, noted that a flood wall was built by the Army Corps of Engineers in Kitzmiller in 1958, and that significant flooding has been averted there since that time.

"If the walls are installed properly, they do work," Ferry said.

Michael Mudge, director of the United Community Services, Inc., in Crellin, addressed the Task Force in regard to a project that would elevate 26 town homes that are close to the river. The project came very close to receiving federal funding, but was cut in the final budget plan. In the interest of preserving a historical sight, Mudge pleaded with the Task Force to put the Crellin project "high on the list" and to help the town find alternate funding for the plan.

Spencer Schlosnagle, mayor of Friendsville, told the members that the town was hit hard by flooding in January. Approximately 25 homes were damaged, some with two to three feet of water. The water plant continues to be sandbagged, the mayor reported, in the event the river rises again, and the elementary school is also in an area of potential flooding danger. He pledged to work with the task force and commended the townspeople for their efforts.

"We're a small town, but everyone's always willing to help," Schlosnagle said.

Garrett County Commissioners John Braskey and Roger Glotfelty also spoke, with both men expressing the hope that the Task Force would be an active body and would rapidly pursue solutions. Glotfelty also echoed the idea that connections need to be made with West Virginia to address the problem of large scale timbering, stripping, and mining, because of the ill-effect it has on Garrett County. They and most all who spoke also thanked the members for holding the meeting in Garrett County, as such sessions often take place off the mountaintop.

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain said the damages to Oakland from flooding "are minor compared to these other towns." He said the other areas were in much more need than Oakland and that they should receive the bulk of any benefits to be given.

The meeting was slated to last from 1 p.m. until 4, but was ended at about 2:45 as the speakers finished and no other questions were asked. The Task Force went on to Frostburg State University for the final public hearing in a series of four.

The interim report is to be completed in mid-December, at which time information will be released.

Letters

Therese Cunningham, director of the Dublin SPCA for 25 years, says the movies which showed horses in the Ballymun complex on Dublin's north side glamorized the situation which exists in no other city in Ireland or Europe. "It's a macho thing -- a small boy in charge of a large and powerful animal. They want to imitate Clint Eastwood." While most families of young horse owners survive on modest welfare payments, Ms. Cunningham says they pay as much as $500 for the animals. "It's not that I'm against children having horses. These poor kids will never have a job. But there's got to be a controlled environment where they're treated properly."

"It keeps me out of trouble," said Niall Quinn, a 16-year old high-school dropout. "If you take away the horses, the kids are going to wind up on drugs." Vicky McElligott, a Ballymun resident, is an eloquent defender of the local horse culture. For 14 months she has been running a stable converted from a pub for 23 horses and ponies.

President Mary Robinson is expected to sign the proposal taking effect at the end of the year after many children in public housing have received horses and ponies for Christmas. Ms. McElligott says, "The upper classes have their horses in stables. They visit them once a week. Somebody else does the dirty work. These people resent us. We're diggin' in our heels for a showdown at the Ballymun corral."

To the Editor:

Whatever happened to all the good, honest, truthful people of Garrett County? What is happening to our town? Maybe people in this county should start asking questions, and not sit back and let things go on and on.

We feel the cases against the deputies in the county are pure nonsense. The case against Deputy Jeff Murphy was not fair and surely questionable. Look at the charge; does the punishment fit the charge? We think not.

We know Jeff and his family can sleep at night knowing the truth. How about the untruthful people involved? Maybe you should perk a pot of coffee. Good luck!

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Murphy
Mtn. Lake Park

To the Editor:

Isn't this the time to begin again to respect one another simply because we are all God's children? It seems like we have reached a record low in remembering that we are, each of us, just one of the kids, no more and no less.

Sincerely,
Ina Hicks

To the Editor:

I do not use tobacco or alcohol, and I approve of any measure that will reduce the consumption of either, but I am surprised that you are "ecstatic" over Gov. Glendining's proposed cigarette tax increase "as a deterrent to this deadly habit" (Editorial 11/21/96), when just a few weeks earlier you were in favor of Sunday alcohol sales. I guess I just didn't realize tobacco is that much more dangerous than alcohol. Dumb me!

Glenn A. Forman
Oakland

Dear Mr. Forman,

Every single cigarette that is smoked is harmful, not only to the smoker, but also to anyone else who happens to be in the company of the smoker. The same absolutely cannot be said about a glass of wine or beer.

Mothers Against Drunk Driving Give Maryland Grade Of B+

Maryland earned a "B+" in the battle against drunk driving, according to a survey released this week by Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), Advocates for Highway and Auto Safety, and Nationwide Insurance. The 1996 Rating the States survey evaluated each state's efforts to tackle drunk driving -- the nation's most frequently committed violent crime, allocating the nation an overall grade of "C."

More than half of the state's grade is based on two categories: data from the federal Fatal Accident Reporting System (FARS) (30 percent) and legislation (30 percent). The emphasis on these categories reflects the priority MADD puts on anti-drunk driving laws with a bottom line measure of a state's performance: reducing the number of people killed and injured in alcohol-related crashes.

Ten percent of the grade is based on law enforcement and six percent is based on victim issues. The remaining categories accounted for between three and five percent of the state's grade.

"We're proud of the high marks that Maryland received, but this is by no means a signal to ease up on our efforts," Svend Thomas, chairman of MADD MD, explained, "The safety of the driving public is threatened by a complacent attitude toward drunk driving. Unfortunately, higher grades do not equal perfect safety on our highways. We still kill 230+ lives yearly through impaired driving on Maryland's highways. Yet, these alcohol related deaths don't get 1/100th the news generated by Valujet and TWA air crashes. The B+ shows we are headed in the right direction. Our goal? 0 deaths and 0 injuries."

Svend Thomas reiterated that MADD's legislative goals have not been met even though Maryland scored well in the survey. He said, "MADD will be working to initiate, or support, several bills in the next legislative session, which begins on Jan. 8. The primary initiative will be increasing the classification in fatal crashes. Why? Because killing someone with a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol or drugs is only a misdemeanor." Accordingly, MADD MD will pursue an active legislative agenda, starting with upgrading the classification of vehicular manslaughter to a felony. Additionally, MADD will be supporting graduated licensing for youthful drivers, primary enforcement for safety belts, and a statewide open container law.

Results of the national Rating the States survey were unveiled during a news conference in Washington, D.C. This is the third time MADD has conducted the survey. MADD surveyed the nation for the first time in 1991 and again in 1993, when Maryland received a B. States did not receive individual letter grades in the 1991 survey.

MADD emphasized that alcohol-related traffic deaths increased in 1995 across the nation for the first time in a decade. Surveys like Rating the States, the group says, can help recapture the nation's attention to this crime which claimed 17,274 lives and injured nearly one million others last year. In Maryland, 238 people were killed and 7,767 others were injured in alcohol-related traffic crashes in 1995.

The 1996 Rating the States questionnaire was mailed to each MADD state organization, who completed the survey with information provided by appropriate state governmental agencies. After evaluating the data from each state survey, a panel of individuals known for their expertise and involvement in highway safety completed the state report cards by assigning letter grades for each category and for the state overall.

MADD's co-sponsors for the Rating the States survey were Advocates for Highway and Auto Safety and Nationwide Insurance. Advocates co-sponsored the two previous surveys in 1991 and 1993. Nationwide Insurance has sponsored MADD's National Sobriety Checkpoint Week program for five years.

To receive a complete copy of the 1996 Rating the States survey, persons may contact the Public Policy Department at the MADD National Office at (214) 744-6233.

Spruce Forest Planning Annual Village Christmas

The eleventh annual Christmas in the Village will be held on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 6-7, at Spruce Forest Artisan village in Grantsville. The village is located between the historic Casselman Bridge, built in 1813, and Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, a former stagecoach stop built in 1818 along the Old National Road.

The festival will be held on Friday from 4-8 p.m. and on Saturday from noon-8 p.m. Visitors may take a candlelight stroll through the village, stopping in one or all of the fourteen historic buildings on the campus. These buildings include the log cabin Village Office, built in 1991 of 150-year-old-logs; Schrock Cabin (1930); Markley House (1775); Bear Hill School (1913); Glotfelty House (1776); Winterberg House (1820); Miller House (1835); Compton School (1810); Red Shed, built on the site of the National Pike Blacksmith Shop; Village Church (1903); Eli Miller House (1889).

All of these log cabins, plank houses, schools and the church are original buildings, relocated to Spruce Forest and preserved for all to enjoy.

During Christmas in the Village volunteer hosts will serve complimentary refreshments in the buildings. Artisans on site to demonstrate crafts will be Susan Holt, quilter; Bonnie Frederick, watercolor artist and calligrapher; Lynn Lais, potter; Ann Jones, weaver; John Daugherty, soap maker; Josy Best, blacksmith; Meriam Brode, basket weaver; Jim and Mary Ann Cummings, stained glass. The Cummings family, a new addition to Spruce Forest, will become seasonal artisans next May-October at the village in the Red Shed.

Pathways through the village will be lighted and cabins will be decorated. Visitors will be encouraged to vote for their favorite cabin decoration by stopping in the Village Office.

Other highlights include a live nativity performance each evening at 7 p.m. by the Oak Grove Mennonite Church, under the direction of Barry Beal; cookie art and Christmas stories for children in the Compton School; Christmas caroling throughout the village at various times; hot mulled cider in the Miller House; and hot chocolate and party mix in the Village Office.

Admission to the festival is free.

Featured this year in the Great Concert Hall at Penn Alps on Friday evening at 7 p.m. will be St. John's United Church of Christ Bell Choir, under the direction of Patty Zimmerman. Saturday the Bell choir will play at 5:30 p.m., and at 7 p.m. the Grantsville Community Chorus will perform a Christmas cantata, "King Jesus is His Name," directed by Gloria Martin and accompanied by Patty Zimmerman. There will be no admission charged for these performances, but a freewill offering will be collected to assist with the restoration of the Village Church.

This event is sponsored in part by the Maryland State Arts and Garrett County Arts Council. Anyone wishing information on volunteer opportunities with this festival or with other Spruce Forest activities throughout the year may call village administrator Trish Morgan at 301-895-3332.

"Woman's World" Workshop Set At McHenry Campus

A special workshop focusing on self-directed careers for women in Garrett County will be presented at Garrett Community College on Monday, December 9. The program will begin at 1 p.m. in Room 307 of the Continuing Education Building. The workshop is free and open to the public.

Women who work in a wide variety of jobs will share their stories. Each of the speakers will tell how she chose a career, what educational and personal challenges she met in achieving that career, and the rewards and demands of her current job. Presenters will include Catherine Zimmerman, C.P.A, a small business owner; Cathy Clocker, sales manager for WKHJ Radio; Elizabeth Huxford, civil engineer and Stirling Educational Consultant for Discovery Toys; Marie Mallin, chemical engineer for U. S. Department of Energy at the Morgantown Energy Technology Center; and others.

"More women than ever before find themselves as either a single head of the family or the main wage earner. Understanding what a job may do for a woman in Garrett County is essential before commitment to the time, money, and personal effort demanded to achieve that marketable skill is made. The guest speakers will share what they have learned about these commitments in their personal career paths," stated a program spokesperson.

The workshop is sponsored by the New Dimensions Program, the New Horizons Program, and The Caring Connection Program of Garrett Community College under the direction of Barbara Frey. For additional information or to register, interested persons may contact Barbara at 387-3071 or Virginia Jeffrey, Intake/Counselor Specialist for the New Dimensions and The Caring Connection programs, at 387- 3103.

The New Horizons program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the New Horizons Program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is approximately 90% of the total program budget, with GCC contributing an additional $5,300 which is approximately 10% of the total budget. The Caring Connection is 100% funded by the Maryland State Department of Education in the amount of $20,000. The New Dimensions Program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources.

MCCLIVE'S RESTAURANT, Deep Creek Lake, owned and operated by Doug McClive, was recently awarded the Fine Dining Establishment rating by the national office of Menu Mate Inc., a regional restaurant research and public relations firm. The award of Fine Dining Establishment is given for excellence in sorvice, quality of product, and service to the community. This honor is bestowed on only the best restaurants serviced by Menu Mate Inc. Above, McClive, left, accepts the award from John T. McClintock, Menu Mate representative.

DSS Announces Availability of Day Care Funds

The Maryland Department of Human Resources recently increased local funding to help qualified families with day care costs for children under 13 years old, according to Tom Rosser, assistant director of the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

Eligibility is determined based on gross family income and the amount of payment is based on a sliding scale. A family of four with gross yearly income of $10,958 or less could receive full subsidy. The same family's gross yearly income would have to exceed $21,915 before they would be ineligible for any help with their day care expenses.

"Increased funding will allow us to serve families that we had to turn down in the past," Rosser said.

Interested persons can call the Garrett County Department of Social Services at 334-9461 for further information.

LET US GIVE THANKS...

Once again Thanksgiving draws near. It is a reminder of the first event alter the Pilgrims survived the bleak and hitter cold of their winter in New England. It is a scene made famous in that familiar painting of a Pilgrim family, dressed in their stiff starched clothes and conical hats, heing safely guarded by the father with his huge blunderbuss as they trudged through the snow to attend church...to give thanks.

In the spirit of that past Thanksgiving as we gather together to celebrate the many blessings to be shared with our family and friends, let us all offer a prayer of grace for a happy harvest of joys past, present, and future.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TOUCHED BY AN ANGEL
December 1, 1996

Background Scripture:
Luke 1:5-25, 57-80
Devotional Reading:
Luke 1:18-24

Angels are "in" right now, as far as the publishing market is concerned. A few years ago when the first angels books began to appear in the stores, I would never have dreamed there would be so many different titles and this much public interest. Nor would I have thought that the current popular CBS television series, "Touched By An Angel," would be so popular. Lots of people seem very open to these heavenly "Messengers" from God.

The story of the birth of Jesus begins when Zechariah is touched by an angel while he is serving his turn as priest in the temple. We do not know much about Zechariah, except that his priesthood is in the division of Abijah and he is married to Elizabeth, a woman from the priestly family of Aaron. So, they both came from priestly families and they both were righteous, living exemplary lives.

But righteousness was not enough. Something was greatly missing from their lives: "but they had no child, because Elizabeth was barren, and both were advanced in years" (1:7). In biblical times, barrenness was regarded as a divine reproach and sterility was always blamed on the woman! Zechariah and Elizabeth apparently had become used to living with the pain of reproach. (What is it that you have had to become used to in your life?)

HE WAS TROUBLED

Maybe that is why Zechariah, instead of rejoicing, "Was troubled when he saw him, and fear fell upon him" (1:12). Despite years of praying, Zechariah seems unprepared to believe that his prayer will be answered, but the angel's message is very clear: (1) don't be afraid; (2) your prayer has been heard (in fact, Zechariah's name means "the Lord has remembered"); and (3) Elizabeth will bear a son.

But Zechariah is hesitant: "How shall I know this? For I am an old man, and my wife is advanced in years" (1:18). Don't be too hard on Zechariah for his disbelief. I'm glad he was honest enough to express his sincere doubts. How positively would you respond if this was happening to you?

We can't help wondering why had God waited so long to respond to their prayers? The answer, I believe, is that now their prayer and God's purpose finally intersected. They wanted a child and God needed someone to "turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just, to make ready for the Lord a people prepared" (1:14-17).

CLOSE TO GOD

The angel identifies himself: "I am Gabriel, who stands in the presence of God; and I was sent to speak to you, and to bring you this good news." Gabriel is close to God and he shows us that those who are closest to God know that the message of God is always "good news." Those who make the gospel "bad news" must not be very close to God.

But Zechariah, though he was highly born, a priest and had lived a righteous life, was not convinced and Gabriel tells him: "And behold, you will be silent and unable to speak until the day that these things come to pass, because you did not believe my words..." (1:20). Can you imagine a worse penalty for a clergyman than being told he could not speak!

But the story ends well. On the eighth day after the child's birth, the people come for his circumcision and assume that he shall be named after his father, Zechariah. But Elizabeth says, "Not so; he shall be called John" ("God is gracious"). Ignoring her, they inquire of Zechariah and on a tablet he writes: "His name is John." Immediately, he regains his power of speech!

Zechariah's doubting spirit has been replaced by the Holy Spirit.

Forget It and Ignore It!!!

This is the wisest rule to follow whenever a well-meaning friend or relative - who does not have a medical degree - offers you some "advice" on how to treat an illness without having to bother calling a doctor. Such advice is almost always incorrect, even though it is offered with the best of intentions.

By heeding a friend's "medical advice" and not going to a doctor, you could lose much valuable time in getting the proper treatment for your condition. Today's doctors spend many years in medical school and in internships before they become qualified to practice medicine. And unless your friend has had identical training and experience, you should forget and ignore his advice and contact a doctor instead.

COVER STORY

Charming cast delivers an unexpected delight

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Noah Fleiss

A cast of charming actors and a sensitive but unsentimental teleplay add up to a welcome holiday surprise in an unexpected family, a USA Network original movie premiering Wednesday, Dec. 4.

Former Oscar™ nominee Stockard Channing (Six Degrees of Separation) stars with Stephen Collins (7th Heaven) and Christine Ebersole (Ink) in this comedy-drama about a driven New York career woman who finds herself unwillingly thrust into the role of surrogate mother.

As the story opens, Barbara Whitney (Channing) is rushing to get ready for a blind date when she gets an unexpected visit from her younger sister, Ruth (Ebersole). Although the two clearly do not get along well, Ruth asks Barbara to look after her children, Matt and Megan, for a few hours.

Barbara refuses, but as she leaves her apartment building she finds Matt (Noah Fleiss) and Megan (Chelsea Russo) sitting in Ruth's car with a note reading, "Back by 10. Love, Ruth."

The next day, Ruth calls Barbara to announce that she is flying to London. Barbara, along with the children and Sam (Collins), her widowed best friend, rushes to the airport to confront Ruth, who babbles that she is a terrible mother and the kids would be better off with Barbara. Ruth boards the plane without looking back.

As weeks turn into months, Barbara's grudging acceptance of the children slowly turns into affection, nurtured by Sam's open enthusiasm for this "unexpected family." Then, more than a year after she vanished, Ruth reappears to announce that she is taking back the children.

Screenwriter/producer Lee Rose (A Mother's Prayer) is on well-trodden ground here, with a basic premise that's familiar to anyone who has seen Kramer vs. Kramer or even Debbie Reynolds in My Six Loves. From the moment the handsome and conveniently available Sam murmurs to Barbara how sorry he is that he and his late wife never had children, we don't need a road map to see where this movie is going.

But Rose has a terrific ear for casual dialogue and, as performed by this winning cast under Larry Elikann's loose-limbed direction, big moments sneak up and catch us unaware.

In one scene, Matt asks Barbara why she gave up painting to take a museum job. She shrugs, gives a wry smile, and says, "Because there's this little voice inside your head that says, 'Hey! You're no good!' "

"Oh, yeah," Matt says matter-of-factly, "the same one my mom hears."

Of course, Rose is after bigger game here: she has a bone to pick with judges who reflexively award custody to a child's natural mother without adequately considering what's truly in that child's best interest. And Rose gets her message across with subtlety and finesse.

an unexpected family may be unconventional holiday fare, but that makes it no less welcome — and only a Grinch would say no to spending a couple of hours with Channing and company.

Feature film credits include The Doors, Born on the Fourth of July and Screamers.

Q: What has Peter Wingfield been in besides Highlander: The Series? Where can I write to him? –L.L. in Indiana.

A: Before playing Methos in Highlander, the Welsh actor (born in Cardiff) compiled an impressive list of TV credits in Great Britain. He made his debut in the critically acclaimed drama Antonia and Jane, then appeared in The Men's Room, Into the Fire, Without Walls and Nice Day at the Office. His feature film credits include Trust Me.

Write to Wingfield c/o Highlander: The Series, Rysher Entertainment, 3400 Riverside Drive, Suite 600, Burbank, Calif. 91505.

Q: Who provides the voice of Duckman on the USA Network? It sounds like Jason Alexander from Seinfeld. –John Mitchell, Middletown, N.Y.

A: You're absolutely right.

Q: I recently watched a Lois & Clark episode about Jimmy Olsen turning into an old man. I am just sure that the actor who played the older Jimmy is the same guy who used to play the Jimmy role in the old George Reeves TV series. Am I right? –Stephen Weld, Claremont, N.H.

A: You sure are, Stephen. Jack Larson, who played Jimmy on The Adventures of Superman more than 40 years ago, jumped at the chance to make this witty cameo.

Q: Please help me remember the name of an old Troy Donahue movie in which he married into a wealthy Inhaeco family. He fell in love with Connie Stevens. –Gloria Scholbe, Little Snamico, Wis.

A: That was Parrish, a 1961 drama also starring Claudette Colbert, Karl Malden and Diane McBain.

Q: What happened to JAG? –Sharon H., Linden, Mich.

A: It will be back as a mid-season replacement — on CBS, not NBC.

Q: Is Leeza Gibbons the daughter of Regis Philbin? –Karla Maschella, Altoona, Pa.

A: No, she isn't.

25 Days of Christmas: something for everyone

By Teresa Ortega

Christmas is a time for enjoying family traditions — whether that means singing carols, decking the halls or gathering around the TV to watch holiday programming.

This year, The Family Channel is making it easy to find your favorite seasonal shows with 25 Days of Christmas, a holiday viewing extravaganza that airs between four and 12 hours of Christmas programming every day beginning Sunday, Dec. 1, and continuing through Wednesday, Dec. 25.

"Christmas is for family," says Gus Lucas, senior vice president of programming for Family. "Families of all kinds can curl up in front of the fire and turn on The Family Channel, knowing they will find the magic of the season."

Headlining 25 Days of Christmas are original movies, musical events and animated specials.

Christmas Every Day, a comedy starring Erik Von Detten, premieres Sunday. Von Detten (Toy Story) plays a 13-year-old hum bug who wakes up to find that it's going to be Christmas every day of the year until he learns to appreciate the true meaning of the holiday.

Music lovers will want to tune in to Kenny Rogers: The Gift, airing Wednesday, Dec. 4. The country singer teams up with guest star Wynonna to perform songs from his new Christmas album.

And animation fans won't want to miss Aliens First Christmas, airing Sunday. The sci-fi comedy details the adjustment of a family relocated to a planet that doesn't observe the holiday.

With more than 170 hours of programming, there's bound to be something for everyone.

Sentence Passed On Oakland Man Convicted In Dist. Court Of Battery

An Oakland man was sentenced in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings after being found guilty in September of battery.

Robert A. Lewis, 22, convicted of that offense by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett, who had initially ordered a pre-sentence investigation, will serve a 90-day term in the Garrett County Jail. Originally sentenced to one year for the charge, all of the sentence was suspended by the judge except for 90 days.

Lewis was also placed on one year of supervised probation. Conditions of his probation state he must attend addictions counseling and obtain his General Education Development (GED) certificate.

The charges against Lewis, which had also included assault with intent to murder and malicious destruction, stemmed from an Aug. 7 incident when he assaulted his mother, Audrey M. Lewis, and had destroyed numerous household items during the altercation. Mrs. Lewis told the responding sheriff's deputies that her son had destroyed the property, choked her, and then ran into a wooded area. According to the charging statement, he was armed with a shotgun during the time he was in the woods.

In other district court news, a Friendsville woman was granted probation before judgment after pleading guilty to one count of giving a false statement to a police officer.

Shirley A. Frazee, 50, was placed on one day of probation for the offense which was filed by the Maryland State Police on Aug. 23. Frazee apparently told the authorities that someone had stolen her pickup truck from her driveway. An investigation revealed that the truck she described had struck a parked car on Interstate 68 and was then driven to the Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop where witnesses described a woman that fit Frazee's description as the one who was operating it. She apparently admitted to the police that she was the one driving the truck at the time of the accident, and was charged accordingly.

Barbara L. Coleman, 27, Kitzmiller, pleaded guilty in recent district court proceedings of one count of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). She was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail for the conviction, but all of the sentence was suspended except for two days. She was also fined $300 (suspended), and placed on one year of supervised probation for the offense. Conditions of her probation state she must complete 40 hours of community service by Feb. 1, 1997, and attend addictions counseling. One count of possession of CDS paraphernalia, also filed against Coleman, was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

The charges against Coleman and two co-defendants, Randall J. Frye, 26, Swanton, and Amy L. Whitacre, 22, Oakland, stemmed from a search and seizure warrant, conducted by officers from the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, that resulted in the confiscation of 1.7 grams of marijuana and assorted drug paraphernalia. The charges filed against Frye and Whitacre were placed on the stet docket, according to court records, but each was ordered to complete 20 hours of community service by Jan. 1, 1997. (When a case is placed on the stet docket, it means any of the charges filed against a defendant can be recalled in the next year if the court deems it necessary.)

Charges of possession of CDS paraphernalia with intent to use, and possession of CDS, filed against Deana L. Nolf, 28, Confluence, Pa., were placed on the stet docket. Conditions of her probation state she must complete 20 hours of community service by Dec. 15. The charges against Nolf stemmed from her March 24, 1995, arrest by officers from the Maryland State Police's drug enforcement division, after her vehicle was stopped and searched during a radar/drug interdiction program conducted on Rt. 219, near Accident.

James R. Short, 35, Dale City, Va., was convicted of one count of possession of CDS. He was ordered to serve two days of a 30-day jail term, fined $155, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation. Conditions of his probation state he must complete 30 hours of community service by Jan. 1, 1997. One count of possession of CDS paraphernalia, also filed against Short, was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charges against the defendant were filed on Aug. 11 by the Maryland State Police after troopers responded to the Casselman Inn, Grantsville, in reference to a report that marijuana had been found in one of the rooms there. Short and his family were apparently the last patrons to have occupied the room, and he admitted to ownership of the CDS.

Lawrence A. Keller, 35, Cumberland, was not prosecuted on one count each of violating a protective order, trespassing, and petty theft. The charges were filed on July 26 by Kathy S. Keller, Grantsville, who claimed the defendant removed property from her garage without her permission.

During a sentencing hearing for Joseph R. Wymer, 19, Accident, who was convicted in October of CDS possession, the judge handed him a 30-day jail term and suspended all but time already served. Wymer had been charged with the offense on Feb. 11 after his arrested by the Maryland State Police after they found a small quantity of marijuana and drug paraphernalia in his vehicle.

Charles M. Culp Jr., 34, Bayard, W.Va., was not prosecuted in district court on one count each of petty theft, malicious destruction of property, and fourth degree burglary. The charges against him stemmed from an Oct. 21, altercation with Artie Ellen Lantz, Oakland.

One count of assault, filed against Sandy DeWitt, 25, Accident, was placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision state she must have no contact with the complainant, Clyde DeWitt, Oakland. He filed the charge against the defendant after a June 27 altercation at his home.

In a related case, Marie DeWitt, 50, Oakland, two counts of assault filed against her were also placed on the stet docket. She was ordered to have no contact with the complainants, Brenda Dolan and Sandy DeWitt, both of Accident. The charges stemmed from the same altercation.

The Garrett County American Red Cross Blood Services has urged residents to donate at the bloodmobile which will visit Grantsville Fire Hall on Monday, Dec. 2 from 12:30-5 p.m.

Elizabeth Huxford, blood services co-chairman for the Garrett County Chapter of the Red Cross explained the ongoing need for blood. "Each and every day, holidays included, patients in our country need more than 20,000 people to donate blood. Every 10 seconds someone in our country needs a blood translusion," she said.

Blood is needed in emergency situations as well as in planned surgical procedures, and it is used both in and out of hospital settings, she added.

"An adequate, readily available supply must be on hand at all times. Because of the testing and screening required on every unit of donated blood, it's too late to recruit donors once an emergency happens. The Red Cross and hospitals must be prepared to respond to any and all patient blood needs every day of the year," Huxford emphasized.

To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Individuals can safely give blood every 56 days, Huxford explained.

Blood donation consists of registration; check of vital signs (temperature, pulse, blood pressure, and red blood cell level); a series of health history questions to help ensure that giving blood will be safe for donors and recipients; donation time and refreshments.

Individuals with questions about donor eligibility can call the Red Cross toll-free at 1-800-54BLOOD.

Local residents and patients are among those served through American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region, of which Garrett County is a part. The Johnstown Region directly serves hospitals, patients, and donors in a 63-county area in Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia, and also supports blood needs experienced by patients elsewhere in hospitals served through the American Red Cross Blood Services.

To further ease the blood donation process and maintain accurate donation records, Huxford said, the Red Cross encourages donors to bring their Red Cross donor cards, driver's license or other form of positive identification with them when they give blood.

Huxford concluded, "The need for blood is constant, and giving blood is giving the ultimate gift - life."

Hunter Safety Courses Slated

Savage River Complex will be holding Hunter Safety education classes for interested parties beginning in March (18, 20, and 22). DNR Headquarters is maintaining an interest file of potential students. Interested individuals should call the New Germany Office at (301) 895-5453 or 746-8359 to place their names on this file. They will then be contacted as dates for the classes are scheduled throughout the year.

Maryland law requires the successful completion of a Hunter Safety education class prior to the initial purchase of a hunting license.

Friendsville Man Named to State Railroad Council

A state-wide, 14-person Rail Advisory Council was appointed recently and includes David Thomas of Friendsville, the corporate affairs officer for Mettiki Coal Corporation.

Composed of business, industrial and community leaders, the council will advise Governor Parris N. Glendening and his interagency state merger team on issues facing Maryland, as a result of the proposed railroad merger between CSX Corp. and Conrail Inc., as well as Norfolk Southern Corp.'s counter offer for Conrail shareholders.

"The advisory team will provide us with insight into the potential impacts of the proposed rail merger," Glendening said. "We are going straight to the source to find out how a potential merger could affect Maryland businesses and communities. We have assembled an outstanding group that will evaluate all of the possible scenarios and advise us on how to protect our interests," he added.

Glimpse of The Past . . .

THE DEEP SOUTH was not the only place that parades by local Ku Klux Klan membera were prevalent, as this chilling photo taken in downtown Oakland on a Memorial Day in the 1920s attests. While there are no known violent acts committod by the Oakland KKK lodge members, it was evidently a well established organization for a number of years. Supposedly the local klan even made monetary donations to the "black" church that once stood near the Oakland Cemetery, obviously to help the congregation maintain its parish and, with it, its segregation from the "white" churches. This photo, taken by Bell Studios, is published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican.

Baccalaureate, Master's Nursing Degrees Available In Western Md.

Until the mid-1970's, neither baccalaureate nor graduate education in nursing was available in western Maryland. Any nurse who wanted to continue her or his education had to leave home and job. As a result, very few nurses were able to continue their educations.

Beginning in 1975, that all changed. Since that time, the University of Maryland School of Nursing has offered registered nurses the opportunity to earn a baccalaureate degree in nursing without leaving the area. In 1978, a small group of 13 registered nurses in Cumberland earned their baccalaureate nursing degree. Today, there are 254 BSN graduates of the program's Cumberland and Hagerstown sites. In 1996, classes began at a Garrett County site as well.

Initially, a grant from the Kellogg Foundation supported the program. In 1980, after grant support ended, the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) stepped in to provide tangible support in the form of office space and other services. The Western Maryland AHEC also mobilized political support for the program when its continuation was threatened. AHEC continues to provide support.

As the Nursing Outreach Program evolved, opportunities to earn graduate nursing degrees were added. Between 1981 and 1996, 67 nurses completed the master of science degree in Western Maryland. Gail Mazzocco, EdD, RN, coordinator of Western Maryland Nursing Outreach Programs, wants to remind those who have baccalaureate degrees that the graduate program continues to be offered regularly. "Some students may not realize that the Master of Science (MS) degree program from the School of Nursing is offered every year in Western Maryland. Interested individuals can complete all requirements for the MS degree in Nursing Education, Nursing Service Administration, or the MS/MBA, a dual degree in nursing and business administration, without traveling to the Baltimore campus," Mazzocco said.

Nurses who are interested in other nursing majors can also fulfill degree requirements through the MS Nursing Outreach Program. "All students can complete 12 credits common to all MS majors in Western Maryland. And, it is often possible to arrange for additional required courses in a broad range of specialties," Mazzocco said.

Nursing students were among the first and only students to utilize interactive video technology, which has improved access by off-campus students to educational offerings. Since 1992, the interactive classroom at Frostburg State University has linked nursing students to others at the Baltimore campus for some classes. On-site faculty teach the remaining classes.

For more information about the RN to BSN or MS nursing programs, area registered nurses may contact Gail Mazzocco at 301-777-9150, ext. 112.

Church Collects Needed Items For Homeless

The congregation of the Crellin Assembly of God Church recently completed a drive to collect needed items to help the homeless in Baltimore's inner city. The collection was delivered to the Highway and Hedges Ministry in Baltimore which, is an Assemblies of God ministry to the homeless.

According to a spokesperson, the Crellin church's 15 passenger van was "loaded down with the items collected, which included 69 coats, 27 blankets, 253 pairs of socks, 65 pairs of gloves, 62 toboggans and hats, 14 children's snowsuits, 25 complete toiletry kits, plus many other items."

Among the other items collected and shipped to Baltimore were sleeping bags, non-perishable food items and good, clean used clothing. Church members also contributed about $600 in cash to the ministry.

This was the first such drive for the homeless ministry, although cash contributions have been made in the past to the inner city organization, it was reported.

"Members of the congregation enjoyed the feeling of helping the less fortunate at this Thanksgiving time, as well as doing what the Bible admonishes, that what you have done for the least of these, you've done it unto Him," the spokesperson continued.

Pastor David Snodgrass and Missions Secretary Lila Decker coordinated the drive.

SHA Plans Road Repair Project Near Bloomington

The State Highway Administration (SHA) plans a road improvement project on Rt. 135 (Maryland Highway) at the intersection of Gemanell Avenue, just west of Bloomington, beginning in the spring of 1997.

According to an SHA spokesperson, the project, which covers one-quarter of a mile along Rt. 135, is necessary to stablize the roadway, improve the road surface, and enhance motorist safety. Work will include the removal of the portion of roadway prone to instability and slide problems, placement of rock fill, installation of underground drain systems, rebuilding the roadway base, and resurfacing.

During the construction project, lanes will be shifted to the north side of the highway. Concrete barriers, traffic cones, signs, and flagpersons will alert and guide motorists through the area, the spokesperson added.

SHA has awarded the $737,000 contract to I.A. Construction Corporation of Cumberland.

"SHA appreciates the public's patience and reminds motorists to reduce speeds and use caution when traveling through work zones," the spokesperson said.

THREE WISE MEN form the centerpiece of the hand-carved Christmas display that will be exhibited during December at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland. The display will also include carvings of Santa's arrival parade led by a marching military cadre. This three-dimensional season's greeting is the work of Oakland craftsman Bernie Ravitz. It is the second year that Ravitz has provided the library Christmas exhibit.

Teachers Attend Science Workshop In Cumberland

The Regional Education Service Agency in cooperation with Project CREST and the three county boards of education in Western Maryland sponsored a training session entitled "Advanced Calculator-Based Laboratory Workshop" recently at Allegany College of Maryland.

Twenty middle and high school math and science teachers from Allegany, Garrett, and Washington County school systems were in attendance along with science supervisors Karen Bundy, Allegany County Board of Education, and Dan McElrath, Washington County Board of Education. The science supervisors assisted throughout the day.

This workshop was a follow-up for teachers who attended last year's "Introduction to CBL Workshop" and others who had some knowledge of CBL and II calculators and were using them in their curriculum. Presenters at the workshops were teachers from each county who were trained previously.

The teacher-presenters demonstrated five CBL programs to the trainees, followed by concurrent hands-on sessions. Participants attended two sessions in the morning and two in the afternoon. This format allowed the teacher-presenters the opportunity to participate also.

Among the teacher-presenters was Garrett County teacher Liz Gilbert. "Veggie Volts" was the topic presented by Gilbert, a teacher at Swan Meadow School. Using a lemon battery, metals were ranked in order according to voltage produced, showing that fruits and vegetables have energy.

The lessons demonstrated by Gilbert and the other teachers will be replicated by workshop participants in their classrooms, according to Frank Petro, executive director of RESA.

Plans are underway for next year's CBL workshop for beginning teachers and the advanced CBL workshop. Funding for the advanced workshop this year was provided through the CREST Program, a federally funded effort through the Maryland Higher Education Commission and Prince George's Community College.

OBITUARIES

Former Supt. Of Garrett Co. Schools Dies

Willard Lee Hawkins, New Windsor, who served for 14 years as superintendent of schools in Garrett County, died Saturday, Nov. 23, 1996, at Carroll County General Hospital, Westminster. He was 91.

Born Aug. 1, 1905, in Sykesville, he was a son of the late Walter L. and Edna (Knox) Hawkins.

He is survived by his wife of 47 years, Anne (Baroniak) Hawkins; and one son, Dr. Willard L. Hawkins Jr., New Windsor.

Mr. Hawkins graduated from Western Maryland College in 1926 and received his master's degree from the University of Virginia in 1932. He studied law under the firm of Brown and Shipley, was admitted to the bar in 1936, and received his law degree from LaSalle Extension University. Most of his career was spent in the field of public education, and for a total of 28 years he was a high school principal at Winfield, New Windsor, Sykesville, Cambridge, and Bel Air, prior to coming to Garrett County. He retired from his post as superintendent of schools in 1968 and spent the remainder of his life on his farm in Carroll County.

During his career, he was an active leader in professional and civic affairs. He was president of the Secondary Principals Association of the state, and later became president of the State Organization of County School Superintendents.

While he was Garrett County school superintendem he was awarded a John Hay Fellowship for a month's study in the humanities at Colorado College. He was also selected as one of 60 school administrators nationwide for the Meet Modern Sweden Program which involved a six-week trip to that country.

He was a past president of the Westminster Kiwanis Club and the Rotary Club in Sykesville and Oakland. He was a member of the Trial Table Law Club; Plymouth Lodge 146 A.F.& A.M., Union Bridge; Carroll County Farm Bureau; the Carroll County Oldtimers Baseball Club; and Progressive Farmers of New Windsor which he organized many years ago. He was chairman of the Agricultural Business Group, a member of the Westminster United Methodist Church, and at one time was the mayor of the town of New Windsor. He served on the advisory board of the Carroll Community College, for which the current board of trustees named the board room the "Willard Hawkins Board Room" and also appointed him as a lifetime honorary board member.

A memorial service was held Tuesday, Nov. 26, at the Westminster United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Charles H. Acker Jr., pastor of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, New Windsor, and the Rev. David Highfield, his pastor, officiating. Private interment services will be held in Springfield Cemetery, Sykesville, at the convenience of his family. There was no visitation.

St. Paul's UMC Radio Ministry Returns to WMSG

The Sunday morning worship service at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, will again be broadcast over WMSG 1050 AM, beginning Dec. 1, according to a spokesperson for the administrative board of the church. The service, a long time tradition in the Oakland area, will be made available to the public thanks to the efforts of the board and the church's pastor, the Rev. Roger Harrison. Starting time for the broadcast is 10:45 a.m.

The 8:30 a.m. worship service at St. Paul's has also undergone a change, according to Rev. Harrison. It is now being offered as a more contemporary style or worship service, while the 10:45 a.m. service remains a traditional style which includes a children's worship service for those 5 years of age through the fifth grade.

"Because St. Paul's believes that children need a place to worship and experience God in their own special way, the children's service was developed," Rev. Harrison said.

In addition to the regular Sunday morning schedule, Bible studies are conducted each Sunday evening at 6 p.m., and new groups are forming on Mondays at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. A bus trip to the Holocaust Museum is also being planned, and space is still available.

For more information about any of the above events, persons may call the church office at 334-2391.

Turkey, Milk Prices Contribute To Higher Cost of Thanksgiving Dinner

Thanks largely to higher retail turkey and milk prices, Americans will have to dig a little deeper this year to purchase their family's traditional Thanksgiving dinner. Despite the increase, Americans still enjoy a relative bargain when it comes to the traditional holiday meal, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF).

In its annual survey of the price of basic items found on the Thanksgiving Day dinner table, Farm Bureau found that the average cost of this year's traditional holiday feast for 10--including turkey, cranberries, pumpkin pie and all the trimmings--will cost $31.66. That's a $2.02 increase from last year's $29.64 average.

While prices across the survey inched up this year, Americans should not forget how fortunate they are to reap the benefits of American agriculture, says Dean Kleckner, president of the nation's largest general farm organization.

"Americans will go to the dinner table this Thanksgiving knowing that their food is safe and of the highest quality," said Kleckner. "Thanks to the hard work of everyone involved in American agriculture, from farmers and ranchers who produce the food, to those who prepare it for the grocer's shelf, Americans continue to enjoy the most affordable, abundant food supply in the world. For that, we should all be thankful."

Turkey prices represent the sharpest increase from last year's survey. A 16-pound bird cost survey shoppers an average of $13.46--84 cents per pound. The increase was 78 cents per bird from last year's average.

Mark Jenner, economist and poultry meat specialist with the American Farm Bureau, says high grain prices of the past year and changing consumer habits contribute to the higher turkey prices.

"A number of market factors, including the increased cost of production, a shift in consumer demand for whole turkey and the processors' whole-turkey price strategy, has led to the rise in turkey prices at the supermarket," said Jenner. "Whole-turkey supplies are up and traditional whole-bird demand is down, but processors are employing a price strategy to recoup higher production costs."

A gallon of whole milk costs $2.60, a 31-cent jump from a year ago. Decreased production because of high feed costs for producers and growing consumer demand contributed to the price increase.

The AFBF shopping list includes turkey, stuffing, sweet potatoes, rolls with butter, peas, cranberries, a relish tray of carrots and celery, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and beverages of coffee or milk.

Of the 12 items included on the survey, 10 increased in price from a year ago. Turkey and milk prices increased sharply, but other increases on the survey were more modest. A 30-ounce can of pumpkin pie mix cost $1.50, up 14 cents; a half-pint carton of whipping cream, 87 cents, up 13 cents; one combined pound of celery and carrots, 71 cents, up 10 cents; three pounds of sweet potatoes, $1.82, up 9 cents; a package of two, nine-inch frozen pie shells, $1.38, up 9 cents; a 12-ounce package of brown-and-serve rolls, $1.25, up 1 cent; and a 12-ounce package of fresh cranberries, $1.96, up 1 cent.

A combined group of miscellaneous items, including coffee and ingredients necessary to prepare the meal (onions, eggs, sugar, flour, evaporated milk and butter) costs $2.80, a 48-cent increase from last year's survey. Most of that increase was due to higher butter prices.

One listed item on this year's survey decreased in price. A 14-ounce package of cubed stuffing cost $2.27, down 12 cents. A 16-ounce package of frozen peas remained unchanged at $1.04.

The $31.66 figure represents the highest average price, toppling last year's mark. It was also the fifth straight year that prices have increased. Prices of past surveys include: 1995-$29.64; 1994-$28.40; 1993-$27.49; 1992-$26.39; 1991-$25.95; 1990-$28.85; 1989-$24.70; 1988-$26.61; 1987-$24.51; 1986-$28.74.

While the Farm Bureau survey is unscientific, prices tend to reflect actual trends across the nation. Smart shoppers in all areas of the country should be able to purchase the items at a price comparable to the Farm Bureau survey. Supermarkets in some areas offer ready-to-eat Thanksgiving meals to up to 10 people, with all the trimmings, for less than $40.

Eighty-eight shoppers from 34 states and the District of Columbia participated in this year's Thanksgiving meal survey. The results are based on the best in-store price, excluding special coupon deals and purchase requirements. Farm Bureau's survey menu has remained constant since 1986 to allow for valid price comparisons.

Farming In Maryland.....

Fresh Turkeys Available For The Holidays

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley urges all consumers to consider buying a locally produced fresh turkey directly from a Maryland farm for their Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday dinners.

"If you have never gone to a farm to purchase a turkey for the holidays you are in for a real treat. The quality, freshness and price are all excellent. In addition, going directly to the farm is a tremendous family outing," Riley said.

Delicious, plump, fresh dressed turkeys may be purchased from the Maryland turkey producers listed with the state. In Garrett County, they can be purchased from James H. Glotfelty, 6321 Rock Lodge Road, Accident, MD, or call 245-4345. The farm has tom turkeys from 25 to 30 pounds and hens from 18 to 22 pounds.

Firewood Should Be Sold By The Cord, Says MDA

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley reminds all citizens that when they purchase firewood this fall, they should make certain that the wood is sold by the "cord." The Maryland Department of Agriculture's Weights and Measures Section regulates the sale of firewood and according to Maryland Law, wood sold for use as fuel can only be advertised, offered for sale and sold, by measure using the term cord and fractional parts of a cord.

"Many terms commonly used in selling firewood are meaningless. Such terms as truckload, arm full, face cord, rack or pile should immediately arouse suspicions of the customer. They are all illegal under Maryland Law," Riley said.

A cord, on the other hand, has a precise legal definition. It is the amount of wood that is contained in a space of 128 cubic feet, when the wood is ranked and well stowed. Ranked and well stowed means that the pieces of wood are placed in a line or row, with individual pieces touching and parallel to each other and stacked in a compact manner. Cubic feet is calculated by multiplying the width of the stack by its height by its length.

According to Lou Straub, chief of Weights and Measures, it is important that when the consumer accepts bulk delivery of firewood, the order comes with a delivery ticket. The law requires that all bulk sales of firewood have a delivery ticket containing the vendor's name and address, the quantity of wood delivered, the cost of the wood, the type of the wood, a signature of the person who determined the quantity of the wood delivered and the license number that identifies the vehicle that transported the wood.

"If the seller does not offer a delivery ticket, ask for one. An honest salesman will not object to supplying this information," Straub said.

Straub urges all Marylanders to use caution and common sense in purchasing firewood.

For more information on the sale of firewood in Maryland, those interested may contact the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Weights and Measures Section at (410) 841-5790.

Tax Planning Workshops Set For Md. Farmers

Proper tax planning for farmers is just as important as the management techniques used to grow a profitable crop or produce profitable livestock and animal products.

This advice applies especially to Maryland crop farmers, whose predicted higher-than-normalincomes for 1996 will create new management problems, according to Wesley N. Musser, farm management specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland at College Park.

To help farmers make decisions now for managing their 1996 income taxes due next April 15, Dr. Musser has scheduled a series of nine tax management programs around the state. All meetings are free and open to the public.

Two programs were held Monday, November 25, one in the Queen Anne's Fire Hall on Maryland's Eastern Shore, and one at the Southern Maryland Association of Realtors building in Hughesville.

The other seven meetings are scheduled during December, including one in Garrett County on December 19. The meeting will be held at the Garrett County Extension office at 202 South Third Street in Oakland, from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The contact person is Jim Simms, Extension agricultural agent. He can be reached at (301) 334-1990.

Corn And Soybean Production Up

According to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service, soybean production, forecast at 16.3 million bushels, will be up 39 percent from 1995 if November 1 expectations are realized. The soybean yield is expected to average 34 bushels per acre on the 480,000 acres forecast for harvest statewide.

Corn for grain in Maryland is expected to average a record high 132 bushels per acre compared to the 105 bushels per acre in 1995. If November 1 expectations are realized, farmers will harvest 465,000 acres of corn, and production will total 61.4 million bushels, 46 percent more than the 42.0 million bushels harvested in the state during 1995.

Weather was favorable throughout the growing season. Rain was consistent without extended periods of excessive soil moisture for most of the state. Those areas which received above normal precipitation did not get enough rain to lower the state average for crop yields.

Tobacco production for 1996 is forecast at 12.0 million pounds, five percent more than last year. Tobacco is expected to yield 1,500 pounds per acre if expectations are realized.

Based on conditions across the United States as of November 1, corn for grain production is forecast at 9.27 billion bushels, 26 percent above the 1995 total. This is the third largest production on record behind 1994 and 1992. The yield is forecast at 126.5 bushels per acre, 13.0 bushels higher than last year. Acreage harvested and to be harvested for grain is forecast at 73.3 million acres. Forecasted yields increased in all the major corn producing states due to favorable fall weather conditions. Soybean production is forecast at 2.40 billion bushels as of November 1, up 10 percent from 1995. This is the second largest production on record behind 1994. The yield is forecast at 37.9 bushels per acre, 2.6 bushels above 1995. Yield potential improved with nearly ideal weather conditions late in the growing season.

Farmers' Prices Down In October

Prices received by Maryland and Delaware farmers were down for the month of October. There were price declines from September for all commodities except barley, calves, and hogs. At the U.S. level, prices were mostly down as well.

"Got Milk?" Ad Remains In Mind Of Consumers

Dairy farmers' "got milk?" TV advertising is still the most popular milk advertising ever--in fact, recall levels of the slogan have climbed to 79 percent of teens and 66 percent of adults age 18-34. Awareness of milk advertising in general is at 87 percent among teens and adults.

A new series of "got milk?" ads, designed to continue the momentum and drive demand, began airing this fall.

Md. Couple Off On Cruise Powered By Wind And SoyDiesel

It's the dream vacation many of us wish we could take, and a Salisbury couple is going.

Capt. Jim MacNeil and "first mate" Rebecca Payne were scheduled to leave the waters of the Wicomico River on or about November 25, weather permitting, on a two-year sail from Maryland's Eastern Shore to the Florida Keys, Puerto Rico, and the Carribean and the Virgin Islands.

While underway, the sailing yacht "Beyond" will be powered with clean-burning biodiesel, blended with petroleum diesel, in its 44 horsepower Yanmar engine. The biodiesel in this project is marketed under the trade name "BioBoost" and donated through the Maryland Soybean Board and biodiesel manufacturer, NOPEC Corp. of Lakeland, Fla. Soy-based biodiesel is a nontoxic and biodegradable diesel fuel made from soybean oil which helps diesel engines run cooler, reduces emissions, and makes exhaust smell better.

"They tell me that, at higher blends, it smells like french fries frying," says Capt. MacNeil, who gives his age at "20-10."

"If that's true, it's going to be a long way between McDonald's for us," he jokes.

The voyage will help promote use of the fuel, which was developed with soybean checkoff dollars. Each time a bushel of soybeans is sold, a portion of the price is set aside, or "checked off," into a fund for research, marketing and education.

The pair has been readying the ketch, on which they have lived for four years. "Beyond" is a 41-foot CT built for ocean cruising. The couple's cat, Brewser, will be cruising with them. It's the second long-distance voyage for Brewser--a four-month "shakedown" cruise to the Florida Keys last year proved the feline seaworthy.

MacNeil, who is licensed as a U.S. Coast Guard captain, says he decided to purchase and live on Beyond because it's "cheap transportation to the islands."

He purchased Beyond in 1988 on the west coast of Panama and sailed her home through the Panama Canal. Everything he's done in his life, he says, has been to enable him to take such a cruise.

MacNeil grew up sailing with his father, Hugh MacNeil of Ocean City. He acquired his captain's license to be able to offer private charters as a second income while saving for the big trip. Up until November 1, he had been a technician with Martek Inc., an Ocean City company which installs and repairs sophisticated marine electronics.

"I think it's a flawed gene," MacNeil admits. "I've always wanted to take this cruise, and to do it right. Now, thanks to the Maryland Soybean Board and NOPEC, we've got a fuel that's going to make my diesel smell better and run cooler for the times when I'm not under sail."

MacNeil and Payne, who is a 25-year-old certified public accountant, will file regular reports on their experience with "B20," as the 20 percent biodiesel blend is known, over the duration of the cruise.

More than a million road miles have been logged under biodiesel. In 1992, an Iowan began a one-year, 52,000-mile voyage around the world in a 24-foot Zodiac Hurricane powered by "neat"--100 percent--biodiesel. Brian Peterson and the Sunrider made headlines around the world.

"We'd like to make a few headlines of our own to continue to spread the word about biodiesel," MacNeil says. "It's nontoxic and biodegradable, which makes it excellent for the marine environment . . . and it's good for your engine. To me, it just makes common sense to use it."

For more information about BioBoost, interested persons may call NOPEC Corp. at (888) 296-6732.

Soybean Harvest On Schedule

Soybean harvest moved forward, and was just ahead of the five-year average.

Harvest of corn for grain moved closer to completion, and continued to run ahead of the five-year average.

Small grain seeding was nearing completion. Wheat progress moved forward, and was right on the five-year average. Some areas were experiencing delays in germination due to the cool weather. Wheat condition was four percent poor, 25 percent fair, 66 percent good, and five percent excellent. The barley crop was 25 percent fair, 73 percent good, and two percent excellent. Rye seeding continued, and was just behind the average. Rye was one percent poor, 20 percent fair, 76 percent good, and three percent excellent.

Haymaking for the season was virtually over. Pastures were three percent poor, 27 percent fair, 65 percent good, and five percent excellent. Hay supplies varied statewide, but were mostly adequate overall.

Tobacco stripping moved forward, but was still behind average.

Milk Sales In United States Up For 1996

According to figures released from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, sales of packaged fluid milk are up 0.7 percent for the first six months of 1996, compared to the first six months of 1995.

In addition, the data reveal that sales of whole milk have stabilized, after two decades of declining sales. Meanwhile, sales of 1% and skim milk continue to grow as consumers appear to move from 2% to these lower fat and nonfat varieties.

USDA figures, reflecting 91 percent of fluid milk sales nationwide, peg sales for January-June at 25.4 billion pounds, a change of 0.7 percent from January-June 1995. If fluid milk sales continue to grow at this rate for the remainder of 1996, total sales will reach 55.4 billion pounds--the largest amount ever consumed and the largest year-to-year increase for fluid milk sales since 1989.

Whole milk sales totaled 8.9 billion pounds for the January-June period, up 0.3 percent from the previous year's period. Lowfat and skim milk items together totaled 16.5 billion pounds for the period, up one percent.

In USDA figures released through May, 2% milk showed some decline in sales (-2.7 percent) from the previous year's January-May period. Sales of 1% milk, on the other hand, were up 2.4 percent, while sales of skim milk were up 8.8 percent for the same period.

Funding Found To Give Maryland Vet Pathologist

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) and the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine (VMRCVM) have signed a cooperative agreement to jointly fund a position for an anatomical pathologist. The individual who fills the position will divide his/her time between MDA's Frederick Animal Health Laboratory and the VMRCVM's Marion duPont Scott Equine Medical Center in Leesburg, Va.

The cooperative agreement is another example of how those in agriculture are working together with universities and across state lines to provide essential services to the agriculture industry. In times of budgetary restraints, it is more important than ever to seek innovative ways to increase our effectiveness in support of agriculture. I applaud the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine for joining forces with us to protect animal and public health in our region," Riley said.

Under terms of the cooperative agreement, an anatomical pathologist will be hired immediately and will participate in the clinical instruction of fourth year veterinary students, research and the coordination of gross anatomical exams (necropsy) of various animal species' carcasses.

Dr. Peter Lyre, dean of the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine and Secretary Riley formally signed the cooperative agreement at a brief ceremony at the Maryland Department of Agriculture November 14. Both men agreed that this venture would strengthen the bond between MDA and VMRCVM, including the Avrum Gudelsky Veterinarian Center at the University of Maryland at College Park.

"I believe that his cooperative agreement will be a precedent for other larger joint ventures," Riley said.

For more information on the cooperative agreement for joint funding for an anatomical pathologist, interested persons may contact Dr. Roger F. Olson, State Veterinarian, Maryland Department of Agriculture, (410) 841-5810.

Maryland Sends Chicken Hot Dogs To Russia

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that two Maryland food companies have combined forces to produce chicken hot dogs and export them for sale to Russia. The two companies are Allen Poultry Company and Park Sausage.

"This is another example of the ever increasing demand around the world for our value added food products. I am pleased to see that more and more Maryland food companies are producing for this market. This means dollars for the Maryland economy," Riley said.

The two truck loads of chicken hot dogs containing 3,260 cases were shipped by refrigerated vessel from the Port of Baltimore to St. Petersburg, Russia, during the third week in November.

"I believe there is an opportunity for many of our state's poultry companies to benefit from this expanded world wide demand for chicken hot dogs," said Riley.

In recent years, the Maryland Department of Agriculture's International Marketing Section has worked with a wide variety of Maryland food manufacturers to sell their products in the international marketplace through export seminars, trade shows and trade missions. In addition to poultry, other examples include salsa, muffins, wine, ice cream and livestock.

For more information on the exporting of Maryland food products, those interested may contact Errol Small, Maryland Department of Agriculture, International Marketing, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, or call (410) 841-5770.

Mathew Nicholas Among Who's Who

Matthew J. Nicholas, a junior at Westmar High School, has been named to the list of Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Students named to Who's Who are selected by high school principals and guidance counselors, national youth groups, and churches, based upon a student's performance in academics and extra curricular activities. Some 99 percent of the honorees have a grade point average of B or better and 97 percent are college-bound. Only about five percent of the nation's approximately 12 million students are selected.

Matthew is a member of the Westmar football team and a member of the Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church Youth Group. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Nicholas, Swanton.

I'm Free

Don't grieve for me, for now I'm free
I'm following the path laid for me
I took His hand when I heard I am call
I turned my back and left it all.
I could not stay another day,
To laugh, to love, to work, or play
If parting has left a void,
Then fill it with remembered joy.
A friendship shared, a laugh, a kiss,
Ah yes, these things I too will miss.

Be not burdened with times of sorrow;
I wish you the sunshine of tomorrow;
My life's been full, I've savored much;
Good friends, good times, a loved one's touch.
Perhaps my time seemed all too brief;
Don't lengthen it now with undue grief.
Lift up your heart and share with me,
God wanted me now; He set me free.

PMH Welcomes New OB/GYN To Medical Staff

Preston Memorial Hospital has announced the addition of Thomas L. Harman, M.D., OB/GYN, to its medical staff. Dr. Harman, who is also a member of the OB/GYN faculty at West Virginia University, specializes in gyn laparoscopy and pelvic pain, but will be available for all patients with gynecologic problems.

As a surgeon, Dr. Harman describes himself as a "minimalist." "I like working with the laparoscope because it allows me to make very small incisions and most women can go home the same day they have their procedures," he said. "For several years I have been seeing patients from all over the state – Kingwood, Elkins, Grafton, and even Oakland, Md. It seemed a sensible thing to open an office closer to my patients."

A native of northern Ohio, Dr. Harman currently lives at Cheat Lake with his wife, Patsy, and three sons. For the past 20 years he has called West Virginia home, living in Roane and Monongalia counties. He received his medical training at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio.

Dr. Harman spends his spare time as a carpenter, musician, an emergency medical technician (EMT), and a band instrument repairman.

AMY J. THAYER

Lindsay Stanton, principal of Loch Lynn Elementary School, has announced the addition of Amy J. Thayer to the teaching staff. Thayer is employed part-time as a math resource teacher in the Title I program.

A graduate of Southern High School, Thayer earned an AA degree at Garrett Community College and a BA degree from Frostburg State University where she is currently enrolled in a master's program in Instructional Technology.

Her student teaching assignments were completed at Broad Ford Elementary where she taught third grade under the supervision of Lori Heginbotham, and at Route 40 Elementary, where she worked with Betty Smith's fifth grade class. She served for several years as a substitute teacher for the Garrett County Board of Education and has worked in several special programs in county schools such as the Family Connection and Enrichment Clusters programs. As a graduate assistant, she served as an intern computer resource teacher in various schools in the county under the direction of Charles Trautwein in addition to working in the computer lab at Frostburg State University. She has also given presentations at many conferences and staff development sessions throughout the state.

Stanton described Thayer as "a tireless worker whose love of math and enthusiasm for teaching have influenced many students."

According to a school spokesperson, when asked to describe Thayer, students have used such words as fun. One student was quoted as saying, "Whenever she teaches math she makes it fun and easy." Another added, "I like the way Mrs. Thayer teaches math. Ever since she's been my math teacher, I've been doing better in math."

Stanton added that she is pleased to have Amy on the staff this year.

Thayer resides in Oakland with her husband, Tommy, and two children, Lindsay and Samantha. She is the daughter of Mrs. Jean Gosnell, also of Oakland.

LIONS RECOGNIZED FOR 10 YEARS OF SERVICE - Ed King and Alex Mahood, both members of the Deep Creek Lions Club, recently received pins in recognition of 10 years of service to the organization. Comp. Goldstein Predicts Strong Holiday Sales

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein told the state tax committee of the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants that Maryland's economy has recovered from the slow first quarter of calendar year 1996 and predicted a 4.7% increase in sales taxes resulting from holiday sales this year. He made the projection in a Baltimore meeting with the CPAs on November 26, as Marylanders geared up for one of the busiest holiday shopping weekends of the year.

Goldstein based his prediction of improved holiday retail activity on increased consumer confidence supported by solid wage gains, good employment prospects and the record setting stock market. "In preparing new revenue estimates we will present to the governor in December, we shared our analysis with members of our Business Advisory Panel, who represent more than a dozen different sectors of the Maryland economy," Goldstein said. "They have concurred with our view of Maryland's economic prospects.

"In early January 1996, we faced federal government shutdowns and severe winter storms, which lead to a weak first quarter in Maryland," Goldstein said.

"But by the spring, consumer confidence picked up as employment gains strengthened and construction began on major projects, including two stadiums and several retail and warehouse facilities. All of these factors will keep consumer confidence levels high and result in a strong holiday season for Maryland retailers. We expect sales and use tax revenue to increase by 4.7% for the months of November and December this year over last year -- generating more than $290 million in consumer sales and use tax revenue alone.

"That's considerably better than the 1.8% increase seen last holiday season, but is more restrained than the robust 6.3% increase during the 1994 holiday season," he said.

Total sales and use tax revenue for the month of October, reflecting September sales, was $176.6 million, up 2.7% over the same month a year ago. Construction materials posted the strongest growth in October sales and use tax revenues. October sales and use tax receipts in the building and contractors category totaled $25.1 million, up 13.7% over the same month a year ago. The capital goods category yielded $19.1 million, a 2.9% increase over October, 1995.

For the July-September 1996 period, sales and use tax receipts totaled $518 million, up nearly 4% over the $498 million collected for the same time period the year before. The categories which showed the biggest improvement over last year were the building and contractors, and general merchandise categories.

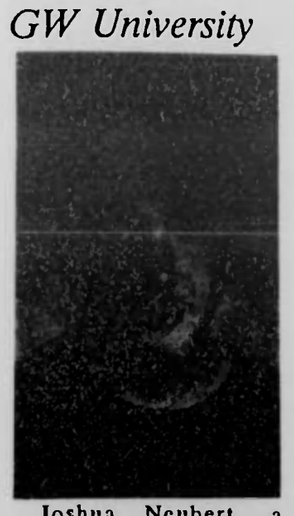
Neubert Attends Mars Event At GW University



Joshua Neubert, a 10th-grade student at Northern High School, recently attended a scientific symposium on the campus of George Washington University in Washington, DC. "Life in the Universe: What Might Martian Fossils Tell Us?" took place on November 22 and was sponsored by the Space Policy Institute at GW, the National Space Society and the Planetary Society. Neubert is a member of the latter two organizations.

"Life in the Universe" was a major symposium about the cultural, intellectual, theological, and policy implications of evidence of possible fossils of ancient life forms from Mars. President Bill Clinton, at the time of the announcement of the Mars findings, asked Vice President Al Gore to convene a "space summit on the future of America's space program." The symposium provided an opportunity for the public to express itself about an appropriate response to the Mars meteorite findings prior to the White House summit.

An additional topic was the apparent finding of Martian life forms by British researchers acting independently from American scientists, and subsequent to the organization of the symposium.

A capacity audience included individuals from numerous universities (MIT, Johns Hopkins, the University of Pennsylvania, Georgetown, the University of Maryland, GW, and others), various branches of the military, NASA, other government agencies, and private industry. The all-day symposium provided speakers from NASA, MIT, GW, the Naval Observatory, DePaul University, American University, the former director of the Space Research Institute in Moscow, authors, journalists, an economist, the Embassy of Egypt, and the two sponsoring societies. Topics varied from "How Will We Know That The Findings Are Valid?" to religious and philosophical implications.

GW established a Space Policy Institute in July 1987. The institute conducts research on space policy issues, organizes seminars, symposia, and conferences on various topics and offers graduate courses on space policy. It operates as a constituent element of the Center for International Science and Technology Policy of GW's Elliott School of International Affairs.

"The National Space Society's (NSS) vision is people living and working in thriving communities beyond the Earth. Members promote change in social, technical, economic and political conditions to advance the day when people will live and work in space," said an NSS spokesperson.

The Planetary Society is devoted to the exploration of the solar system and the search for extraterrestrial life. With 100,000 members in over 100 countries, it makes up the largest space interest group in the world.

All three sponsors of the symposium have Internet Web sites which can provide a large amount of additional information regarding this event and space exploration in general. Each site provides numerous links to other space-related sites.

Neubert has had an interest in space science for several years. He has taken an astronomy course at Frostburg State University, attended Astronomy Camp through the University of Arizona in Tucson, participated in Space Camp and Academy in Huntsville, Ala., is a member of a Cumberland astronomy club, attends the planetarium shows at Frostburg, and on a clear night can be found in his family's yard peering through his telescope. Neubert is an honor student at Northern, a member of the soccer and basketball teams, and recipient of numerous awards (including Minds in Motion, High Honor Roll, and 2nd place Regional Science Fair). After graduation from Northern, he intends to major in astronomy and become a professional astronomer. Neubert resides in Grantsville with his parents, Cathy and John Neubert.

ROSE TERRACE Senior Assisted Housing residents have enjoyed flowers and vegetable plants, thanks to donations from Green Acres, Treasure Island, Agway, Julie's Greenhouse, and Pleasant Valley Nursery. Pictured above, Crystal Colaw, top, and Luella Brown, both Rose Terrace residents, appreciated the plants. AmeriCorps members did the arranging and planting for these gardens, which greatly inspired the Rose Terrace residents, and they thank all those who helped make this happen.

Rural Community Fire Protection Monies Awarded

Volunteer fire departments from across the state of Maryland submitted requests for funding this year through the U.S. Department of Agriculture - Forest Service, under the Rural Community Fire Protection Program. In 1996, the Rural Community Fire Protection Program was funded on the national level with approximately $2 million, and Maryland received a total of $19,800.00. These funds were distributed to 29 volunteer fire departments. This year a cap was placed on the allocation per company of $758.00. In the four western counties of the state, $8,199.75 was distributed to 12 fire companies. Three companies in Garrett County - Oakland, Accident, and Friendsville - received funding under this program this year.

"The Rural Community Fire Protection Program is designed to assist volunteer fire companies in protecting human life, livestock, wildlife, crops, orchards, farms or other improvements, and other values in rural areas," said a forest service spokesperson. The criteria for receiving funding is based on a point system. Some of the points are allocated according to the degree of protection in the company's locality, necessary equipment requirements, the amount of funding received previously, and need.

BIG BROTHERS & BIG SISTERS ARE MAKING A DIFFERENCE ONE CHILD AT A TIME..

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL TEACHER

REASONS I GOT INVOLVED:
I like children and I had extra time to devote to helping someone. I would only be able to do this if I had a house to bring a "Little" home to, so the staff found me a home! It was a win-win situation.

AFTER A YEAR AND THREE MONTHS, WHAT DOES SHE SAY?
Veronica's wonderful. I've enjoyed all our time together. She is not just my "Little Sister," she's my friend.

LITTLE SISTER, RONNIE, SAYS:
I just love Sandy. She has really been there for me during the tough times.

THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

SMOKEY'S FOREST FIRE PREVENTION TEAM

We are happy to announce that after several years of hibernation, Smokey Bear and the forest fire prevention message that he stands for is "coming back to town." We had hoped that the forest service would be in a position to bring him back by ourselves, but conditions that forced ol' Smokey to take a needed vacation have not changed. We have no option but to turn to alternative resources in order to accomplish this revival. If we don't, there's no doubt in our minds that we will see an increase in the number of forest fires, and that is usually followed by an increase in structure fires. We do not want this to happen in Garrett County.

We would therefore like to announce our new program featuring the Smokey's Forest Fire Prevention Team. This program will have volunteers taking Smokey to schools and parades. Volunteers will be trained in what to do and how to act when either accompanying Smokey to various activities, or when being inside the costume. Volunteers will be used for both needs. We will be soliciting help from anyone in the county, and this may include lay personnel, retired school teachers, and/or members of any civic organization. Our first preference, however, is for volunteers in the fire service. We think the partnership is a natural, and the exposure would be great. Who better to help get the forest fire prevention message across?

Our target is to take Smokey to all second grades in Garrett County. We would like to get enough volunteers so that each one would only have to visit the school in their community once each year. We would like to see Smokey in every parade, and with volunteers from each company there should be no burden on any one person.

If you have any member that would like to be a part of the revival of Smokey, and become a member of Smokey's Forest Fire Prevention Team, please have them contact the Mt. Nebo office for an application.. We would like to have the applicants selected by early January and trained and available for schools by the middle of February. If there are any questions, call the Mt. Nebo office at 301 - 334 -3296.

Denny's Restaurant & WKHJ Radio
Proudly Announce The November M.V.P.

Tom Massi

KHJ Radio and Denny's Restaurant congratulate Tom Massi of Mtn. Lake Park, the November M.V.P. award winner. Tom has been selected because he gives his time easily and without compensation to those in need. Since retirement, Tom has worked on several projects to improve St. Peter's Catholic Church. Instead of a leisurely retirement, he has used his skills and time to better the church. Tom has also been a constant and valuable companion to a friend who is fighting cancer. While he is under no obligation to do so, Tom has transported his friend many times to needed treatments down state. He has quietly become a guardian angel to his friends and members of the congregation. Tom is a gentle man, devoted to his wife and family as well as community and church. While he is not accustomed to the limelight, we take great pride in acknowledging his kind heart and gentle spirit.

Tom Massi, you surely are a most valuable person!

As an M.V.P. Tom will be awarded
* An official Denny's/KHJ M.V.P. Plaque
* A $100 U.S. Savings Bond
* A $50 Denny's Gift Certificate
* An on-air salute on KHJ 98.9 FM

If you know someone, young or old, who has demonstrated random acts of kindness, shown courage against adversity, or has made a special effort to be a positive role model to others...we'd like to know about it. Send entries to WKHJ, P.O. Box 2337, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550, or FAX to 301-334-2152, or drop it off at Denny's in Oakland. Be sure to include your name and phone number as well as the name and number of your M.V.P. nominee.
